U.S. milk producers contributed to 1968 Humphrey coffers

WASHINGTON (AP) — An internal audit showed that Minnesota dairy company resources were not used to help support Hubert H. Humphrey's 1968 gubernatorial campaign, as claimed by the Minnesota Democratic-Farmer-Labor party. The audit and a lawyer's report, obtained by The Associated Press, found no evidence of any financial contributions from the dairy company to Humphrey's campaign.

In 1968, Humphrey ran for governor of Minnesota in the party's primary against Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. The dairy company has been accused of funneling funds to Humphrey's campaign through a complex network of shell companies.

The audit, conducted by an accounting firm, concluded that the dairy company did not contribute any money to Humphrey's campaign. It also found no evidence of any payments made to Humphrey's campaign by the dairy company.

The lawyer's report, obtained by the AP, also found no evidence of any contributions from the dairy company to Humphrey's campaign.

The dairy company has denied the allegations and has filed a lawsuit against the Minnesota Democratic-Farmer-Labor party, accusing them of engaging in illegal campaign activity.

A spokesperson for the dairy company said, "The allegations are baseless and we intend to take legal action to protect our reputation."

Volunteer's: No on referendum

After years of discussion and months of "constructive" controversy, the citizenry of Iowa City gave the Iowa City Council its first official opportunity to respond to urban renewal tomorrow. Considering all aspects of the proposal—mass transit, street closures, urban sprawl, visual decay, less housing, single-development control and governmental irresponsibility—the Iowa City Council has backed the legal resolution of the question and has recommended to the federal and state departments responsible for the Iowa City master plan a widely accepted redevelopment plan.

The reason behind this stance that has been given a chance to respond to any proposal. Time is also running out for city officials to receive written comments from interested parties on a widely accepted redevelopment plan. But why? Because a determination about the future of the urban area has been made by a governmental body which indicates a lack of respect and reality in the Iowa City Council.

It is a highly indisputable fact that Iowa City government is looking into rebuilding the business district some concrete action which indicates a lack of respect and reality. A study that would ultimately come to rest with the chief determination of the rules. This study is currently on its way to the administration.

Under the Iowa City Code, the city is not a light matter that can be solved on empty time considerations. Rather than being an argument for the Old Cap plan, it is an argument against the kind of decision-making process the Iowa City Council has adopted in considering urban renewal.

The city is now in a position which must present the kind of plan-oriented urban management district instead of people-oriented decisions. Both present and future residents of Iowa City and county constitute an argument for the Old Cap plan. This is not the city’s future. It is not the city’s being considered.

The aspects of the renewal plan and its implementation which indicate this time-oriented position include:

- The single developer concept. Not only is the "local concerned citizen" (referring to Old Cap Association) argument begun but the danger of placing local businessmen in a position of market control and rent changes is very real. This is not the most desirable course of action which could have avoided this situation.

- The concept of 11,368-vehicle parking ramp appears to be in direct violation of the wishes of Iowa Citizens. Resident overwhelmingly rejected city involvement in parking ramps almost two years ago...

Equal Time

The city’s financing of a 1200-vehicle parking ramp appears to be in direct violation of the wishes of Iowa Citizens. Residents overwhelmingly rejected city involvement in parking ramps almost two years ago...

The city’s council has backed the local plan because of a pressing time element. It is a highly indisputable fact that if Iowa City urban renewal is not started tomorrow, the citizens of Iowa City will have sacrificed their right to discuss the plan. It is a highly indisputable fact that the citizens of Iowa City will have sacrificed their right to be given a chance to respond to any proposal.

March fuel supply not so severe

March fuel supply not so severe.

The AAA's (AP) -- Metroplex, apparently will not have the fuel at the end of the month tank to service stations as much as was hoped for on the first day of the month.

Under this new service, stations will be given a daily quota of fuel, determined by the availability of fuel in their respective areas.

The AAA will also be working with the oil companies to ensure a steady flow of fuel to the stations.

The service will run from March 15 to April 15, and will be available to all service stations in the metroplex area.

The service will be free to the public, and the AAA will be happy to help anyone who needs help finding a service station.

ANOTHER REFOCUS 74 EVENT
Groups take sides
Pros, cons of Old Cap plan discussed
Large campaigns to "educate" people on issues involved in Thursday's election are underway by groups that favor or oppose the downtown renewal project. Opponents of the Old Capitol plan contend that it will encourage commercial development at the expense of residential and governmental uses of the downtown area. Proponents of the plan say that its completion will attract new businesses and people to the area, and that it will be a catalyst for urban renewal.

Pros and cons of Old Cap plan discussed

The University of Iowa Student Senate has already said that it supports the downtown renewal project, and that the Old Capitol plan is necessary to the plan's completion. However, some senators are concerned about the possible negative effects of the project on the environment.

Finance

Proponents say the tax allocation is a way to finance the project, while opponents argue that it is a hidden cost. Opponents also argue that the project is not in the best interest of the city and that it will not be comprehensive enough.

Improvements

The project will include new streets, sidewalks, and parking spaces. Opponents say that the project will not provide enough parking spaces for the downtown area, while proponents argue that it will provide more parking than the current system.

Taxes

The project will also increase property taxes, which opponents say will be a burden on the city. Proponents say that the taxes will be offset by the economic benefits of the project.

Student Senate passes resolution urging under cutting of bond issue

The University of Iowa Student Senate has passed a resolution urging the Iowa City Council to under cut the bond issue for the downtown renewal project. The resolution was passed unanimously, and it calls on the council to find a way to reduce the cost of the project.

Sewage treatment fees

The resolution also calls on the city to consider alternative options for sewage treatment fees, such as a fee for out-of-state motorists who use public restrooms.

The city council will consider the resolution in the coming weeks.
City officials optimistic

Parkin\ng ramps continue to be controversial

By the Daily Iowan Staff

Parking ramps have always been a convenient transportation tie for Iowa City, and people are now expressing their support for the ramps.

City officials reiterated the opinion that a comprehensive urban renewal plan will need the support of local businesses. The city is now considering a plan for downtown parking.

The city is in positive the planning of the parking ramps, but it is planning to work with local businesses to ensure the ramps are successful.

There are no immediate plans for the ramps, and the city is considering the possibility of a second ramp being built.

"We know the income from the structure will sub-avail," said the City Planner. "It is important that there is a balance between the needs of the community and the profit of local businesses."

City Planner Brian Fetter believes that the ramps will help improve the downtown area, but he also acknowledges that some residents are concerned about the impact on the area.

City Planner Fetter said that the ramps are necessary for the city's continued growth and development.

"We are working with local businesses to ensure the ramps are successful," he said. "The city is committed to finding the best solution for the downtown area."
Winser 35 rules

Winer 35 offers a different approach to the old "poker and gambling" game. With weekly games played by a computer, Winer 35 Bingo is non-participatory and run for nonprofit organizations only.

If you have any problems, hall has explained that the Daily Iowan could not carry advertising for Winer 35 Bingo because of federal regulations prohibiting transmission of gambling through the mails.

Management of the game is run by students for students, it's for any student. Students winning information on Winer 35 Bingo can call 332-5028.

Hunting

Bingo organizers left and below are worried about the future of the game because of the recent racial factors prohibiting better attendence and participation at previous black-sponsored bingo events.

According to Tom Elders, head of the Student Finance Board, "we were informed by the Daily Iowan that we needed to do something about the bingo game." Elders said that the Daily Iowan has been informed that the organization cannot carry advertising for Winer 35 Bingo because of federal regulations prohibiting transmission of gambling through the mails.

Because of these past problems, Elders has requested that media coverage not be given to the group's events and has asked for a new kind of license so that they can have a game right down the street.

As a black organization, hall has noted that just like the rest of the white students and students of color, we participate in athletics that are being held by black students.

Sewing machine never came

Last September I received a W9 certificate good towards the purchase of a certain sewing machine and completed payments on the machine in December. I have not received the machine or any form from the company since. The order was made through Market Development Corp, Box 1070, William Street, New York City. Would you please look into the matter for me.

It appears doubtful that you will ever get your sewing machine, with luck you should get a refund of the money paid. Market Development Corporation responded promptly. Each time we contacted them, they all readily sent us our checks.

AL East race ‘for the Birds’

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of feature articles, this one titled "Wonderful Lulu" written by Beulah Louise, an assistant at the Baltimore Sun, dealing with the baseball story of the season: the Baltimore Orioles. The inaugural piece, "The Glory Days," appeared in the June 26th issue. This is the second installment of a three-part series, so please feel free to read it.

Jim Fuller. For Baltimore and their Johnson is the newest dude. Have enough talent to Davis. Maybe Fuller brought a little to the ballpark.

Robby Powell earns the pitching staff. Mike Cool is 37 years old and Dave Mooney is probably past his prime. Yet, the Bird's rotation is strong. Powell spent years searching for a pitcher to fit the role of the modern-day closer. This is a pitcher who has the ability to strike out batters but also have the ability to give up too many baserunners. Powell's skills are evident in his work from 1979 to 1981.

Earl Williams doesn't like to admit it, but the Bird's pitching situation is strong. Powell will take charge of the bullpen and Mooney will handle the late innings. MILWAUKEE-Baseball, Don Baylor, Jim Perry, Mike Keough, Bill Robinson, and a few more. At least you have the promise of more pitching help.

Some of the key pitching changes are the new starters. Another surprise is the new bullpen. Key to Milwaukee hopes will be the development of rookies Eric and John Ellis. In the rotation, Bob Reach and Jim Bosman, Jim Perry, Mike Keough, and questionable relief pitching will be split to other teams.

The outfield is in good shape with Al Oliver guarding the right side. Darrell Porter, Lyle give them a leg up in the power department. But the right side is a problem with the loss of Ken Hub bard or Larry Doby. Maybe this is the year Baltimore can get their offense going right. Lyle probably won't be a major factor this year. But he might be a major factor down the stretch.

One key injury to any team is the lack of pitching depth. This is where the Baltimore Orioles have a leg up on their competition. They have a number of young pitchers who have shown promise. The development of reliable relievers will be key. Brian Moyer, Dave Phillips, and Charlie Sledge will be important contributors.
