Grade Reports

The University of Iowa Registrar's Office intentionally plans to distribute grade reports for the fall 1971 semester to students in the Field House during spring registration Jan. 11 and 12. It is expected that the distribution will be completed by Jan. 18, and the gradestamp will be announced in The Daily Iowan.

Grades must be picked up by the student or by a legal representative of the student, if authorized in writing, in order to receive their grade reports and may not be picked up by the grade reports of another student. However, married students may pick up their spouse's grades by presenting personal identification and the spouse's record. He said.

Wednesday's ridership was more than 100 greater than that reported in the previous week, Zavala said. For the year to date, ridership is worse than the previous year by 27 percent.

The committee will meet in the Civic Center to discuss the problem of drying coupled with a sudden drop in temperature. "We can be fairly optimistic," Findlay said. "Under normal conditions the customers will be okay."

The university power plant is the company's biggest source of fuel. Free pickup & delivery is available daily except Sunday.

Should the university wish to sell it as a commercial plant, the company could legally take the tank and the product if another company is interested in purchasing it. "Under Michigan's militia laws in a civil suit, the company could take the tank and the product if another company is interested in purchasing it at market value."

The response last time, the spokesman said, varied widely among the various suppliers. About 30 percent of the companies involved were determined to be "very adequate." The rest varied from "unsatisfactory" to "slightly adequate." But he said, another 20 percent were too reduced for the public to understand. In some cases the price was 10 to 15 percent above the government's maximum price. The remaining 20 percent would not advertise at all.

The 12 firms named were the Detroit-Dearborn Motor Co., Chrysler Corp., Chrysler British Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., General Motors Corp., Resador, Inc., Standard of America Inc., Ford of America Inc., Volkswagen of America Inc., and Nysor Inc.

FTC challenges

Detroit ad claims

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Trade Commission is investigating advertising claims made by 12 companies which it says are misleading or deceptive.

"We're aware of a pattern of unnecessary emphasis on advertising claims made for cars this year," FTC spokesman Donald Findlay said.

The agencies also discussed the idea of selling gas to non-commercial companies. The distributors said that they would not be interested if another company's customer's name was in the consumer's name. However, the distributors said that they would not be interested if another company's customer's name was in the consumer's name. Findlay said.

Fear and loathing at Hancher

Hancher Auditorium has quickly become one of the most prominent buildings on campus. This past week its advisory committees have become a center of attention.

That's because some members already fear that the committee of students, faculty, and non-students—may give only token student input to what actually goes on at Hancher. And that fear at a result of a decision university officials already have made—to deny the student-run Commission on University Entertainment (CUE) permission to use the new facility for concerts.

"CUE productions are so strictly in the Fieldhouse and there is no reason for CUE to put on a affair in Hancher," Philip G. Elbacher, vice president for student services, says.

Reasons for using Hancher over the Fieldhouse are obvious enough. It is much bigger, has better seats, better acoustics, more comfortable seats, larger parking areas, to name a few.

Moreover, it would provide the ideal place for accomplished jazz, folk, rock or country performers whose appeal may not fill the Fieldhouse or whose work is virtually displayed by Fieldhouse or Union acoustics.

People have been calling Hancher in an attempt to reserve space for such performers in successfully planning.

Elbacher, student director, has meanwhile questioned CUE's ability to make money because of the auditorium's limited seating capacity. How has the money been made in Hancher?

And, again, there is a whole range of performers who he'd rather see a Hancher crowd of 2,000 than 18,000 at the Fieldhouse or 5,000 at the Union.

The money Elbacher has implied is to come from the school and local residents only by East coast; they have never caught up with sound in the Fieldhouse.

There is a shop in town that I pass regularly on my way to work and it has always intrigued me. It is a small, unassuming store, situated on the corner of two busy streets. The facade is simple, with large windows that allow one to see into the shop. The shop is known for its Christmas and note cards, with an emphasis toward the art line. It is located in the Community Room of the Farmers Savings Bank.

The shop, named Art Marketplace, will attempt to move to the Shaffer's property on Highway I when the State Fair moves to Des Moines. Sallie Shaffer, the owner, is particularly helpful in the space, so your next step would be to contact her at 203-566-4999.

Planning as a monthly event, unlike the Marketplace, the Field of Dreams will be a smaller, more intimate gathering, featuring local scenes, candles, some handmade items, and sales. It will be operated in the same fashion as the Marketplace, featuring crafts and antiques when the Field of Dreams is open.

Our phone is 203-566-3822.

Lights flash and a spotlight is trained on a young girl standing at the front of a crowded auditorium. She takes a bow and, with a look of triumph on her face, walks back to her seat. The applause is thunderous as the audience recognizes a new star in the making.

Theater is a passionate field of study for A. Joanne Hennepin, who has worked hard to achieve her dream. From a young age, she knew she wanted to be an actress, and she has never wavered in her commitment to her craft.

Joanne grew up in a family that valued education and the arts. Her parents encouraged her to pursue her passion, and she attended Hennepin School District as a child, taking part in several productions and acting in various plays. She soon discovered that her talent was being noticed, and she began to take her craft more seriously.

In high school, Joanne continued to hone her skills and expand her horizons. She studied Shakespeare and other classical works, and she began to work with a director who recognized her potential. Under his guidance, she began to take on more challenging roles and began to build a reputation as a talented actress.

Joanne is working on her B.A. in economics at the University of Iowa, where she major in business and some night in theater. She has taken courses in economics, management, and finance, and she has had the opportunity to work on several productions, including a senior project at the University Theatre. She has also taken courses in psychology and sociology, which have helped her develop a deeper understanding of the human condition and the motivations that drive people to do what they do.

Joanne is not just an actress, however. She is also a director, and she has directed several productions at her university and in the community. She has a natural talent for leading and inspiring others, and she enjoys helping others discover their own talents and potential.

Joanne is a driven and ambitious woman, and she is determined to succeed in her chosen field. She knows that the road ahead will be difficult, but she is up to the challenge. She is ready to take on any role that comes her way, and she is confident that she will continue to grow and succeed in her career.

Joanne is a true professional, and she is dedicated to her craft. She is a hard worker, and she is always striving to improve her skills. She is a role model for others who are just starting out in the field of theater, and she inspires them to follow their dreams and to work hard to achieve their goals.

Joanne is a shining star in the world of theater, and she is destined for great things. She is a bright light in the world of performance, and she is sure to continue to make a name for herself in the years to come. She is a true artist, and she is one to watch.

Stubb, O'Rourke, Welsch aid 42-25 win ... Four Cues break loose in final half 23-15

By ROD DENNEY

The Four Cues broke past a tough defense of Kink & Willey in the second half of the pre-Holiday Basketball Tournament at the Fieldhouse to win the school's first annual Pre-Holiday Basketball Tournament.

Mark Webb led WS with 15 points, followed by Emperor Frank Mauer with 10 and Mike Barber with 8. Kink & Willey were led by 6 points from Mike Graber and John Brown.

Both teams utilized fast breaks in the opening portion of the tourney. Webb's speed and Barber's shooting ability made for a quick start, and a 9-6 lead for the Four Cues after the first half.

O'Rourke stepped up his defense on Mauer, who had scored 17 points against the Sandspoon in the first half. Barber stepped up his defense on Graber, who had scored 8 points against the Four Cues in the opening game.
