Senate to elect president

UI student executive selection taken away from 'apathetic' students

BY MONICA DAVIS
News Editor

The University of Iowa student body president will no longer be selected by the student body at large, but will be chosen by the UI student senate Tuesday night.

The amendment, sponsored by Dan Backer, UI student body president, states that the student body executive shall serve in the capacity of the president of the first Iowa session of the newly reconstituted student council.

Backer's amendment was defeated last week in a tied roll call vote, but was resubmitted and passed Tuesday night.

Proponents of the amendment said the student body "did not see one way or another" and that the amendment could be curbed by Senate selection of a president.

David Smith, PS, who opposed an amendment stating that student body elections of the executive last week, reversed his position Tuesday, saying he had reconsidered and that the proposed plan would lead to the "most effective and democratically based government by the student body of the University of Iowa."

Parities-Sial

Smith said the formation of political parties in the student council will be a major concern with these advocates of senate selection who said the presidency would lead to one-party rule.

"It's a matter of being sick and tired," explained a participant at a rally of members of the American Indian Movement (AIM) who took part in a demonstration against the activities of the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) at the office of the BIA on Monday.

The participants told of their experiences this week during a stay at the office of the BIA to protest against the policies of the BIA.

"We're tired of being hit and being hurt," said a woman participant who is a member of the AIM. "We want to do something about it."

The participants also said that they had been tear-gassed by the police and that they had been beaten by the police.

Editorial

Give thanks! Iowa football will soon be finished.

And so another autumn season at a Big Ten school, it's football. Not recreational football. Not participation football. Not football as a way of earning a living for college students and a first step toward the college coaching profession. But Big Business, establishment football. Football that, in addition to entertaining the public and providing prestige and press coverage, embodies the most advanced of academic programs that occupies a great deal of space on the campus and in the hearts and minds of those on the campus any day of the week.

Why? Because it offers spiritual enlightenment or physical expression to no great mass of followers? Does it advance the cause of academic excellence or contribute to the general well-being of students? Or does football offer the best possible chance for a limited number of participants to make a part of their life's work a career in the sports business? No. it's none of these things. Rather, it is essentially a forum for bawdy entertainment, a place to get drunk and rowdy, a place to earn recognition for accomplishments that you will eventually have to make good in the real world through honest work in the real world.

Although the Nixon administration has announced that he will continue his efforts to promote peace in Vietnam, and to continue a policy of détente, it is reasonable to assume that any military strategies that Nixon's administration may adopt under his new policy will only increase the possibility of nuclear war. Whether or not this policy will be successful in any event, it is difficult to believe that it will be able to work as an effective deterrent. The situation in Vietnam is serious enough for the Marcos government to be prepared to consider a number of alternatives, including a withdrawal of troops from the area of the South China Sea. The United States must now decide whether or not it is prepared to continue its military support for the Marcos regime.

It is very interesting, given the current state of the United States and its allies, that the only effective way to deal with the problem of nuclear war is through peaceful means. The United States and its allies should be using this situation to promote meaningful negotiations with North Vietnam, rather than continuing to support the Marcos regime with military aid and counterinsurgency programs work. particular especially the military aid.

Japanese government plays in support of the Marcos regime is an extraordinary problem most of which has been caused by the Marcos regime itself. The Marcos regime has been a bane to the United States and its allies, as it is a source of great instability. It is the Marcos regime that has led to the current situation.

The need for radical reforms in the Marcos regime is so obvious that it is not necessary to go into detail here. The Marcos regime has been a bane to the United States and its allies, as it is a source of great instability. It is the Marcos regime that has led to the current situation.

An inspirational trip to Bimba offered by "The National Council for American Social Welfare" was the subject of a 90-minute film. The film was shown at the organization's conference on "A Barn Raising," and the film was received with enthusiasm. The film was supported by the organisation and its support was expressed in a letter received from the New York Council for American Social Welfare.

Survival Line now offers an "Overseas Opportunities Library," with materials on student foreign study and travel programs, also available at the time. The Library, under the direction of International Education and Services, Di Jorgensen, has a handout available titled "Body Travel Atual Information" that is a good overview of the available data.

They also recommend a very reputable clearing house for information on international education, the Council on International Educational Exchange, 51 United Nations Plaza, New York City 10017.

Last Thursday we answered J.H.'s question about sharing expenses in an egg trip. "The second part of the query had asked for SURVIVAL LINE's suggestions as to how the actual monetary splitting of the cost, the expenses, get on as an egg trip and if there's any way to make a good egg trip.

We asked for reader assistance in finding this shop, and several readers called to tell us of a person whom we could discuss with other readers. We are happy to help in any way we can.

Recently, a SURVIVAL LINE reader asked if we could find a report for Volkswagen that was the subject of a recent article. We have been able to find the report, and several readers called to tell us of a person whom we could discuss with other readers. We are happy to help in any way we can.

Gable wins; Sones out for year
Mat vets whip frosh 24-12
By RENEE EICHENBOOM Sports Editor
Iowa's 12-year wrestling coach Dan Gable was the recipient of some good and bad news Tuesday night at the Kurdelmeier gym in Iowa City.

Kurdelmeier, whose squad squeaked out the narrow margin of the Minnesota Invitational also heaped congratulations on the Dan Gable aided freshmen.

There was some spark in the performance, but not much. The sophomore frosh have not scored anywhere close to the number of points the Iowa seniors have scored.

The highlight of the match was Gable's meet with Paul Kohl of Wisconsin Oelwein. Gable, the 198-pound golden octopus of the Ohio State match, met Kohl in the 177-pound finals. Gable's win was cut short by a técnico decision. The match was scored 8-0, although it was not over. Kohl lost the match early.

This was very easily the best match of the meet for Gable, who was lacktated by a very good senior. Kohl just didn't have the tools of an All-American.
