WASHINGTON (AP) - The Daily Lowdown is a daily newspaper in Iowa City. The paper's mission is to provide accurate, timely, and comprehensive coverage of local news. The paper is published six days a week by the Daily Iowan, a student-run newspaper. The Daily Iowan is a member of the Iowa Newspaper Association and the National Newspaper Association. The paper's primary focus is on local news, but it also covers state, national, and international news.

The Daily Iowan is a 16-page tabloid, printed on newsprint. The paper is delivered to subscribers every day except Sunday. The paper's circulation is approximately 12,000, with a daily average of 10,000 copies. The paper's editorial content includes local news, sports, features, and opinion columns. The paper also includes a classified section, a comics section, and a weather section. The Daily Iowan's website includes an online version of the newspaper, as well as a digital edition available for subscribers.

The Daily Iowan is owned by the University of Iowa, and is managed by the Daily Iowan Foundation, a non-profit organization. The foundation is funded by contributions from the university, businesses, and individuals. The Daily Iowan's staff is composed of student journalists who are supervised by professional editors and reporters. The Daily Iowan's masthead includes the names of the current student editors-in-chief, who are elected by the Daily Iowan's editorial board.

The Daily Iowan is an important source of news and information for the University of Iowa community. The newspaper has won numerous awards for its journalism, including the National Association of College Publications, the Society of Professional Journalists, and the Iowa Newspaper Association.
Hepatitis suit filed against Red Cross

By JOHN DRIENTON, Staff Writer

New developments at the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics include a hepatitis suit filed against the Red Cross.

The lawsuit was filed in federal court in Iowa City against the American Red Cross and the University Hospitals of Iowa.

The suit alleges that the Red Cross failed to provide proper blood testing for hepatitis.

The suit also alleges that the Red Cross did not follow proper procedures for the storage and transport of blood.

The University Hospitals of Iowa have not yet commented on the lawsuit.

Meditation relaxes, revitalizes, tempers the body and stimulates harmony, mental clarity

By PAUL LANGNAGAN

"By PAULLANAGHAN"

I have been HYing since the first day I sat down and saw the first half of "Mommie Dearest." I have been a convert to the art of meditation, and I am now one of the three people in the world who have been able to make the art of meditation work in their lives.
