CUE fights earlier debts; profits improving situation

BY CHUCK RAWKINS

and GEORGE SHERA

Editor's Note: This is the final of a three-part series on the University of Iowa Student Senate (CUE). Today's article deals with CUE history. Tuesday's article, explores CUE recent history, and Wednesday's looks at CUE activities.

Since its inception in 1965, the Commission for University Student (CUE) has been plagued with many problems and criticisms which have carried over into this academic year. In addition to the starting the year with a $2,000 debt, CUE has failed to present concerts on the two dates this fall presented to them by the university for use of the Fieldhouse. These dates were scheduled for January and February and were funded by the Student Senate.

In February 1970 the executive board of CPC resigned its issue. Their complaints which resulted in this action were: the CPC funds were placed on an account under the jurisdiction of a student's activity board; because CPC spent their money without the approval of the senator; and programming concerts were being done without the knowledge of the two senators.

CUE was dissolved as the CPC replacement and the new board continued it's operation. In the spring they presented concerts and performed an account under the jurisdiction of a student's activity board; because CPC spent their money without the approval of the senator; and programming concerts were being done without the knowledge of the two senators.

In November 1970, the board was dissolved by the university. Money given to CUE by the university was taken back by the president. In December 1970 another student filed a suit to annul other student groups.

The last event sponsored by the CPC was a performance by Milt Fuld that drew less than 100 persons and was paid for by the University. CUE was formed in order to give the student and president the opportunity to have concerts presented by the university. The university, however, did not see the concerts as an opportunity to have concerts presented by the university. Drug information at dorm

By MAUREEN CONNORS

A drug counseling center, operated by the Student Association for the College of Pharmacy, is available for students who want information concerning substance abuse or treatment of problems related to drug use.

The center at Burge Hall was opened last fall. Opponents of the center say that its operation as an informational source rather than a treatment center would make the island dormitory resident more sophisticated about drugs, but for some students, especially first year, the center will be a welcome addition to the educational program who have an interest in drug counseling.

According to Blaska, the center initially was established as an informational source, "as an educational center."

Blaska said that the center has not had many students who have come in for drug information at dorm.

A student who visits a REA counselor, "I don't know 100%" will be given the medical facts about the drug, someone with drug problems will be referred to other agencies that have been established for drug problems ranging from abuse to physical addiction.

Blaska said that the center is available to students who are interested in drug counseling.

The Middle East War has been raging now for 19 years, and it appears to be no nearer to an end. Diplomatic maneuvers have been employed almost without ceasing, but military conflicts have been the order of the day. The Middle East has been the scene of some of the most disastrous and destructive wars in history. The conflict between Israel and its neighboring Arab states has been a constant source of tension and conflict in the region.

There is much that can be learned by visiting other countries and experiencing their customs and cultures. This can be a valuable way to broaden one's perspective and gain a better understanding of the world. It is important to be respectful and open-minded when visiting other countries, and to be aware of the cultural differences that exist between them.

In conclusion, visiting other countries can be a rewarding experience, as it allows us to broaden our horizons and gain a greater appreciation for the diversity of the world around us.

Israelis see legends and lives destroyed

Israelis cite war gains in Middle East

JERUSALEM (AP) - Israel's historically sensitive and often divided nation is at a crossroads as it begins to celebrate the 15th anniversary of its stunning 1967 victory over its Arab neighbors.

The Israelis see it as a time for national pride and the opportunity to rewrite history to suit their own version of events. But the Arabs and other nations still see Israel as an occupying force and a threat to their security.

For Israel, the war of 1967, known as the Six-Day War, was a turning point that allowed it to annex the West Bank, Gaza Strip and East Jerusalem. It also led to the creation of the State of Palestine, which is not recognized by Israel or most of the world.

Israelis see the war as a victory over the odds, with their forces overwhelming the Arab armies. They point to the capture of the Suez Canal, which Israel used as a strategic asset and a source of income. They also credit the war with securing Israel's borders with the Arab world and establishing its status as a military power.

For the Arabs, the war was a crushing defeat that forced them to retreat from their pre-war territory and lose control of their resources. They see the war as a violation of their rights and a violation of international law.

The war had a profound impact on the region, leading to the formation of new states and the expansion of Israel's borders. It also had a lasting effect on the region's politics and economy, as well as on the global balance of power.

Despite the differences, both sides acknowledge the historical significance of the Six-Day War and its lasting impact on the region. It remains a source of tension and conflict, as the search for peace continues.

Scorpio

In the never changing genre

By Jim Phillips

Feature Writer

The Michael Warren film Scorpio is another incomprehensible film. It might just as well have been titled Sensational Cinema or Sensational Scandal.

If we could only condense the film into a clear-cut, logical, intellectual, and thought-provoking outline, it would be much easier to understand. The plot is so complex and convoluted that it is difficult to follow.

The secret agent in the film is a mysterious figure, and he is always in danger. He is a man of many talents, including the ability to change his identity and disappear without a trace.

He is a master of disguise, able to blend into any background. He is a man of action, able to solve problems and save the day. He is a man of mystery, able to keep everyone guessing about his true identity.

In the end, the film fails to deliver the exciting and thrilling experience that it sets out to provide. The viewer is left feeling disappointed and unsatisfied.

Egg prices drop five, ten cents per dozen

By Sarah Johnson

Feature Writer

The price of eggs has dropped significantly in the past few days, with prices falling by five to ten cents per dozen.

The reasons for this price drop are not clear, but it is likely due to a combination of factors, including a decrease in demand and an increase in supply.

Egg producers are now facing increased competition from other sources of protein, such as meat and dairy products.

The drop in egg prices is likely to be temporary, as egg producers are likely to adjust their production levels in response to the lower prices.

Grateful Dead improve with age and ‘Wake of the Flood’ proves it

By DAVID STY

Feature Writer

The Grateful Dead are no longer the youthful band they were in 1967. They have reached middle age, and like many other groups of this generation, they have matured, and sometimes mellowed.

This change, however, has not detracted from their abilities. Instead, it has added a new dimension to their music, making it more complex and sophisticated.

With ‘Wake of the Flood,’ the Dead have created an album that is both musically rich and emotionally appealing.

The album features a variety of musical styles, from rock to folk to country. This diversity adds to the overall appeal of the album, making it accessible to a wide range of listeners.

Lyrically, the songs on ‘Wake of the Flood’ are equally varied. Some are political and social commentaries, while others are more personal and introspective.

For example, ‘Truckin’’ is a�

Impeachment rallies cannot

compare to war protests

By the Associated Press

Whatever public sympathy there is for impeachment, President Nixon has failed to gain the mass movement of protest that characterized the Vietnam War movement in years.

The Nixon administration has symbolized the pressure of its opponents by the number of vetoes it has overridden in Congress. The Senate has overridden 12 of them, and the House has overridden 10.

A mass demonstration in support of the President’s impeachment has never been attempted before.

The American Civil Liberties Union has launched an “impeachNixon” campaign but it has not been able to win the support of a mass movement.

For Nixon to be removed from office, he would have to be impeached by the House and then convicted by the Senate.

The House has a total of 435 members, and a two-thirds majority of the membership is required to impeach a President.

The Senate has 100 members, and a two-thirds majority of the membership is required to convict a President.

If Nixon is impeached, the Senate would then hold a trial to determine whether he is guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors.

The trial would be conducted by the House of Representatives, and the Chief Justice of the United States would preside.

If the Senate finds him guilty, Nixon would be removed from office.

If the Senate finds him not guilty, Nixon would remain in office.

The result of the impeachment trial would be reported to the American people, who would then decide whether to make Nixon a candidate for public office.

The American people would then vote whether to elect Nixon to public office.

Illinois deals Hawks seventh loss, 50-0

By GREG LIND
Chicago Sun Times

For the second straight year, by far the worst effort of the year, and the worst ever by far...
The Hawks lost to the Illinois State Carrier in the Carrier's complete summertime up, as the Hawks had no protection from injury. The Carrier went down in its seventh season, its last appearance at the Carrier, off up 6-0 packing and 6-0 packing, to neighbor
the Hawks in a game played through over the Carrier's home base.

The Carrier didn't take a loss to a team in the Carrier's history and in half addition two years later, a Carrier loss.

A team in the Carrier's recent half-decade
did not return the Carrier to the Carrier.
