Olympics

Placement and growth of children with special needs should be an issue of high concern for all of the community, particularly those who have children with these needs. The Special Olympics is a wonderful opportunity for these children to participate in athletics and to develop their skills. It is a source of great pride and joy for the families of these children to see them succeed and achieve their goals. The Special Olympics provides a platform for these children to be recognized and appreciated for their accomplishments, and it helps to build their self-confidence and self-esteem. It is an opportunity for them to experience the joy of competition and to derive the benefits of discipline and perseverance that come from setting and achieving goals. By supporting the Special Olympics, we can all play a part in making a positive impact on the lives of these special athletes and their families.

When filing a tax return, Mr. Mullord is learning about the importance of the income tax dollar for both the individual taxpayer and the government. He is discovering that the income tax is the main source of income for the government, and that it is used to finance a wide variety of public programs and services.

Mr. Mullord is particularly interested in the use of income tax dollars for education and the arts. He is learning about the tax benefits available for charitable contributions to educational institutions and cultural organizations.

Mr. Mullord is also interested in the tax benefits available for investment in small businesses and the economy. He is learning about the tax benefits available for investments in small businesses and the importance of small businesses to the economy.

Equal Time

Editor’s Note: Today’s Equal Time column is a carryover from Concordia College. Mr. Robert Quirk, a Concordia grad, submitted this for consideration. In his article, Mr. Quirk addresses the issue of equal time for all political candidates. His arguments are strong, and his writing is clear. We believe this is a valuable contribution to the debate on this important issue.

Quirk suggests that all candidates should be given equal time on television and in print. He cites examples of how some candidates have been favored in the past, while others have not. He argues that this is unfair and that all candidates should have an equal voice.

Quirk’s arguments are compelling, and we encourage the candidates to support his proposal. Equal time will ensure that all candidates have the opportunity to present their views to the public.

EPO Reports High Rate of

of secured teaching jobs

Recent developments in teaching vacancies reported to the University of Iowa Placement Office (EPO) continued to decline, with 17.3 per cent of those registered with the office in 1973 secured teaching jobs and related education positions.

The figure is down from 18.9 per cent registered in 1972. Twenty-five per cent of those registered with the EPO in 1971 sought other occupations and eight per cent continued their education, reported Jack A. Hendershot, director of the Placement Office.

The EPO office also collects and submits nationwide information on teaching vacancies and jobs.

The EPO staff has continued its efforts to develop better procedures and improve methods of collecting data.

Credentials

The EPO staff is currently working on the development of a better school district in Iowa and the national rating system is not peculiar to any one state.

Although the number of teaching jobs continues to decline, a steady increase over the past several years has decreased slightly in 1972 after a steady increase over the past several years.

In 1972, 5,247 candidates were registered with the office, 2,100 were registered in 1971 and the number dropped to 1,600 in 1970.

The EPO office also collects and submits nationwide information on teaching vacancies and jobs.

Declining

Job vacancies are in all areas of elementary and secondary education, according to the report.

According to the report, job vacancies for 1973 include 18,904 elementary school positions, 19,600 secondary school positions, and 20,300 high school positions.

Lower birth rates are culting the number of candidates registered and the number of teaching jobs available.

For example, in 1973, there were 2,495 teaching jobs, compared to 2,725 teaching jobs in 1972.

The number of junior college vacancies increased to 4,257 from 3,794 in 1972.

The number of teaching jobs for 1973 was 2,130, compared to 2,275 teaching jobs in 1972.

EPO registered 13 per cent of those registered with the EPO in 1972, compared to 14 per cent registered in 1971.

Isolation

While the center of the room was clear of the actors working, the audience was aware that the theater was being prepped for the next performance. "Dancer Without Arms," the last production of the season, was scheduled to open the following night.

Dancer Nin, "House of Bones"

In this scene from the acting company's previous production, "The Hidden," the actor who played Dancer Nin was isolated in a room. The scene took place in a dark room, with the actor standing in the center. The lighting was dim, with only a single light shining on the actor's face. The actor was wearing a black suit, whichhid her identity. The ambiance was tense, with the audience aware that something important was about to happen.

Controlling vulnerability

Another aspect of the Dancer Without Arms was the actor's ability to control vulnerability. The actor was able to control how much of herself she revealed to the audience. This was important because the audience was aware of the actor's internal struggles. The actor was able to control the way in which she revealed herself, and the audience was able to feel connected to her struggles. This was an important aspect of the performance, and the audience was able to feel a sense of intimacy with the actor.

Kissinger relates state matters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says he is making his second trip to Moscow in a year at a difficult time for the period which marks its previous negotiations in the Soviet Union.

Kissinger said the journey next week will be made under new circumstances in the course of which marked his previous negotiations in the Soviet Union.

The great length concerning the dispute between the United States and Western Europe.

He said the specific purpose of the United States in seeking a new definition of the Atlantic Alliance relationship was to "clarify" the meaning of the term "isolation".

His trip to the Soviet Union will lead to progress.

While Kissinger said it was necessary to protect the crime scene, he added: "The most important thing is to protect the crime scene, to preserve the facts that are there."

When asked if he was concerned about the possibility of an immunological problem in the United States, Kissinger said: "We are concerned about the possibility of an immunological problem in the United States."

Carol Drum, one of the owners of C. Drum's Rare and Interesting Books, said the shop has been run by her husband Charlie for 20 years, and she has been a part of the operation for five years. She said the shop is located in a historic building and that it is a great place for book lovers.

"I've been reading books for as long as I can remember," she said. "I love the sense of adventure that comes with reading, and I enjoy the way that books can take you to different places." She also said that she enjoys the community that comes with running a bookshop, and that she loves being able to share her love of books with others.

"I enjoy being able to connect with other book lovers and to share my passion for reading," she said. "It's a great feeling to be able to help others find the perfect book for them."

Basic hints on stain removal

With a scan or two months left in the Harley Race, the goal is to keep.

If you are giving a lecture or a seminar, always try to break the lecture into smaller parts. This will help your audience stay focused.

As a general rule, warm water should be used to remove stains.

To make your stain removal job a lot easier, try to remove the stain as soon as possible. The longer the stain is left, the harder it will be to remove.

CFL

THOROUGHBRED (AP) — While the Canadian Football League is digging in for a month with the new World Football League, CFL Commissioner Abe Geisler says he's working to hold him with the rival league's expansion.

Geisler said WFL President Gary Davidson called him Wednesday and proposed a meeting to discuss their respective positions.

At the last CFL's Toronto/Northern moving into competition with the CFL's Toronto Argonauts, the draft earlier this month is included in a rival league's plans. The WFL said it would play CFL teams in its slate.

"He said he's going to get together with me and work on some kind of a relationship between the two leagues," Geisler said. "I don't know what he means by that."

"I told him that anytime he's in Toronto, I'll be pleased to see him and talk to him. I told him that I'm ready to get together with him."

Geisler said that Davidson's approach didn't change his conviction that he's going to break the union.

"I think the CFL's in a very strong position and I don't have anything in mind to give anything up. But I don't see any reason to give up the professional football teams can make it in Toronto, but we're going to have some sort of a relationship between the two leagues."
