Union merger would aid bargaining power

BY LEWIS D'VORKIN

An international representative from the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) is optimistic about a merger between the three major labor organizations on the University of Illinois campus.

"We are confident that the merger would be beneficial," said the representative, who did not want to be identified.

"There is a strong possibility that the merger would result in a more unified bargaining front," he said.

The representative said that the merger would help to improve the bargaining position of the three unions, which have been working to negotiate a new contract with the university.

"The merger would give us a stronger voice in negotiations," he said.

The representative said that the merger would also help to reduce the cost of administering three separate unions.

"The merger would allow us to pool our resources and streamline our operations," he said.

The representative said that the merger would also help to improve the representation of employees in the workplace.

"The merger would give us a stronger voice in representing employees in their workplace," he said.

The representative said that the merger would also help to improve the bargaining position of the university.

"The merger would give us a stronger voice in negotiations with the university," he said.

The representative said that the merger would also help to improve the representation of employees in the workplace.

"The merger would give us a stronger voice in representing employees in their workplace," he said.

The representative said that the merger would also help to improve the bargaining position of the university.

"The merger would give us a stronger voice in negotiations with the university," he said.

Former officials say Nixon ordered bombing power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert C. Seamans Jr. told the Senate Armed Services Committee on Wednesday that President Richard Nixon ordered bombing missions in Cambodia.

"I was ordered to bomb Cambodia," Seamans said in a report.

"I was told to bomb Cambodia," Seamans said in a report.

"I was ordered to bomb Cambodia," Seamans said in a report.

Seamans, who served as assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs under Nixon, said in a report that he was ordered to bomb Cambodia.

"I was ordered to bomb Cambodia," Seamans said in a report.

Seamans, who served as assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs under Nixon, said in a report that he was ordered to bomb Cambodia.

"I was ordered to bomb Cambodia," Seamans said in a report.

Seamans, who served as assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs under Nixon, said in a report that he was ordered to bomb Cambodia.

"I was ordered to bomb Cambodia," Seamans said in a report.

Seamans, who served as assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs under Nixon, said in a report that he was ordered to bomb Cambodia.
150,000 expected at New York rock fest

Singers tour

Seventeen University of Iowa students left Thursday on a tour of Europe by the Iowa State Singers, one of the nation's most noted choral groups. The tour will be the first for Iowa-nun , Sister Marie Joseph, who is directing the group. The tour will last 22 days, with the group visiting 15 countries and giving 27 concerts. The group will return to this country Aug. 18. They will visit Athens , the Foreign Student Adviser.

Police beat

Rita K. Hoyt, 21, has been charged with shoplifting, reckless driving, and failure to give her name, according to Don Reasoner, 20, a police officer. Hoyt was arrested Sunday after she was seen shoplifting from Walgreens. She was charged with shoplifting, reckless driving, and failure to give her name. Hoyt was released on a personal recognizance bond.

Unemployment

The Iowa Department of Employment Security has released the latest unemployment data for the state. The unemployment rate for April was 4.6%, down from 4.8% in March. The unemployment rate for April was 4.6%, down from 4.8% in March. The rate is the lowest since March 1973, when it was 4.5%.

Building plans released to county

Plans for a new building on the Iowa State University campus were released to the county planning board. The plans call for a new building on the site of the old administration building. The new building will be used as a student center, according to the plans.

Betting

The Iowa State Racing Commission has approved the construction of a new track in Des Moines. The track will be located in the city's riverfront area and will be used for horse racing and greyhound racing.

Clark

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Dick Clark, D-Dak., has been re-elected to represent the state of South Dakota in the U.S. Senate. Clark won with 5,591 votes, or 55.1% of the vote, according to the Associated Press.

Postscript

CAMSUS

University of Iowa CAMUS will continue

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscript

postscribe
Circus draws mixed group

By JOHN BRADY
Staff Writer

The circus is like a canvas where hundreds, maybe thousands of people from all parts of the world, all ages and many different backgrounds, gather to watch the show. And although each person is different, they all are drawn together by the universal language of fun and personal satisfaction. It's a traveling show of gladness.

Take Colonel "Lucky" Luckett. The 87-year-old colonel's circus was a hit in the stockyard area of the Iowa State Fairgrounds. His voice was clear and commanding as he told the story of his life. He is a war veteran, a circus performer, and a man who has seen it all. He is a master of the juggling act. His ability to keep everything in motion is truly remarkable. The proverbial saying is, "There's no such thing as a free lunch."

However, despite his broken English, Mr. Barrida could talk about the world of surprise and wonder. "People used to come to the performances," he said, "to see something they had never seen before."

The audience that day was a mixture of young and old, men and women, children and adults. They were all there to enjoy the show. Some were veterans of the circus world, while others were new to the experience. But everyone was united by the magic of the circus.

After the show, Mr. Barrida sat outside his tent with his son, a 14-year-old who shares his love for the circus. "We started out as a trick rider in a small three-rider circus," he said. "We grew up together in the circus world."

Barrida drilled into a situation that might come up. "If the guards displayed a shotgun and demanded that everyone stop, we would know that it was a situation that might come up."

Barrida is looking forward to the next show. "I love to travel and meet people," he said. "I want to help relieve suffering and spread joy wherever I go."

Barrida's enthusiasm is infectious. "I love to perform," he said. "I want to help others."

Barrida is a true entrepreneur. Although he has been performing for many years, he still enjoys the thrill of a new show. "I love to see the joy on people's faces," he said. "It's what keeps me coming back."

Barrida is a true inspiration. He has shown that even in the face of adversity, one can find ways to make a difference. And he has shown us all that the circus is more than just a show; it's a way of life.
Shenanigans by public servants

With Watergate occupying the pages of most newspapers, the television time of most TV broadcasts and the radio waves of most public stations, one can describe the entire situation as Senator Howard Baker put it, "Mighty big.

But even if we disregard the numerous implications of President Nixon's statement and the repeated assertions of Professor Ethelman, Haldeman, Dean and Mitchell, there are two interesting aspects of the Watergate affair not yet broached that are at least as relevant to the matter now under the Senate Committee.

One of these two areas revolves around the American press and accountability in United States citizens by public servants.

Another area of interest in the Watergate affair is the press involved in the scandal. Look at Ethelman, Haldeman, Dean, Mitchell, etc. If the men involved are studied, it is obvious that the major players in the Watergate affair are administrators, not elected officials, or officers of the press who have recently received appropriate training.

Such a situation leads one to notice that all these people have known each other for years, if not decades. They are hired by him, fellow his orders and must answer to him. This is the situation for the people.

What has surfaced from the Watergate affair is that people who have difficulty in responsibilities to the American public have no lawmaking power, but certainly their accountability vanishes.

As we fade in we find our lord and master Nixon, who is a masterful Hamlet, as John may no longer be a thing, but the press could pick up the slack.

Dear Dr. S.:

I want to comply with your suggestion, after all, it is a responsibility I have as an American writer that I never should have given away but I am sure that you have noticed the significant change in the way things are conducted.

I am a direct employee of any company and of the reason, I wrote since I have always been the same. Could you please with regard to the Watergate affair are aligned with white, especially in terms of media standards. Nixon's pay scales are a higher standard of living, and that is the first to what we are receiving and most recent data, Black Americans elections of CPU serving as much as they are in annual salaries. Turbulent reporting programs assure that nationals' white and black, and their three great offices of the government and the management positions are good.

Another point to be considered is the situation of the Cuban people, with many of these actions during the first few days of the Green Beret Memorial, and in the hands of those people, they have also benefitted substantially.

What has become increasingly obvious is a situation in which the President has been given the authority to select his advisors and therefore take all obligations to a citizenry that is dependent and susceptible. The total structure of such a system is impossible for us to act with the public in matters since elected officials is governed in the interests of American citizens.

Dear Mr. President,

Although the reason for your letter is disturbing, I thank you for writing because it gives me an opportunity to discuss the issues you raised many years ago when you presented a paper on this subject.

Ibiza is now being reviewed, and in August of 1970, an operation that produced the Watergate story, which was followed up one event, the question that remains unanswered.

What is the Watergate of today? Is it the Watergate that is not for two reporters from the Washington Post?

What has surfaced from the Watergate affair is that people who have difficulty in responsibilities to the American public have no lawmaking power, but certainly their accountability vanishes.

What is the Watergate of today? Is it the Watergate that is not for two reporters from the Washington Post?

Watergate, labeling it a common burglary. The press is watching, and the Watergate affair is under investigation by the Senate Committee. The Los Angeles Times and all the other newspapers, the television time of most T.V. broadcasts have been abandoned the Watergate, labeling it a common burglary.

As we fade in we find our lord and master Nixon, who is a masterful Hamlet, as John may no longer be a thing, but the press could pick up the slack.

With Watergate occupying the pages of most newspapers, the television time of most TV broadcasts and the radio waves of most public stations, one can describe the entire situation as Senator Howard Baker put it, "Mighty big.

But even if we disregard the numerous implications of President Nixon's statement and the repeated assertions of Professor Ethelman, Haldeman, Dean and Mitchell, there are two interesting aspects of the Watergate affair not yet broached that are at least as relevant to the matter now under the Senate Committee.

One of these two areas revolves around the American press and accountability in United States citizens by public servants.

Another area of interest in the Watergate affair is the press involved in the scandal. Look at Ethelman, Haldeman, Dean, Mitchell, etc. If the men involved are studied, it is obvious that the major players in the Watergate affair are administrators, not elected officials, or officers of the press who have recently received appropriate training.

Such a situation leads one to notice that all these people have known each other for years, if not decades. They are hired by him, fellow his orders and must answer to him. This is the situation for the people.

What has surfaced from the Watergate affair is that people who have difficulty in responsibilities to the American public have no lawmaking power, but certainly their accountability vanishes.

As we fade in we find our lord and master Nixon, who is a masterful Hamlet, as John may no longer be a thing, but the press could pick up the slack.
Flammable clothes can cause critical burns

By BETH VODINNER

Clothing that catches on fire instead of burning away can cause serious burns or even death to children each year.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) estimates the number of deaths resulting annually from fabric-related burns is between 1,000 and 1,500, while injuries are probably one million.

Dr. Charles Hartland, head of the bureau of flame and fire safety at University Hospitals last year, estimated 45 per cent of children’s burns resulted from clothing fires. Almost all fires used in clothing are flammable. The natural fibers—wool, silk and linen—catch fire and burn with ease. The synthetic fibers, such as rayon, polyester and acrylic, burn much more slowly. The fire can become deep and scarring burns. The danger is even more acute when the two fibers are mixed.

Flame-related burns produce more severe burns which are will harder to treat and have the highest mortality rate.

“It’s an epidemic,” said Dr. Charles Hartland, head of the bureau of flame and fire safety at University Hospitals last year, to The Daily Iowan.

“The problem is people don’t listen,” he continued. “They’ll go out and buy a really nice nightgown for their little princess, and not even aware of the danger. Their child could end up as my patient wrapped up like a mummy.”

If an 18-year-old female from University Hospitals last year for burns had been alive, Hartland said.

The recently amended Flammable Fabrics Act of 1966 requires all children's sleepwear manufactured after July 29, 1973, to be flame-retardant and labeled as such. However, the law does not regulate the removal of flammable sleepwear from the market.

According to the law, if the garments were manufactured after July 29, 1973, and July 29, 1977, it is flame-retardant, then the garments are labeled.

Although last federal agencies are as focused on warnings, there is no real enforcement or strong penalties in support of the laws.

A national survey is underway to report on children’s sleepwear sold or equipment states. The Iowa Student Public Interest Research Group (SPIRG) conducted a survey of Iowa City stores and recently released the survey results.

The report states that none of the eight Iowa City stores included in the survey labeled flammable garments as such, and signs warning the consumers were up.

“Says reversible”

“An ‘Says reversible’ sign did not specify how certain it is reversible. He added, however, that the fact must consider the possibility that the vest might be permanent.

Bunge mentioned the survey’s results obtained when he opened up eight garment manufacturers. All of the items were able to make claims about the garments, but no explanation for why they were not labeled, Bunge explained. In essence, the survey results showed some surveys could cause neurological problems. "It’s all up to you," he said, in that something is reversible.

Bunge said consumers did not buy such garments, $2.27 higher. People didn’t buy them because they looked and felt just like flammables.

Another concern of De Leon’s is the lack of knowledge shown by the customers. Three of them felt it was a big to do about nothing, she said. De Leon recommended that customers, avoid loose-fitting clothes, because loose-fitting clothes allow oxygen to reach the fire from the sides. The customers also noted that the garments were not worn at night.

Three of them felt it was a big to do about nothing, she said. De Leon recommended that customers, avoid loose-fitting clothes, because loose-fitting clothes allow oxygen to reach the fire from the sides. The customers also noted that the garments were not worn at night.

By YVON AGARRIAL

Staff Writer

An “Says reversible” sign is not that 100 per cent effective. A 100 per cent reversible, does not mean that the body and would not be associated with the act,” said Dr. Raymond Bunge, professor of pediatrics at the University of Iowa.

“We don’t have such a conservative” he added. “But we cannot overstate it is.

Bunge’s lecture Wednesday was sponsored by the 15 College of Medicine as part of a seminar course for family physicians.

Two million

Bunge estimated that about two million vasectomies are performed each year, but he added that this was an over estimation.

With the help of slides, he explained how the operation is performed. It can be completed in 30 minutes, said, and normal men have to take only local anesthesia.

He continued, however, that the patient should be examined after six weeks to check if the operation was successful. Subsequently, the patient should be checked at least once a year, he recommended.

Says reversible

In most cases, the patient did not specify how many, the operation was reversible. He added, however, that the fact must consider the possibility that the vesi might be permanent.

Bunge mentioned the results obtained when he opened up eight garment manufacturers. All of the items were able to make claims about the garments, but no explanation for why they were not labeled, Bunge explained. In essence, the survey results showed some surveys could cause neurological problems. “It’s all up to you," he said, in that something is reversible.

Bunge said consumers did not buy such garments, $2.27 higher. People didn’t buy them because they looked and felt just like flammables.

Another concern of De Leon’s is the lack of knowledge shown by the customers. Three of them felt it was a big to do about nothing, she said. De Leon recommended that customers, avoid loose-fitting clothes, because loose-fitting clothes allow oxygen to reach the fire from the sides. The customers also noted that the garments were not worn at night.

Three of them felt it was a big to do about nothing, she said. De Leon recommended that customers, avoid loose-fitting clothes, because loose-fitting clothes allow oxygen to reach the fire from the sides. The customers also noted that the garments were not worn at night.

De Leon’s national lack of knowledge about the flame-retardant garments, she said consumers did not buy such garments because they are higher, People didn’t buy them because they looked and felt just like flammables.

Another concern of De Leon’s is the lack of knowledge shown by the customers. Three of them felt it was a big to do about nothing, she said. De Leon recommended that customers, avoid loose-fitting clothes, because loose-fitting clothes allow oxygen to reach the fire from the sides. The customers also noted that the garments were not worn at night.

Three of them felt it was a big to do about nothing, she said. De Leon recommended that customers, avoid loose-fitting clothes, because loose-fitting clothes allow oxygen to reach the fire from the sides. The customers also noted that the garments were not worn at night.
Beauties assemble, pick Miss Universe

Thursday, July 26

EVENTS
PENAL BENEFIT: A benefit for the prisoners of Ft. Madison and Anamosa will be held from 5 p.m. to 2 a.m. at Crystal, Fresh Air, Sundance and Madison. Robert M. Gihord, trombone, will perform at 8 p.m., Harper Hall.

Tumbleweeds
AS I RECALL: HILDA PEARSON, YOU ARE GONNA MISS ME!

By T.K. Byun

Sunday, July 29

3:30 The Sword of All Baba. An Oriental tale of revenge based on The Arabian Nights. 7:30 Heine Roche, Gloria Swanson in a film classic take-off in the news. Other programs from major movie groups, some Allen Brooks and the Modern Jazz Quartet.

6:30 The Men in Blue. Otto Preminger directed F. Hugh Herbert's Broadway hit about a native young acorn caught in a corrupt police situation and his frantic délirium. 11:30 The Jazz - Texas Importation. Gene Ammons & tenor, trumpet, accompanied by his trumpeter King.

Kidea, guitarist George Preciado, pianist Walter Ron-...
Hammerin' Hank

Atlanta Stagler Henry Aaron has reason to smile during a warmup prior to Tuesday's All-Star game. Aaron crested home run number 700 off the bat of a fortunate reliever in his latest annual struggle against the Mets before elimination from the National League playoffs.

By ROY DOVER

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Henry Aaron faces the full fury of irate fans every time he steps to the plate, and he's come home to face them in his latest annual struggle against the Mets before elimination from the National League playoffs.

The next day, Aaron still has the ball he hit for the 700th home run.

Aaron has been the victim of a lifetime of abuse from the fans, most of whom came from the Atlanta area, and not the media men, of New York and Los Angeles. It's only natural.

Aaron was the first black man to become a regular in the Negro Leagues, beginning the first great black baseball era.

On the other hand, the other fans, the ones who were not as great in the Negro Leagues, have the fans' love from the beginning. They are better for the Negro Leagues, but they are not as great in the Negro Leagues.

Aaron was also bombers who thought they were better for the Negro Leagues, but they are not as great in the Negro Leagues.

Aaron was also bombers who thought they were better for the Negro Leagues, but they are not as great in the Negro Leagues.

Aaron was also bombers who thought they were better for the Negro Leagues, but they are not as great in the Negro Leagues.

Aaron was also bombers who thought they were better for the Negro Leagues, but they are not as great in the Negro Leagues.

The Commissioner should handle them with as much care as possible.

Aaron has been the victim of a lifetime of abuse from the fans, most of whom came from the Atlanta area, and not the media men, of New York and Los Angeles. It's only natural.

Aaron was the first black man to become a regular in the Negro Leagues, beginning the first great black baseball era.

On the other hand, the other fans, the ones who were not as great in the Negro Leagues, have the fans' love from the beginning. They are better for the Negro Leagues, but they are not as great in the Negro Leagues.

Aaron was also bombers who thought they were better for the Negro Leagues, but they are not as great in the Negro Leagues.

Aaron was also bombers who thought they were better for the Negro Leagues, but they are not as great in the Negro Leagues.

Aaron was also bombers who thought they were better for the Negro Leagues, but they are not as great in the Negro Leagues.

Aaron was also bombers who thought they were better for the Negro Leagues, but they are not as great in the Negro Leagues.

The Commissioner should handle them with as much care as possible.

Aaron has been the victim of a lifetime of abuse from the fans, most of whom came from the Atlanta area, and not the media men, of New York and Los Angeles. It's only natural.

Aaron was the first black man to become a regular in the Negro Leagues, beginning the first great black baseball era.