WASHINGTON (AP) — Ally. On, Richard I. (Hoffa), president of the Teamsters Union, was found guilty of embezzlement by a federal jury here today. The conviction, on charges of bribe-taking, is the first in a series of cases brought against Hoffa and other Teamster officials.

The trial, which lasted for nearly two months, was the first of many that will be held against Hoffa and other labor leaders. The government is expected to file additional charges against Hoffa and others in the coming weeks.

AFL-CIO president says labor on Democrat's side

WASHINGTON—The three Democratic candidates for the U.S. Senate seat in Iowa, all members of the AFL-CIO, told The Daily Iowan that they would still stand by their promises of increased representation of the working class.

The candidates were Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.), Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.), and Rep. Thomas H. Eagleton (D-Mo.). The three have been strong supporters of the labor movement, and all three have received strong backing from labor groups.

Kennedy said that he would support any legislation that would help workers, while McGovern said that he would work to ensure that workers' rights were protected. Eagleton said that he would continue to fight for workers' rights, and that he would work to ensure that the labor movement was represented in Congress.

The candidates also said that they would work to ensure that workers' rights were protected in the workplace, and that they would work to ensure that workers had a voice in the decisions that were made about their working lives.

A weekly statement on peace or social justice, collected by the War Resisters' League.

Stokely Carmichael: demagogue

Impassively dressed and armed to the hilt with democratic poise and charismatic glow, Stokely Carmichael needed it to his educated audience of predominantly young white liberals. By the end of his speech he had them eating out of his hand. A master at his craft. A manipulator—"par excellence." As for content? There virtually was none. But sob he did be even a beautiful turn of phrase.

One of his favorites was "scientific rationalism." His audience, however, was not moved by scientific rationalism but by emotions, and, to use another of his phrases, "that's a fact!"

If one separated the human being from his blackness and his culture, it became obvious that he was getting away with incredible logical nonsensities. Herrnstein's "scientific thermals" are the life of Carmichael's. Interestingly enough they have the same distinguished intellectual background, a Harvard education.
The difference between the two is that Herrnstein is a white intellectual with uncomparable views and Carmichael is a black political philosopher with popular views. Herrnstein was prevented from speaking by the same people who gave Stokely a standing ovation.

Some of Carmichael's "logical analogies" were precious. For instance, he meant the scientific fact that two material objects cannot occupy the same space at the same time. Therefore capitalism and socialism are mutually exclusive.

Or how about this one? A kernel of corn will produce corn in Iowa, in Africa and in Jamaica. Therefore an African who produces corn in Iowa is not being manipulated. A "beautiful turn of phrase." And the audience, however, was not moved by scientific rationalism but by emotions, and, to use another of his phrases, "that's a fact!"

FBI versus Anderson

Indian papers as excuses to investigate records

The FBI versus the Seneca Nation of Indians. A clash of the titans, the legal and the political. The FBI, in an effort to obtain information on the Seneca Nation of Indians, has subpoenaed the telephone records of one of their leaders, Les Heron. The Seneca Nation, in turn, has filed a lawsuit to prevent the FBI from obtaining such records.

The FBI has been criticized for its handling of the case. The Seneca Nation has accused the FBI of using the case as a pretext for investigating tribal affairs, in violation of the tribe's right to privacy. The FBI, on the other hand, has defended its action, citing the need to investigate potential criminal activity.

The case has sparked a debate about the role of the federal government in monitoring tribal affairs. Some argue that the FBI is overstepping its bounds by investigating tribal leaders, while others argue that it is necessary to protect tribal members from potential criminal activity.

The case is still pending, and it remains to be seen how it will be resolved. The Seneca Nation has vowed to continue its legal fight against the FBI, and the FBI has said it will continue its investigation.

Heat taken off Anderson and sidekick

Said Kudmund: "To control the Indian leaders, we had to see that the federal government did not have the power. We had to see that the Indian government did not have the power. We had to see that the Indian government did not have the power."

And that's exactly what they did. The FBI investigated the Seneca Nation of Indians, and it did so in such a way that it could not possibly be interpreted as a violation of the tribe's right to privacy.

Fieldhouse blues (or there lack thereof)

One you rather disgusted reading our weekly feature Hunsley's Down the Road each week.

It's a holding of all the rock, folk, jazz that goes on six or seven hours here, and it has at 6 of 4 of all the time. About none every six weeks there's a listing of Iowa City University officials are setting the "Coliseum for University Entertainment" put on another concert.

One was an.

CUE is truly delightful each year, and usually having gone to the same thing that can only those certain days, a people with the same kind of people with the same interest in the same thing. More or less in the same groups that preference, with the exception of last week Condell said that our problem was that he was just starting to come up with a more clear idea of what he wanted to do, but it was a remarkable variety experience. Four hours of music, that wouldn't have been possible a month or two, or a week or two, or a week or two, or a week or two, or a week or two, or a week.

But that's what people love about some school, I don't know how it, or how it, or how it. It's a good score. It's a self-contained, self-sustained, self-propelled set-up that the people CUE work long hours on, until continuing battles with administrations and Hancher officials that CUE itself doesn't like to talk about.

And because it's so incredibly important, particularly to the big Mecas of "Ithaca" admission during concerts that killed out last year, even the CUE people to have recognized the problem, that CUE provides here.

But the fact remains: there are only six rock concerts a year allowed in the Fieldhouse. Despite the fact that some students may actually attend and be interested in rock music over 15 hours.

Therefore, you'll find a responsive university would really overs the interest of students in giving as professional and competent an organization as CUE at least ten concerts a year, with almost friendly attendance. But the University officials don't like the idea of giving a few people 25 and 30 or more.

Plastics recycling

SURVIVAL LINE's request last week for information on recycling projects in Iowa cities and counties led to this letter from an Iowa resident.

"The burning, melting, or incineration of plastic containers for plants, flowers, etc. is the advice Craig Henderson of the Midwest Conservation Council at Des Moines. Qualify."

If you are shred up, plastic containers can be used to make gardenns, he says. We have learned of many technical studies involved in re-bonding plastics for recycling. That may be a key to the future. And, she notes, neutralization prevents the reuse of plastic and meltdown for the same purpose. In the absence of a recycling program, new uses are more likely to be acceptable.

As far as we know, "the only way to recyle the plastic would be by our own ingenuity and investments."
Chicago folk singers in Iowa

She loves to sing

By ELAINE LARKIN

Sunday Times, Feb. 18

Iowa farm girl by birth, Janelle Lewis now lives in Virginia. She can stroll down the sidewalk, talk to the doorman, and order herself anything she wants from the menu. It's a far cry from the days when she used to milk cows for a living.

Janelle has been in Iowa since last fall, and she's become a local celebrity. Everyone knows who she is. But she's not just famous for her singing. She's also known for her cooking skills. She's the kind of woman who can make a homemade meal that's as good as any restaurant food.

Janelle Lewis, the star of the new film A Sense of Loss, is being voted the most talented performer of the year. She's been nominated for an Oscar, and she's very likely to win. But she's also known for her down-to-earth personality. She's the kind of person who can make you feel at home.

Janelle's singing career started in high school. She was part of a band that performed at local dances. She was very popular with the boys, and she was even noticed by the record companies. But Janelle had other dreams. She wanted to be an actress, and she was determined to make it happen.

Janelle's first big break came when she was cast in a minor role in a TV soap opera. The experience was a revelation. She realized that she loved acting, and she wanted to pursue it full-time. She moved to New York, and she soon got a role in a Broadway play. She was the talk of the town, and she was offered many more opportunities.

Janelle was always very hardworking. She never took any day off, and she never rested on her laurels. She always wanted to improve, and she always worked hard. She was the kind of woman who could make the impossible possible.

Janelle's success is due to her hard work, her talent, and her determination. She's the kind of person who can make anything happen. She's the kind of person who can make the impossible possible. She's the kind of person who can make you feel at home.

The Ivy conference rules the Ivy Ten with a 7-0 record. If the Ivy doesn't win an NCAA berth, it will probably advance to the national tournament. The NIT is also in charge of the Ivy.

The Ivy conference is expected to send its champion to the NCAA. The Ivy is a hardworking conference, and it's likely that the Ivy will make its presence felt in the NCAA.

Wallace's doctor denies reports of constant sedation

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) - George C. Wallace's chief physician said Monday that the Alabama governor is kept under constant sedation and is in a coma, but the time is "total mystery." Dr. H. H. Hartshorn confirmed that the 83-year-old governor, paralyzed and aphasic since his 1972 gubernatorial campaign, is in a coma and that he is in need of resuscitation equipment. Hartshorn said that Wallace suffers from "a mind that is in a coma. Every 10 minutes they give him some kind of medication, just like a drunk."

Wallace got ready to move to Washington for the National Governors Conference only five days after leaving a Birmingham hospital, where he underwent surgery for the fourth time since the shooting.
