The cost-of-living increases granted state employees will not be able to keep up with the rising prices of the consumer. The cost of living is expected to increase by 6 percent in 1974, and this rise is expected to continue into the future. The state employees will receive a 4 percent raise, which is not enough to cover the cost of living. This is a serious problem for the state employees, who are already facing financial difficulties. The state employees are calling for a more substantial raise to cover the cost of living.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following the recent meeting of the state employees' union, the Governor announced that there would be no wage increases for state employees. The Governor stated that the current economic conditions make it impossible to grant wage increases to state employees. The state employees are disappointed by this decision and are calling for action to address their financial difficulties.

Ehrlichman reveals second President's plumbers unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Ehrlichman, President Nixon's former Special Assistant for Domestic Affairs, has revealed that there was another White House "plumbers" unit, an investigation team that dealt with financial matters. Ehrlichman said revealing this information was prompted by the Watergate hearings. The disclosure came during the Senate Watergate Committee's investigations of the White House scandal. Ehrlichman, a former White House chief of staff, said he had been questioned by Senate investigators about the suspicions surrounding the White House's financial affairs. When pressed to reveal the existence of another unit, Ehrlichman admitted that there was a covert team of White House investigators. He said that this team, which he called the "plumbers unit," was involved in financial matters such as tax evasion and financial reporting.

Regents staff to propose night pay differential plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The University of Northern Iowa is expected to propose a night differential pay plan for its staff members. This plan is aimed at addressing the financial difficulties faced by the University's employees. The University of Northern Iowa is facing financial difficulties due to the current economic conditions. The University's employees are calling for action to address their financial difficulties.

Watergate committee sues Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has been sued by the Watergate committee for his role in the Watergate scandal. The Watergate committee, which was established to investigate the Watergate affair, has filed a lawsuit against President Nixon. The lawsuit alleges that Nixon had knowledge of the Watergate activities and that he had a role in the Watergate scandal.

New press put on Phoen Phom

PHOEN PHOM (AP) — Cambodia's new press put on Phoen Phom, which is the national daily newspaper, is expected to be a powerful tool for the government to control information. The newspaper is expected to be used to spread government propaganda and to suppress any criticism of the government. The newspaper is expected to be a powerful tool for the government to control information. The newspaper is expected to be used to spread government propaganda and to suppress any criticism of the government.

80s Cloudy

80s Weather

The 80s weather was cloudy and rainy. The clouds covered the sun, and the rain fell steadily. The weather conditions were not ideal for outdoor activities. The cloudy weather made it difficult to see the surrounding landscape. The cloudy weather also made it difficult to see the surrounding landscape.

New pressure put on Phnom Penh

Komer Eksapa rebels in Phnom Penh have been providing heavy resistance to the government forces. The rebels have been able to hold off the government forces for several days. The rebels are seeking to establish a new government in Phnom Penh. The rebels have been able to hold off the government forces for several days. The rebels are seeking to establish a new government in Phnom Penh.
Student Senate funds withheld from BSU

By LINDA YOUNG

Several University of Iowa student organizations, including the Black Student Union, the Student Senate and the Women's Democratic Club, have been informed that their funds have been frozen pending a Senate investigation.

The Senate investigation, which began in March, is designed to determine whether the organizations have violated Senate rules or have mismanaged funds.

According to Senate President John V. Van Ufheer, the investigation was triggered by a complaint from one of the organizations, which alleged that they had been denied funds because of political differences.

Van Ufheer said that the Senate had decided to freeze the organizations' funds "pending a full and thorough investigation of the situation." He added that the Senate would take "appropriate action" once the investigation was completed.

The organizations involved in the investigation are the Black Student Union, the Student Senate and the Women's Democratic Club.

The Black Student Union, which represents African-American students, has been accused of "disrespectful behavior" during a recent meeting. The Student Senate has been accused of "mismanagement of funds," and the Women's Democratic Club has been accused of "political bias."
Doctor warns against ‘pill’

Goal of Berkeley conference

‘Strategy against imperialism’

Forecasts balanced budget for ‘74

Skylab crew loses weight

Washington (AP) - The Nixon administration Thursday announced an expected 20 per cent increase both in the federal budget and on the national budget for fiscal 1975.

W. L. Anderson, assistant secretary of the Treasury under President Richard Nixon, said that the budget for next year would be $37 billion and that the national budget would reach $200 billion.

In a statement issued by the Treasury Department, Anderson said that the budget for next year would be $37 billion, an increase of nearly $20 billion over the current $17 billion. He said that the increase was necessary to cover the costs of a major national defense program.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nation's annual defense budget, which will be presented to Congress in accordance with the fiscal year fiscal year, will be $37 billion, an increase of $20 billion over the current $17 billion. The increase will be necessary to support a major national defense program.

The budget for next year will be $37 billion, the biggest increase in the federal budget since 1960. It will be $20 billion more than the current $17 billion.

The budget includes an increase of $10 billion in defense spending, an increase of $3 billion in non-defense spending, and an increase of $7 billion in interest on the national debt.

The budget is the first in the post-Vietnam War era to show a significant increase in defense spending. It is the first budget to show a significant increase in defense spending since 1968.

The increase in defense spending will be used to support a new national defense program, which will be announced later this year. The program will be designed to increase the nation's defense capabilities and to improve the nation's ability to wage war.

The budget includes an increase of $10 billion in defense spending, an increase of $3 billion in non-defense spending, and an increase of $7 billion in interest on the national debt.

The budget is the first in the post-Vietnam War era to show a significant increase in defense spending. It is the first budget to show a significant increase in defense spending since 1968.

The increase in defense spending will be used to support a new national defense program, which will be announced later this year. The program will be designed to increase the nation's defense capabilities and to improve the nation's ability to wage war.

The budget includes an increase of $10 billion in defense spending, an increase of $3 billion in non-defense spending, and an increase of $7 billion in interest on the national debt.

The budget is the first in the post-Vietnam War era to show a significant increase in defense spending. It is the first budget to show a significant increase in defense spending since 1968.

The increase in defense spending will be used to support a new national defense program, which will be announced later this year. The program will be designed to increase the nation's defense capabilities and to improve the nation's ability to wage war.

The budget includes an increase of $10 billion in defense spending, an increase of $3 billion in non-defense spending, and an increase of $7 billion in interest on the national debt.

The budget is the first in the post-Vietnam War era to show a significant increase in defense spending. It is the first budget to show a significant increase in defense spending since 1968.

The increase in defense spending will be used to support a new national defense program, which will be announced later this year. The program will be designed to increase the nation's defense capabilities and to improve the nation's ability to wage war.

The budget includes an increase of $10 billion in defense spending, an increase of $3 billion in non-defense spending, and an increase of $7 billion in interest on the national debt.

The budget is the first in the post-Vietnam War era to show a significant increase in defense spending. It is the first budget to show a significant increase in defense spending since 1968.

The increase in defense spending will be used to support a new national defense program, which will be announced later this year. The program will be designed to increase the nation's defense capabilities and to improve the nation's ability to wage war.

The budget includes an increase of $10 billion in defense spending, an increase of $3 billion in non-defense spending, and an increase of $7 billion in interest on the national debt.
Nixon's actions stick in throat

There is just something about the last six months of the Nixon Administration that seems to stick in my throat. It is not a feeling of remorse. It is not the knowing that one has done wrong. It is not even a sense of uncertainty about one's own ability. It is a feeling of disgust for the actions of his employees. Whatever it is, it is hard to identify. It may be the feeling that a President who was elected by the largest majority in history has somehow gone off the rails. It may be the feeling that the country has been betrayed. It may be the feeling that a President who is supposed to lead has instead failed to lead. It may be the feeling that the country has been left in a worse position than it was before.

The responsibility for the press has been much discussed in the last five years. The President has acted in such a way that running up a red flag every time the press has given him a bad time. He has gone so far as to call for the resignation of several newspapers in an attempt to blackball them from the profession. This was done simply because they received information about the "real intentions" of the President or his staff, and felt the public should know what it was really happening.

Questions have also been raised on the subject of Nixon going before the Senate committee. The President maintains this would destroy the separation of powers between the executive and legislative branches. However, President Lincoln went before a similar Senate committee in the last decade and he was successful in maintaining some semblance of sanity.

I was surprised to see in a writer's opinion column that the President does not "believe in democracy when the people are at odds with him."

Another Japan?

The kingdom of Iran also has in the last decade and a half seen the transition from a backward feudal country to a modern nation-state which currently has a per capita income of over $300. In the last decade, the United States has provided military aid to Iran as a means of deterring the Soviet Union's advance into the area. The United States is now providing military aid to Iran as a means of deterring the Soviet Union's advance into the area.

The lead article in the Iranian newspaper "Eghtesad" states that the Shah's "White Revolution" can only be compared to the rise of Japan in the last 200 years. In the last century, Japan took 35 years to modernize under a new government. In 1868, the Meiji restoration in Japan began the process of modernization. In 1941, Japan was attacked by the United States and Britain in the Pacific War, and in 1945, Japan was forced to surrender.

Stock traps

To the Editor:

I was surprised to see in an article that the President does not "believe in democracy when the people are at odds with him."

Another Japan?

The kingdom of Iran also has in the last decade and a half seen the transition from a backward feudal country to a modern nation-state which currently has a per capita income of over $300. In the last decade, the United States has provided military aid to Iran as a means of deterring the Soviet Union's advance into the area. The United States is now providing military aid to Iran as a means of deterring the Soviet Union's advance into the area.

The lead article in the Iranian newspaper "Eghtesad" states that the Shah's "White Revolution" can only be compared to the rise of Japan in the last 200 years. In the last century, Japan took 35 years to modernize under a new government. In 1868, the Meiji restoration in Japan began the process of modernization. In 1941, Japan was attacked by the United States and Britain in the Pacific War, and in 1945, Japan was forced to surrender.
By 180 students

Increase expected in freshman class

By Peter Kendigton

Staff Writer

University of Iowa freshman enrollment will increase by approximately 400 students this fall, and the increased enrollment totals include 180 students who transferred from schools in states and who have also increased contacts with high schools and vice-president for administration effort. Schmidhauser noted that the 180-year-old establishment will remain by approximately 400 students this fall, and the increased enrollment totals include 180 students who transferred from schools in states and who have also increased contacts with high schools and vice-president for administration effort. Schmidhauser noted that the 180-year-old establishment will remain.
The Legend of Boggy Creek

By JEANNE ALLEN

There are two good surprises from the National Film Board of Canada showing only "The Legend of Boggy Creek." The first is that the film is not the simplistic, unthinking tourist show which it might have been from the look of the promotional literature. The second is that the film doesn’t simply tell us about the legends of the Arkansas Delta but rather identifies the sources of the legends and their appeal to its audience and to our own sense of the American past.

The film, which was directed by Bob Keogh and produced by Billie Raines, is an apparent attempt to transcend the usual filmic folklore and to go searching beneath the surface of the legends themselves. It is an attempt to explore the legend of the Boggy Creek monster in a way that is more sympathetic to the audience and to the community of the Boggy Creek area.

The Boggy Creek monster, which is said to live in the swamp next to the town of Boggy Creek, is a frequent subject of the local folk tradition. In the film, we meet the local people who tell us about the legend and who believe in it. We also meet the scientists who have come to investigate the legend and who are skeptical of it. We see their debate and their shared experience of the legend.

The film is a good example of documentary film-making that is both informative and entertaining. It is a good example of how to use the medium to bring out the richness of a particular community’s folklore and to make it accessible to a wider audience.

The film is also a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the nature of folklore and its relationship to the community. It is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the role of science in investigating folklore and its relationship to the community.

The film is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the nature of folklore and its relationship to the community. It is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the role of science in investigating folklore and its relationship to the community.

The film is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the nature of folklore and its relationship to the community. It is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the role of science in investigating folklore and its relationship to the community.

The film is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the nature of folklore and its relationship to the community. It is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the role of science in investigating folklore and its relationship to the community.

The film is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the nature of folklore and its relationship to the community. It is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the role of science in investigating folklore and its relationship to the community.

The film is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the nature of folklore and its relationship to the community. It is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the role of science in investigating folklore and its relationship to the community.

The film is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the nature of folklore and its relationship to the community. It is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the role of science in investigating folklore and its relationship to the community.

The film is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the nature of folklore and its relationship to the community. It is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the role of science in investigating folklore and its relationship to the community.

The film is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the nature of folklore and its relationship to the community. It is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the role of science in investigating folklore and its relationship to the community.

The film is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the nature of folklore and its relationship to the community. It is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the role of science in investigating folklore and its relationship to the community.

The film is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the nature of folklore and its relationship to the community. It is a good example of how to use the medium to raise questions about the role of science in investigating folklore and its relationship to the community.
EVADE the 351-2667 DIRECT經驗者”。“We had two days," Mr. Nicolics said, "and we could have used the mental attitude of a goat." The Chicago Bears, who are based in the suburbs of Chicago, had a 9-1 record last season, and are currently 4-1 this season.

"We have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players," Mr. Nicolics said. "But we have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players." The Chicago Bears, who are based in the suburbs of Chicago, had a 9-1 record last season, and are currently 4-1 this season.

"We have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players," Mr. Nicolics said. "But we have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players." The Chicago Bears, who are based in the suburbs of Chicago, had a 9-1 record last season, and are currently 4-1 this season.

"We have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players," Mr. Nicolics said. "But we have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players." The Chicago Bears, who are based in the suburbs of Chicago, had a 9-1 record last season, and are currently 4-1 this season.

"We have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players," Mr. Nicolics said. "But we have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players." The Chicago Bears, who are based in the suburbs of Chicago, had a 9-1 record last season, and are currently 4-1 this season.

"We have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players," Mr. Nicolics said. "But we have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players." The Chicago Bears, who are based in the suburbs of Chicago, had a 9-1 record last season, and are currently 4-1 this season.

"We have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players," Mr. Nicolics said. "But we have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players." The Chicago Bears, who are based in the suburbs of Chicago, had a 9-1 record last season, and are currently 4-1 this season.

"We have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players," Mr. Nicolics said. "But we have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players." The Chicago Bears, who are based in the suburbs of Chicago, had a 9-1 record last season, and are currently 4-1 this season.

"We have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players," Mr. Nicolics said. "But we have a lot of problems, and we have a lot of players." The Chicago Bears, who are based in the suburbs of Chicago, had a 9-1 record last season, and are currently 4-1 this season.