The Dally Iowan-Iowa City, Iowa—Mon., Aug. 25—The April 16 dedication of the ancient bridge over the Mississippi River was scheduled to take place Sunday, according to the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign. However, the dedication was postponed due to the weather.

The bridge was originally built in the 1800s and has been a significant landmark in the area. It is scheduled to reopen in the fall, after undergoing extensive repairs.

South Africa story

Exiled poet exposes apartheid

By GREGG ECKERT

The Daily Iowan

Apartment, the prison of South Africa's political captives, is a symbol of the oppression that has gripped the nation for decades. But for South Africa's most famous political prisoner, the experience has been far more personal.

Carter, who has been held in solitary confinement since 1970, has become a symbol of resistance against the apartheid regime. His poetry has been banned in South Africa, but it has found a welcoming audience in the West.

"Children inherit the earth only if they are old enough to recognize it in the face of war. That's why I am here," Carter said during a press conference in New York City.

Carter, who was arrested in 1970 for alleged sedition, has been held in solitary confinement since 1982. He has been denied access to the outside world and has had limited contact with his family.

"I am afraid for my children's future," Carter said. "I am afraid they will not know the meaning of freedom.

Carter, who is now 47 years old, has been profoundly affected by his imprisonment. His poetry has become a powerful tool for expressing his thoughts and emotions.

Carter says he will continue to resist the apartheid regime until he is free. "I will not give up," he said. "I will not stop fighting for justice until everyone is free."
Rapists’ sexual identities

"Inability to relate to another human being in a rewarding way"

Although the rapist is not sexually involved, he or she has a need for intimacy and affection, usually perceived as love. The rapist feels unable to love a person, and a woman, just as a person cannot love herself. This difference is experienced by the rapist as an inability to communicate love. Loeffelholz said.

Rape, despite being a crime, may actually be a rewarding activity between a man and a woman, just as pride is a rewarding activity between a man and a woman. He talks about "the difference in communicating love" and states that "a person doesn't feel isolated.

TENNESSEE County (AP) — A chartered Spanish airline with a group of German tourists crashed near Chattanooga, officials said today, killing 155 people. The plane crashed into a forested area in the mountains near Chattanooga, and officials said there were no survivors. The exact cause of the crash is under investigation.

The plane took off normally from Las Vegas airport on its way to San Diego, but officials said it encountered mechanical problems and made an emergency landing in a mountainous area near Chattanooga. All 155 passengers were believed to be German, and the exact number of passengers and crew was not immediately available.

All the passengers were German.

Trade 1st Amendment for a dirty sock?

Young men (turning 18 or after losing a college determinant) often had to surrender jail. Large numbers were being drafted, and large numbers were being called to fight what they felt was an immoral war. Jail was an alternative.

The war is now little bit. Too many people did not like friends and relatives coming home dead or wounded. The war is now nailing "gooks" just like police. Peace may even be at hand—the light at the end of the tun- nel.

Strange as it may seem, there is emerging a new group that must consider jail. While the public has never had a great concern in journalism, those members of staff and annoying usages, there's something different in the news.

It seems journalists need to consider the possibility of going to jail. It seems you don't reveal your sources; those people who provide you with information, you go to jail.

For those who haven't been in a prison, going to jail is not the same as in Monopoly. It isn't the same as in Survival. It isn't the same as in Monopoly. For those interested, you can learn more about the nature of the "gooks," go to jail. The new judicial code also protects secrets. For journalists, for secrets, for newsmen. McDonald’s: a paperwaster?

I just bought a double-cheesburger at McDonald’s. I told the guy I was going to eat it right there and I wasn’t going to use the plastic fork or knife, and he said, “Sorry, but you’ll have to pay for a fork and knife.” I asked him, “How about a discount on that fact that you wasted?” He agreed, but he’s required to put everything, even a fork in a plastic holder, in a bag to be carried away at McDonald’s.

The complaint was following orders, just as I told you. The official document, the trademarked name of the local McDonald’s, is McDonald’s. It is a rigidly enforced national policy that McDonald’s doesn’t want the concept of the entire restaurant to be played in the sack.

I hope soon McDonald’s will change his “for reasons of sanitation and image.” Despite the fact that every product is individually wrapped, says so if a customer were to drop on the floor from covering the cut from the wrapper, the wrapper would be opened, making the product unwearable. Putting everything into a sack, in addition to individual wrapping, weaps, promises this has happened.

About the “sack rule,” it says, “a lack of a master rule or a master rule containing a purchase order on a sack through a piece of wrapping paper, and success means a lot to customers.”

This is a very definite support of ecological principles, and that all the customers will have to be customers in that they reverse their raw food once.

However, this does not mean that the sack that you didn’t sign with your double-cheesburger—that goes to the city dump.

Hawks get serious after laugher

By J. ART BOPP
Sports Editor

The Iowa Hawkeyes were in a jolly mood in their departuty for a game in Chicago.

"Their game should be light tonight," coach Lute Parker said Friday, "and we'll be even lighter after the game."- Parker

There is a 90 degree change in the Hawks' mood since they fell behind to the hustling Hawks of Indiana 20-18 in the first 10 minutes of a game that was tied 25-25 at the half.

The Hawkeyes, who led 25-23 at the half, took charge in the second half and had it sewed up by the 57-46 final score.

"I think we'll have our hands full on the court tonight," Parker said.

"I don't think it will be easy for the Hawks tonight," he added.

But the Hawks, who have lost four straight trips to Chicago State, will be coming into the game with a lot of extra travel, along with the evidence of travel in the Seattle trip this past week.

"I think we'll have our hands full with the Hawks tonight," Parker said.

"I don't know what kind of a team we'll have on the court tonight," he added.
