UI releases fuel to state
Will switch to lower grade oil that exceeds pollution standards

By LEWIS YORK

CITIZEN JAMES JAN

The University of Iowa has released approximately 175,000 gallons of fuel oil to the state in meeting the emergency demand for burning energy sources.

Gov. Kim Reynolds, who presided over a special session of the university's Board of Regents this week, said that the university was committed to meeting the state's needs.

"We have received a number of requests from the state for fuel oil," Reynolds said. "The university is making a commitment to provide fuel oil in order to meet the emergency demand." Reynolds added that the university would provide fuel oil for a month, starting on Monday, and that the amount of fuel oil would increase weekly.

The university's decision comes after the state had requested fuel oil to meet the demands of a number of emergency situations, including the fire at the University of Iowa Medical Center. The fire caused the hospital to be closed for several days, and the university had to provide fuel oil to keep the hospital operating.

"The university has a responsibility to meet the needs of the state," Reynolds said. "We will continue to provide fuel oil as long as the state needs it." The university will keep track of the amount of fuel oil it provides and will update the state on a weekly basis.

The university's decision will affect the university's budget, as the cost of providing fuel oil will be included in the university's expenses. However, the university has been able to cover the cost of providing fuel oil through the university's fuel oil reserves.

"We have been able to cover the cost of providing fuel oil through our reserves," Reynolds said. "We will continue to monitor the situation and provide fuel oil as long as the state needs it." The university will continue to work with the state to determine the amount of fuel oil that will be needed and will update the state on a weekly basis.

Hired by security chief of Rep. Nat’l. Committee

Former FBI man admits ‘spying’

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former FBI agent, identified by sources as a onetime security chief for the Democratic National Committee, has agreed to plead guilty to a single federal charge.

The man, identified by the FBI as Joseph B. McCoy, is expected to plead guilty to a single federal charge later today.

He had been under investigation by federal authorities since last year, when he was charged with making false statements in connection with a case involving the theft of confidential information from the Democratic National Committee.

McCoy, who was hired by the committee in 2000, was fired in 2001 after he was accused of improperly accessing the network of the party’s computer systems.

He was arrested in 2002 and has been held without bail since then.

The committee said in a statement that McCoy had been fired for “undermining the trust placed in him by the party.”

McCoy’s attorney, John M. Dowd, declined to comment on the case.

The agreement is expected to be announced later today.

Vietnam cease-fire near

Ha Cong with Thieu

ASAGI (AP) — Both sides were reportedly preparing for a Vietnam cease-fire on Christmas Eve, as the government in Hanoi confirmed Wednesday with President Nguyen Van Thieu that they had agreed to meet the next morning. The announcement came three days after acdf meeting apparently called by agreement to discontinue all press filters.

Foreign Minister Thanh Nhi Thom, who is in Hanoi to discuss the peace issue with Vietnamese leaders, radio interview that although "possible agreements on some topics" had been made, "the main thing is to arrange for a cease-fire." South Vietnamese spokesmen confirmed that the Vietnamese government had made "everything clear to the French" regarding the peace talks.

Ha Cong, a Korean writer and a former U.S. Embassy official, has written an account of his time in Vietnam in the book "Hanoi's Juniper," which describes the difficulties of living in the city and the poverty of its people.

Governor faces fiercemongose

In a somewhat surprising move, the governor of California, Edmund G. Brown, has announced that he will run for re-election in 1970.

Brown's decision comes as a surprise to many political observers, who had expected him to retire after his current term.

The announcement was made in a statement released by the governor's office, which said that Brown "believes it is important to continue his work for the people of California until such time as he can no longer serve effectively."
"Why don't I ever have any days off?" is the most common question asked by newspaper people. Everyone asks it, including the reporters, editors, typesetters, newspaper salesmen, and deliverymen. And everyone is right. Only in name are they different from the 13 million Americans whose jobs don't permit a vacation. It's not that they enjoy their work. The newspaper people are the best-paid, the best-equipped, the most willing to work, and the most conscious of their labor. And if they aren't satisfied with the results, they'll tell you about it. But a day off? That's asking a lot of a man who has spent a lifetime in the newspaper business. (From The New York Times, Jan. 13, 1967.)

"The Blue Book" is a series that began in May 1961. It's a collection of articles written by professional writers, primarily under the direction of editors of the Blue Book Press. It has been published by the Blue Book Press, Inc., since 1961. The articles are usually about current events, history, or culture, and they are often accompanied by illustrations. The Blue Book is known for its high quality of writing and its attention to detail. It is a valuable resource for anyone interested in current events, history, or culture.

"American civic faith" is a term used to describe the civic values and beliefs that are held by Americans. It refers to the belief in the importance of civic participation and the role of government in promoting the common good. The term is often used to describe the values that underlie American democracy and the role of citizens in shaping the political process.

"Organizing for Jan. 20" is a heading that appears in the context of a story about antiwar movement plans. The story mentions that antiwar forces have announced a daylong national strike and a national march on Jan. 20, 1968. The story also mentions that there will be a national strike for peace on Jan. 20. The story notes that the strike is expected to be the largest antiwar demonstration in the United States since the Vietnam War.

"Right to Life" is a heading that appears in the context of a story about a bill that has been introduced in Congress. The bill, which is currently being debated, would prohibit the performance of abortions on a substantial number of women. The bill has been introduced by Representative Henry Hyde (R-IL) and has been hailed as a "pro-life" measure by some politicians and groups. The bill has been opposed by groups such as the National Abortion Rights Action League and the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

"Demonstrate for peace" is a heading that appears in the context of a story about a demonstration that is being planned for Jan. 20. The demonstration is expected to be one of the largest antiwar demonstrations in the United States since the Vietnam War. The story notes that the demonstration is being planned by a group of antiwar activists who are calling for an end to the war in Vietnam and for an end to the nuclear arms race.

"Mail" is a section that appears in the context of a story about a letter that has been sent to the editor of a newspaper. The letter is critical of the newspaper's editorial policy and suggests that it is not doing enough to cover important issues. The letter is signed by a group of citizens who are concerned about the quality of journalism and the role of the media in a democratic society.

"Viewpoint" is a section that appears in the context of a story about a national political issue. The story mentions that there is a growing concern about the role of government in promoting the common good. The story notes that there is a need for a "national civic faith" that can inspire citizens to work for the common good.

Ohio residents fight strip miners

Hanna Coal Co. moves across I-70

"They don't get any law out of the county, and you blow it into the record and then you can fire them. They're naked, they've got their hands up and you walk all over them. They don't have a chance. When they're done here they never come back."

Ivete Delery, a parent living near the Hanna Coal strip mine, expressed her frustration about the lack of enforcement and legal action against the company. Delery noted that the company has not been held accountable for the environmental damage caused.

"I think the law is broken down here," Delery said. "They're just taking advantage of the people and the government. They're not doing anything to protect the environment or the community."

Westerns bid farewell, English remarks arrive
The second season is here

By MALINTSE ROSEN

One evening during the Christmas rush at the Moosberg department store in Berlin, a young man passed by the shoe section. His name was Jürgen, and he was looking for a new pair of shoes. Suddenly, he heard a faint call from behind the display window. It was a salesclerk, asking if she could help him. Jürgen went into the store and was greeted by a friendly young woman named Marita. She showed him a pair of brown leather shoes she had just received from the factory. Jürgen, who had always preferred black shoes, was hesitant. But Marita was persistent, and he finally agreed to try them on.

As he walked out of the store, Jürgen realized how much he had enjoyed his visit to Moosberg. He decided to return the next day to buy the shoes he had seen. When he returned, Marita was there again, and they had a pleasant conversation about his choice of shoes.

Later that evening, Jürgen received a call from Marita. She wanted to know if he had decided on a pair of shoes. Jürgen told her he had bought the brown leather ones. Marita was delighted and thanked him for his business. She also invited him to her home for dinner. Jürgen accepted, and they spent the evening talking and enjoying each other's company.

The following day, Jürgen went back to Moosberg to pick up the shoes. Marita was there again, and they discussed the weather and the latest news. Jürgen was impressed by how knowledgeable Marita was about current events.

As the days passed, Jürgen and Marita continued to see each other. They went on romantic dates, and Jürgen began to feel that he was falling in love with her. He knew that he had never felt this way before, and he was not sure what to do.

One evening, Jürgen and Marita were walking together in the park. They talked about their future and their plans. Jürgen told Marita that he wanted to take a trip to England the following spring. Marita was excited, and they made plans to visit her brother, who lived in London.

The next day, Jürgen received a call from Marita. She had found a pair of shoes that she thought he would like. Jürgen went to Moosberg to pick them up, and he was pleasantly surprised. He liked the shoes, and he bought them.

A few weeks later, Jürgen and Marita went to London. They had a wonderful time, and Jürgen fell in love with Marita's brother, as well. He knew that he wanted to marry her, and he proposed. Marita said yes, and they were married the following year.

As Jürgen and Marita looked back on their relationship, they realized how much they had grown and changed. They were grateful for the chance to have known each other and to have shared their lives together.

Bostwick pinned with most dangerous foe

The Hawk had 'incurable' disease

Bostwick's best wrestler Bostwick actually began at birth. He was born with two left ribs about three inches long, at the age of his thighs. This slight anomaly did not cross any problems until a little more than a year ago.

At that time, Bostwick's health was diagnosed as complications which seemed incurable to doctors. His legs became numb for long periods and were very painful. Problems until a little more than a year ago.

Wilmore Big 10 player of week

Wilmore scored 17 of Michigan's 21 points, providing the Wolverines' lift for the Big Ten's final game. His performance was the first time he had scored 20 or more points in a game for the Michigan in 1967.

Mike Robinson

Robinson pumped in 24 points for his 20th 20-point game of the season. He had been held to 19 points or less in seven of the previous eight games.

Downs: A big challenge

Colette Downs

By ROBERT DENNY

Women's recreation and intercollegiate sports are available at the Iowa Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Association. President Harry OMalley has assumed the task of guiding the program for all women's organizations and intramurals. OMalley's primary goal is to establish this summer, with Coach Donna, a "do-it-yourself" program in recreation.

"It's really a big challenge for me," OMalley says. "We never have had the chance to take on something similar to what women's programs are. OMalley's assignment is an overall responsibility. This program has produced only 12 athletic teams, but it is still a challenge. The program must be a success to find out what good work has been done.

"Probably the biggest problem I've faced is that we have only 12 women's teams. Our sports are often not seen by the general public. Only four of the teams are really stable, and we need to work on increasing their popularity.

Wilma McConkey, who will retire this spring, has been an important figure in the development of women's sports. Her leadership and guidance have helped to establish the Iowa Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

Colette Downs, a former Iowa Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Association coach, will take over this spring. She is expected to bring new energy and ideas to the program.

To the Editor:

I have been a season ticket holder of the Eagles for over 14 years, all of which was uneventful to say the least. I even think it is fair to ask why did the Eagles lose? And secondly why was it necessary to fire the head coach?

We have had several talented coaches over the years. But what can you say about John McCluskey? Did he ever have a winning season as the head coach?

I have recently moved to New England and am a season ticket holder of the New England Patriots.

Iowa fans have been grumpier than usual this season. With the team in last place in the Big Eight, Iowa is a tough sell.

The Iowa game saw the Illinois game win at 8-6 in the third quarter. The Hawkeyes are losing their second straight game.

Fort Dodge tests Iowa

Iowa's varsity reserve basketball team has to be tough to overcome Fort Dodge's junior varsity team. Fort Dodge is a good team and will give the Hawkeyes a good test.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Justice Department investigator says evidence linking cigarette smoking and higher late fetal and infant mortality among pregnant women should be considered in a long-running civil lawsuit against tobacco giant Liggett Group Inc. Justice Department investigator Wednesday in the seventh follow-up case against the defendants in the so-called Tobacco Trial.

"There's no question," said the former FBI agent, "that smoking causes an elevated risk of cardiovascular disease and contributes to chronic obstructive pulmonary disease and atherosclerosis."

Liggett, who denied the allegations, said it would appeal the decision.

Nixon ..... Then, says Sheridan, Hoffa release was "a significant move in the right direction."

"The release was a significant move in the right direction," he said. "But it will have little impact unless the defendant agree to be held for medical reasons, as is the case with many other cases."
