U.S. POWs hit

SASON (AP) — The U.S. government reported Thursday that 423 American prisoners of war and 10,000 others held in various camps in North Vietnam have been released. But pretty much people want to get things to be over and leave the war behind. The United States, according to President Nixon, will not negotiate with the Communist enemy until and unless it withdraws all its forces from Vietnam. But the Vietnam peace talks continue and the war is not over. The U.S. government has already said that it will not negotiate with the Communist enemy until and unless it withdraws all its forces from Vietnam. Breshnev: "barbaric"

Moscow (AP) — A top Communist party chief called the United States "barbaric" Tuesday for its "mad" bombing raids on Vietnam and said, "No, we won't accept any of the terms American leaders have put forward."

The Christmas grinch?

Fred Knapp's column took an interesting twist Thursday when he wrote about the Christmas season in a manner that was both humorous and thought-provoking. He talked about the commercialism that often accompanies the holiday season and how it can sometimes take away from the true meaning of Christmas. He mentioned the overemphasis on materialistic gifts and the pressure to buy more and more, which can lead to feelings of stress and anxiety. He also touched on the idea of giving back and being charitable during the holiday season, urging readers to consider the needs of others and to find ways to spread joy and love.

Ho Ho Hum

Leisurely, people know Iowa City for the holidays in a good mood. But this year things have been a bit different. The city is experiencing a rather mild winter, with only a few days of snow and cold temperatures. However, this is not stopping the citizens from enjoying the various holiday events and activities taking place throughout the city. Town squares, parks, and schools are all decorated with lights, wreaths, and ornaments. The streets are filled with various holiday-related displays, such as giant inflatable figures and holiday-themed floats. Many families are also hosting at-home parties and gatherings, with many choosing to cook special holiday meals and exchange gifts.

Bus schedules

Iowa City buses will begin operating at their regular 1982-83 schedule beginning Tuesday Jan. 12. Buses will run every 30 minutes Monday through Friday and every hour Saturday and Sunday. Additional service will be offered until 10 p.m. The change will affect all routes except those on the west side of town.

Times moves to rescue bureau chief from jail

WASHINGTON (AP) - Times readers will have to wait a little longer to read their favorite bureau chief from jail.

The remains of one of the bureau chiefs was found Saturday night at the North Central prison in Springfield, Illinois. The man was identified as J. P. O'Malley, 53, who was serving a life sentence for armed robbery.

His death was the result of a prison fight that occurred earlier in the day. The bureau chief was reported to have been beaten by several other inmates.

The death of the bureau chief is one of several recent battles that have taken place at the North Central prison. Last week, a prison guard was shot to death during a riot in one of the prison dormitories.

The prison is one of the most violent in the state, and inmates often engage in gang warfare.

The bureau chief was a popular figure among his colleagues, and his death has caused widespread shock and outrage.

The prison authorities have launched an investigation into the incident, and have called in outside experts to help them determine the cause of death.

Times readers are urged to keep an eye on the situation and to provide any information they may have to the authorities.

Kerner motion borders 'absurd'

By DONNA COOPER
The DAILY IOWAN

The Kerner Commission, chaired by Hubert H. Humphrey, is a group of scholars and experts who were convened to study the causes of the urban riots that occurred in the summer of 1967. The commission was tasked with understanding the social, economic, and political factors that contributed to the rioting and recommending solutions to prevent similar events in the future.

Among the commission's findings was the conclusion that the riots were not caused by a lack of jobs, but rather by a lack of opportunities for young people to achieve their goals. The commission recommended policies to address education, employment, and housing issues in an effort to reduce the likelihood of future riots.

The Kerner Commission's report was published in 1968, and it was widely praised for its comprehensive analysis of the urban crisis and its recommendations for change. However, some criticized the report for its emphasis on political solutions rather than practical policy changes.

The Kerner Commission's work remains relevant today as it continues to provide insights into the root causes of social and economic inequality and the need for systemic change in order to achieve a more just society.

In the beginning: MacCann

Professor in film to study British TV and government

By DONNA COOPER
The DAILY IOWAN

Donald MacCann, a professor at the University of Iowa, has been awarded a grant to study the relationship between British television and government. The grant will allow MacCann to explore how television has been used as a tool for propaganda, how it has shaped public opinion, and how it has influenced political decisions.

MacCann's research will focus on the era of the early television era, from the 1950s to the 1970s, and will examine the role of television in shaping public discourse and political outcomes. He will also consider the impact of television on the rise of the British Labour Party and the development of the welfare state.

The grant is part of a larger initiative by the university to study the relationship between media and politics, and it is hoped that MacCann's work will contribute to our understanding of the complex and multifaceted relationship between television and government.

In conclusion, the impact of television on society and politics cannot be overstated. It is a powerful tool that has the potential to shape our understanding of the world and influence our actions. By studying the relationship between television and government, we can gain insights into the ways in which media shapes our lives and helps to define our world.

Boycott sexism

To the Editor: The agitation of the PTA to create a new dormitory on campus makes a better case for reinvolving equal opportunities and loyal students in the University of Iowa. A dormant housing department is not only a handicap, but also a hindrance to the development of the University. The Boycott committee has more vital objectives to face with the housing situation and is in a position to utilize the skills and talents of the students in the housing department.

Dorm coercion

To the Editor: The enlarged reproduction from the dormitory directory, makes a vivid picture of the University's housing and what is being done in Iowa City. How the University has been able to meet the housing needs of its students is a challenge that any University in the country will have. This is the responsibility of the University and it is a responsibility that the University must assume. The University is not only a place to study, it is a community where people live, work, and play. This is the responsibility of the University and it is a responsibility that the University must assume.

Ho-ho-ho!

Dear Merry Christmas,

Two weeks ago I was preparing for both secular and religious festivities. The secular festivities involved the Christmas tree. I was in a truck. Lacking theeloquence of Santa, I was just a truck. Leeching the religious festivities involved a book. The book was The Polar Express. It's a story about a young boy who dreams of a magical train.

The Polar Express is a story about the power of dreams and the magic of Christmas. It's a tale of wonder and imagination, reminding us of the simple joys of childhood.

The book is filled with beautiful illustrations and a magical story that will captivate children of all ages. It's a perfect gift for anyone who loves Christmas and the magic of the season.

With love,
