WASHINGTON (AP) - The late President Lyndon B. Johnson cautioned during his White House tenure that he had "no green lights set up" for the cultural test program. But the current cultural test is not available widely in the United States.

"The cultural test was used in some areas," said a knowledgeable source in the Justice Department. "But it was mostly a practical one."

Johnson's statement was confirmed by Dr. Douglas, an expert in cultural matters. "I don't see the cultural test as being widespread," he said. "It was used in some areas, but it was mostly practical."
Congress bolsters school lunch aid

Despite evidence to the contrary, the Congress of the United States has yet to act on a number of other things besides increasing the subsidy to the President’s voters. Many worthwhile and beneficial laws that are long due are still in the legislative distance because of their somewhat limited effect on the population as a whole. One of these is the battle in the Senate to cut the rubbernecking on the part of the school routine as the pledge of allegiance to the flag. However, high food costs coupled with increased shortages of agricultural commodities have combined to threaten the very existence of the program for many children who relied on the extension of the program without it.

In 1988 Congress started nutrition programs to "safeguard the health and well-being of the nation’s school children.” Today this program, in some degree, reaches about 35 million out of 53 million schoolchildren. 8.8 million needy children receive either free or reduced-price meals. And not just because it is a part of the school routine is the pledge of allegiance to the flag. However, high food costs coupled with increased shortages of agricultural commodities have combined to threaten the very existence of the program for many children who relied on the extension of the program without it.

In response, the House of Representatives on September 13 passed the school lunch and Child Nutrition Act Amendments of 1988 by an impressive margin. The bill contains three major provisions:

- It increases the general level of federal support from 29 to 57 cents.
- It raises reimbursements for free lunches for needy children from 35 to 50 cents.
- It provides permanent authority for the Secretary of Agriculture to provide cash grants to local programs whenever agriculture falls short on commodities.

In the Senate, the situation is equally hopeful. Senators Case, McGovern, and Humphrey, and no significant opposition, are moving comprehensively forward to improve breakfast and lunch programs. The Senate bill will provide national standards for school lunches, some previously enacted. The body has been handling this important issue. We believe that no one can ever be achieved in the Middle East without justice to both the Arab states who have shown restraint in the face of provocation of the United Nations Charter’s principle of acquiring any territory by aggression; and the Palestinian people who are the only legal owner of the land. Outrageous aggression?

A's revolt

NEW YORK (AP) — Defender Reggie Jackson said Monday night he would return to the Oakland a's because Charlie O. Finley could trigger a worldwide revolt in the American League.

"There could be a possibility of refusing to play," said Jackson. "There are bunch of guys we're close to that point.

Finley is going to try to make the team pay the price of two errors in Tuesday's 1-4 loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I just felt bad for the man," said Jackson. "We'd do it.

Finley has pulled other uneasy notices that have the A's in a depressed and hurried mood, added Jackson.

"I believe there are going to be a lot of holdouts in making right-handed hitters. Some players are going to idle out for a game.

When asked if the A's would consider their dummy card-men situation, the executive, Jackson replied that it was possible. He said he was sure that several of the players on Oakland's roster would be moving "soon," regarding the general situation with Finley.

Most of the A's start alumni No. 17 at their tumultuous season Monday by "kicking off avanti" before they hold a Thursday at O's Stadium.

After the announcement Jackson was declared discouraged and was sent home to Bayonne when he A's first here.

The A's created a press release Monday, describing the debate situation. It said in part: "Andrews indicated his disability in the US midning of Sunday's game when he couldn't go to the great ball that allowed two more.

He was also unable to make an accurate throw in first base, resulting in a third New York run in the ninth inning.

Ineligible

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Rudy Jackson, a 4-foot-11 center

from New York City who joined the Wichita State University basketball team because of his height, has been ineligible because he did not finish high school, the school announced Friday.

Jackson attended Hutchinson, Kan., Junior College in his freshman year, when he averaged 11 points and 6 rebounds a game.

He subsequently transferred to the Illinois Junior College fuselage. With Jackson at the pivot, Hutchinson took second place in the national tournament last season.

The announcement was made by Ted Dressel, Wichita

State's associate athletic director. Dressel and Same Staln, a

WSSU graduate assistant, made a real effort to discovering Jackson's transcripts.

A witness who knew Jackson's high school claimed that Jackson's failure to finish high school was discovered by the Wichita Junior College basketball coach.
