HOME RULE

NOMINATIONS

Nominations for Iowa City's home rule charter-writing committee will be proposed at a public meeting which begins at 8:30 p.m. today in the South East, Junior High School cafeteria. The meeting is sponsored by Action in Better Community (ABC). The ABC spokesman, Dr. D. Vaughn and political science professor at the University of Iowa, will tell the audience that the meetings are informational and that no firm opinions should be formed. Mr. Vaughn states that the purpose of the meeting is to inform the public and to answer questions. Mr. Vaughn says that the audience is encouraged to bring their questions to this meeting. He also mentions that there will be a meeting on November 7th, which will cover the same subject. Mr. Vaughn emphasizes that the meetings are intended to be educational and to provide an opportunity for the public to ask questions and learn more about the home rule charter. The meetings are open to the public and are free of charge.

Koop

FRED KOOP of Los Angeles, medical resident at the University of California, San Francisco, and one of the doctors who performed the first heart transplant, will be in Iowa City this week. Koop is scheduled to speak at an event sponsored by the American Heart Association. The event will feature a panel discussion on heart disease and its prevention, with Koop serving as the moderator. The event is open to the public and will be held at the Iowa City Public Library. Koop is known for his work in heart research and transplantation, and his visit to Iowa City is an opportunity for the community to learn more about these important medical topics. The event will be an informative and engaging experience for all attendees.

Hancher tickets; a fair deal

There has been a lot of discussion about the method of ticket distribution for Hancher events. Some feel that the “first come, first served” method of deciding which students should get tickets is unfair. The idea is that students should be able to buy all the tickets in the time before they were made available to the general public. With significantly higher prices, the lines for tickets would be much longer. It is conceivable that students could buy all the tickets in a unique way.

Is the alternative way of distributing tickets better? With all the lines of discrimination as to which students should get the tickets, it is conceivable that students could buy all the tickets in the time before they were made available to the general public. And that’s not all, students tickets are also cheaper.

But what about the way tickets are distributed to students? Is the “first come, first served” method of distributing tickets better? It is conceivable that students could buy all the tickets in the time before they were made available to the general public. And that’s not all, students tickets are also cheaper.

If the present method of “first come, first served” with its lines of discrimination as to which students should get tickets probably would be a lot shorter. For alleged line problems, Mrs. Bacon disagreed with the report that many people have been cutting into the lines for tickets for the other event commemorating Hancher Auditorium.

The need for changes after May is what worries some. Then again, Berkeley's Health Clinic is also available, but they are too crowded and understaffed.

If you are interested in more information on the topic, please contact the Student Health Clinic. They should be given enough credit for their work. Iowa City continues to grow—if the non-student population can be included.

Senator Sparkman raking in his share of the booty

WASHINGTON—For the special interest campaign in post election, they are expected to show their Affiliate for political favors by promising patronage for their host. In the past of the special interest campaign, the boot has always been paid from the purse of the Senator. Last week, Senator Sparkman, a Democrat, paid $3,000 to his close friend, John More, for services rendered. The $3,000 was paid to John More for his efforts in the special interest campaign in Alabama. Senator Sparkman has been a close friend of John More for several years. In fact, the two men have been inseparable for many years. Senator Sparkman has been known to make large contributions to political campaigns, and John More has been a beneficiary of these contributions.

Consider the large campaign contributions that the bootleggers and politicians have made for the special interest campaign. For example, in Alabama, Senator Sparkman has made contributions of $5,000 to the Democratic Party, and John More has made contributions of $10,000 to the Republican Party. These contributions are in addition to the contributions made by the bootleggers and politicians to other political candidates and parties.

In conclusion, the special interest campaign in post election is a major factor in political campaigns. The bootleggers and politicians are expected to show their Affiliate for political favors by promising patronage for their host. This is a major reason why the special interest campaign is so important in political campaigns.
"Training Wheels" on the road

Bootsie wheelies

It was a black sign that read "Day: Chicago" when Warren Ellers left. Ellers and my experiencer realized that, with transportation links to the east coast now going to materialize, the time had come to try out a direct trip around September 1.

Ellers had been in Los Angeles, and we now disagreed as to getting to the east, that it was cheaper to the west and around and then to California.

What had been a 1,000 mile trip had become a 1,000 mile road trip. We left Chicago on the 15th and rode through all of the other major cities in the country, including some in the south. We spent two nights in Los Angeles, two nights in Las Vegas, and one night in New Orleans.

We are now a rare species in infield. We keep getting talked about in a field. As our little group, we are now known as the "Bootsie Wheelies." We are the only thing left of the original group that was called "Gang." It seems that our group has almost been cut off from the original group.

I enjoyed being with "Gang" before we parted ways, and I am glad that we were able to spend some time together. I am sure we will see each other again soon.

Today, Skogan revoked his earlier call on a far from Iowa's 14-play, 150-yard fourth-quarter drive to end the game. The Hawkeyes had the ball at the 18-yard line, and Skogan said he was still being fumigated in the lateness of the afternoon. The decision to run is based on the lateness of the day and the lateness of the season.
