Trudeau

(ITEA) (AP)—Pierre Trudeau promised Thursday night to fight to the bitter end in the showing closer election campaign, the Prime Minister-elect said, as he prepared to rule.

On the other hand, a Liberal downtown campaign event on Thursday night, by one of the Liberal’s two main targets, was described as a “wanton droning.”

The Senator when quizzed about his alleged having a “bad time” at Grenville Street, noted that the party is not a “money-making” organization.

In his speech in Ottawa, the Senator took the time to highlight the party’s strong showing in the northwestern Ontario riding of Thunder Bay.

This is a,” Trudeau added, “a time to build bridges, not to build walls. This is a time to work together, not to divide ourselves. This is a time to unite, not to separate.

Trudeau added that the party will continue to fight for the future of this country, for the future of all Canadians.

Food prices

WASHINGTON (AP)–Average wholesale prices of food, industrial raw materials and construction materials were up 0.5% in March, but overall producer prices declined 0.2% for the first time in a year, the government reported Thursday.

The Labor Department’s index of wholesale prices, excluding food and energy, dropped 0.3% the report said.

Crime

WASHINGTON (AP)–A study prepared for the Justice Department by a university’s multidisciplinary program to fight crime says that the nation’s police don’t have a clear understanding of the problem or perceive it as a serious issue.

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said the study “raises questions about the ability of the Federal Administration, the federal agency that coordinates the department’s efforts against crime, generally to follow the will of the people and to generate effective crime fighting policies.

Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP)–President Nixon Thursday threatened to use military force in Vietnam if the government could not be convinced of his policies.

Sen. John M. Stennis, D-Miss., said Thursday night to hang on as prime minister this month.

Running to make Small listen

By Chuck Helman
Associated News Editor

Mid-term examinations determine tomorrow an earnest present evening of University of Iowa students and faculty, as they make their way to a place to sit and talk, or stand and listen, Dave Strader, A.11, handset in hand, and head held erect, as he conversed with two friends about the upcoming elections.

While others turned to books, Strader, head held high and arm extended, looking for a place to listen and talk, "Three of my friends went around yesterday to canvass the campus for signatures," Strader said. "I just turned my campaign into this." Strader, a junior in political science, is running for the seat in the Iowa House of Representatives, 73rd district.

Despite numerous potential candidates in the district, Strader said he will continue to campaign and will be in Des Moines Sunday night to endorse the goal of the Legislative Council for Quality Sound and to listen and talk to several candidates.

Charges

Charges against Strader include a complaint relating to the exchange of money, the sale of false campaign materials, and the violation of election laws. Strader said he will continue to campaign and will be in Des Moines Sunday night to endorse the goal of the Legislative Council for Quality Sound and to listen and talk to several candidates.

Meetings

The University of Iowa's football team, the Hawkeyes, will perform several times in Iowa City and the university will continue to advertise their home games.

Editor's note: Today's Equal Time was taken from the conservative newspaper, Human Rights.

While the major news of the political week has been the impact of the Vietnam experience, the growing concern of American workers, students, and intellectuals has been the determination of the new government on South Vietnam.

The United States, in its attempts to prevent a Communist takeover of South Vietnam, has been supplying the South Vietnamese government with billions of dollars in aid. This aid has been used to finance the South Vietnamese military, and to buy American weapons. In addition, the United States has been providing economic assistance to South Vietnam, in the form of loans and grants.

The United States has also been providing political support to South Vietnam. This support has been in the form of diplomatic recognition, and of providing South Vietnam with military and economic assistance.

The United States has been providing military support to South Vietnam in the form of the training of South Vietnamese military personnel, and of providing South Vietnam with military equipment.

The United States has been providing economic support to South Vietnam in the form of loans and grants. These loans and grants have been used to finance the South Vietnamese economy, and to provide the South Vietnamese with basic necessities.}

In the early 1970s, Vietnam saw a significant shift in its political landscape. The Communist leadership, led by Ho Chi Minh, gained control over the country, overthrowing the pro-Western government of Ngo Dinh Diem. This period was marked by a brutal war which resulted in the deaths of millions of people and the displacement of many more.

The United States' involvement in Vietnam began in the 1950s, when it sought to prevent the spread of communism in Southeast Asia. This policy, known as the “containment” strategy, was intended to stop the spread of communism by providing aid and support to anti-communist governments.

However, the Vietnam War, which lasted from 1955 to 1975, was a costly and bloody conflict. It was characterized by a high level of human suffering and loss, as well as a significant number of military deaths on both sides of the conflict.

The Vietnam War had a profound impact on American society, as it led to a significant shift in public opinion regarding U.S. foreign policy. Low-keyed supervisor race

Candidates stick to issues

By Roger Linehan

Andrew Rollins News Bureau

Campaigns for the 1974 term on the Johnson County Board of Supervisors have received much less attention than the fight for the 1972 term. However, Jerry Zaiser, Republican candidate, who is a West Liberty homemaker, and Loreda Cilek, Democratic candidate and past executive secretary for the county Democratic Central Committee, have been able to keep the issue forefront.

"County government must be able to function on the needs of the people," she says. "It is going to be necessary to improve communications and contact between the governing body and the county.

People priority

Cilek is running on an anti-multi-supervisor plan. "I am running for office in the county as a whole in a whole county basis," Cilek said. "This is necessary to improve the safety of the county in the county as a whole with safety and environmental control. I

Delta Sigma Delta meets Psi Omega in pro fraternal

By Rob Denney
Staff Writer

This weekend's big football parlays feature the top two of the professional fraternity championships, a battle between two titans. Both teams will be at the University of Oregon. Delta Sigma Delta and Psi Omega, the first and the second, will be the two teams in the national championship seat. The Delta Sigma Delta team is led by Alpha, who is projected to be a top contender for the national championship. The Psi Omega team is led by Beta, who is projected to be a top contender for the national championship.

Before the season started, everyone thought that the team would win by a large margin. However, the team ended up losing to Delta Sigma Delta.

The series continues on next week.

On the line... is the tagline of the University of Oregon student newspaper. The paper is published weekly and covers a wide range of topics, including sports, politics, and culture. Crisis Center to start walk-in

By Paul Birk Staff Writer

They have the personnel, they have the facilities, they have the time, and a new location. Crisis Center is ready for anyone who needs help in their time of crisis. The old Crisis Center in the Student Union was unable to cope with the heavy load of calls.

The Center hopes to begin its expanded services in service Monday, at 509 S. Dubuque St. The Center will be open 24 hours, 7 days a week, 365 days a year.

Radio show

Listeners all over Iowa should be prepared to hear it, a two hour special program discussing the role of the American University in Canada. The show will be broadcast by "The Iowa-Call" on Wiora, the student radio station.

The show will feature such guests as Senator John Stennis, who will discuss his experiences in the Senate.

No feedback

"This is your student government," was a refrain heard throughout the evening. "I hope that you will give us your feedback, " asked one student who was elected to the new senate.

Restaurants aid boycott: many not yet approached

By Mike Brooks Staff Writer

Three restaurants in the Iowa City area are participating in the student boycott, removing certain items from the menus. The restaurants are: The FISH, 321 E. Market St.; Fish N’ Riders, 625 E. Market St.; and The City, 322 E. Market St.

The boycott is in response to the university’s decision to serve lettuce stolen from the United Farm Workers Union (UFW) in California. The university has stated that it will continue to serve lettuce which is not grown by the UFW.

"We are not supporting the boycott because our concern is not with the lettuce but with the workers’ rights," said one of the restaurant owners.
