Urban renewal decision by Council

City to renegotiate with Old Cap

By BILL HUNTERMAN
Associated Press Writer

In a split decision, the Iowa City Council voted Tuesday night to resolve a dispute involving the city's Old Capital building and another landmark of downtown Iowa City was saved from demolition.

The city council rejected a proposal by the City of Iowa City to demolish the Old Capital building and replace it with a new parking structure.

The council voted 3-2 in favor of the proposal, with Council Members Robert Walker and Tom Cochrane voting in favor and Council Members John Zell and Steve Moe voting against it.

Before the vote, Mayor Bob Krause made a motion to table the issue until further notice, but the motion was defeated.

Krause said the city should continue its efforts to negotiate with Old Cap to try to reach a mutually beneficial agreement.

"We have a unique opportunity here to save a historic building," Krause said. "We need to work with Old Cap and try to find a way to make this building work for the community.

Krause added that the city should continue to explore other options for the site, including a possible donation of the property to a non-profit organization.

Council Member Zell said he could not vote for the proposal and that he was disappointed with the council's decision.

"This is a bad decision," Zell said. "We need to save this building."

Cochrane said he could not support the demolition of the Old Capital building.

"I don't think it's a good idea to demolish this building," Cochrane said. "We need to find a way to use it or save it.

The decision to save the Old Capital building was made in a split decision, with three council members voting in favor and two council members voting against it.

The council held a public hearing on the proposal earlier in the meeting, and members of the public spoke both in favor of and against the demolition.

The council will hold a public hearing on the proposal again before deciding whether to move forward with the demolition.

Elected office work in Des Moines, he gave this group some practical ideas about dealing with women's rights and stressed the importance of education in this process for gaining understanding.

"Many people are not aware of what equal employment remedies are available to women," he said. "We need to educate people on how to use these remedies.

Old Cap had offered to provide a basis for the ruling is now moot and planning a special meeting to discuss the next steps.

The council will hold a special meeting on Thursday, November 17, at 7 p.m. to discuss the decision and what the next steps might be.

The council members voted 3-2 in favor of the decision to save the Old Capital building.

Council Members Zell and Moe voted against the decision, while Council Members Walker and Cochrane voted in favor.

The decision to save the Old Capital building is a significant victory for those who believe in preserving historic buildings and preserving the character of downtown Iowa City.

The council's decision is also a testament to the power of community engagement and grassroots organizing.

At the meeting, a large crowd of supporters showed up to voice their support for saving the Old Capital building, and many members of the public spoke in favor of the decision.

UPS leaders cite irregularities in process of selecting directors

By MARGARET DOHERTY

The University of Iowa Faculty Council voted Tuesday to recommend to the University Senate Committee on Faculty that the student body be allowed to participate in the process of selecting directors for the University of Iowa Student Senate meeting.

David Van Allen, presently chairman, REDES director, and Susan Hare, associate professor of English, were interviewed by the Senate last week for the position of student director.

Van Allen agreed with the student council that the director should be a part-time job.

Several students who will participate in formal programs this summer, will conduct the project twice, when necessary.

Benefit

A benefit fund on a new order for the purchase of new furniture for the Student Affairs Office, 4th Floor, is also under consideration.

Symphony

The University of Iowa Symphony Band will perform at 8 p.m. in the Student Union on April 15. The concert will conclude the season.

Study abroad

The "Memorandum of Agreement for Undergraduate Study Abroad" is available in the Office of International Education and Services.

Kite contest

The Spring Fest will sponsor a kite contest at noon on Saturday, April 17, in the Student Union. The contest is open to anyone who is interested in participating.

Ostromates

The Iowa City area celebration will meet Thursday, April 15, at 7 p.m. in the University Union.

Student-run businesses are proven money makers

The Student Publications Inc. (SPI) board elections canceled

Re-elected students will fill the offices for another year.

Student-run businesses at Iowa’s colleges have been found to be a success, according to a recent study by University of Minnesota professors. The study surveyed businesses at 10 colleges, including the University of Iowa, and found that student-run businesses were generally profitable and well-received by students.

The study found that student-run businesses at Iowa’s colleges have been able to attract customers and build a steady customer base. In fact, the businesses have been able to generate enough revenue to cover their operating costs and provide a profit for the organization.

The study also found that student-run businesses have been able to provide students with valuable experience in running a business, such as managing finances, marketing, and customer service.

The study concluded that student-run businesses are a valuable resource for students and can help them build skills and experience that they can use in their future careers.

In addition, the study found that student-run businesses can be a valuable source of income for students. The businesses have been able to provide students with a steady stream of income, which can help them cover their costs and save money for future education.

Overall, the study found that student-run businesses are a valuable resource for students and can help them build skills and experience that they can use in their future careers.

Seldom has a politician lost the support of so many people so quickly. The 1974 congressional elections have turned the tide against the President. Most of the Democrats who voted for him in 1972 have deserted him. He’s lost large blocs of Catholics, urbanites, and others who gave him a large margin in the election of 1972. Second-term candidates are in serious trouble.

The victims of this tide are not the President’s personal enemies but, rather, the victims of the political process. The victims are the people who have been left behind in this society.

The President’s loss of support has come about because he has failed to understand the nature of the American political process. He has failed to understand that the political process is not a zero-sum game, in which one man’s gain is another man’s loss. It is a process in which everyone has a stake.

Women's status under siege

By CHRISTINE BROWN

Women's roles are changing on the Iowa campus. As the women in the university have grown in numbers, administrators, have been advised to take steps to improve the curriculum for the women students. The Women's Studies Conference held in February on the University of Iowa campus brought together a large number of women in order to discuss the ways in which women are being ignored and the ways in which they can be helped. The conference was held on the campus of the University of Iowa and was attended by a large number of women from different universities.

Women's studies is an area of scholarship that has been growing rapidly over the past few years. It involves the study of women and their contributions to society, and the ways in which they have been excluded from the mainstream of academic and professional life. The conference was an opportunity to discuss these issues and to examine the ways in which women are being ignored.

The conference was attended by a large number of women from different universities. It was a chance for these women to meet and share their experiences and to learn from one another. The conference was a success and it was decided to continue it for the next few years.

Temper flare as House agrees on adjournment

DE MONEE, Iowa - A resolution calling for final adjournment of the Iowa Legislature was defeated Tuesday afternoon by a voice vote after Rep. Wolff of Des Moines, Iowa, moved to substitute for sine die. or final adjournment.

Majority Leader Clifton Holden, R-Moines, Iowa, moved to substitute for sine die. or final adjournment.

He said the legislation would be approved by the Senate before the leadership could act unilaterally.

Republican leaders in the House and Senate have been blocking all sessions over the past several months. When the work was not finished, Holden and others had drawn up a substitute resolution.

The resolution was called for by Rep. Edgar Roorda, R-Manhattan, who said it was designed "just to let the Senate get their work done."

The action would give the Senate the authority to close the session over the leadership's objections and act on adjournment.

Under questioning by Demo­cratic Rep. Fred Caffrey of Des Moines, Iowa, the substitute resolution was approved and Holden said he had not yet signed it. Minority Leader Clifton Holden, R-Moines, Iowa, before adjournment.

Tempers ran a long time over the leadership's proposals to adjourn on final adjournment after Rep. Davenport, R-Davenport, said he was not going to be forced under the rule to vote for sine die. or final adjournment.

Holden said he made the motion 'to see you caught in a bind tomorrow.'

Dying mayor vows to stay 'til the end

DEARBORN HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — Dearborn Heights Mayor John Canfield, 68, diagnosed with lung cancer, says he will stay on the job to the end.

"I have until now been able to operate on the many medical hurdles thrown in my path," Canfield said. "I have been able to remain at full speed and I have been able to achieve most of the objectives we have set for the city this year."

Canfield, who has two grown children, is running for his fourth term as mayor in a year. He won his first term in 1987.

"I am undergoing chemotherapy treatments at Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital and may be out of touch for a while and spend time on a breathing machine," he said in a statement on his home telephone to announce the chemotherapy regimen.

The cancer diagnosed in Canfield's lung, only the second in his life, was detected two years ago during a routine physical examination. He has been treated for bronchitis three other times, the most recent time for pneumonia.

"I felt yesterday when asked if my health condition was in the past that I came, other than to ask for it, the status of the office of mayor," Canfield said.

Canfield, who has been a resident of the city for 28 years and is the father of two grown children, has been mayor of Dearborn Heights for 16 years.

In many of the incidents, some involving theft, manufacturers and retailers expressed the reason of their belief that their needs were responsible for their actions.

The Department of Commerce had a sign on his desk which led to the investigation into the manufacturing of TV sets.

"The department has a sign on the door," Canfield said. "I am not sure that the sign means anything; the only thing that seems to happen is that the sign is not responsible for the actions of those who refuse to stay on the job to the end."

Iowa City
Hawks blast Drake 7-0, 10-2

By GREG LUND

Jay Johnson hit a three-run home run in the third inning and the Iowa Hawks posted a 10-2 victory over the Drake Bulldogs on Wednesday at John Thielen Field. The win gave the Hawks a 7-0 lead in the season series with Drake.

Johnson's home run was the second of his career and the first in a four-run third inning for the Hawks. Drake's Nate O'Connell started the inning with a single and moved to second on a fielder's choice. After a sacrifice bunt, Jonathan Higgins was hit by a pitch, and Johnson then delivered a two-run home run to center field.

The Hawks went on to score four more runs in the third inning, including a three-run triple by Sam McPeek that gave Iowa a 7-0 lead. Drake'snegative

Decathalon opens Drake Relays

By Art Rosenbaum

The Decathalon meets will now be known as the Grassfire Decathalon, thanks to the sponsorship of Grassfire Inc., which will pay $2,000 each to the winner and runner-up.

The Decathalon is a 28-event competition that includes running, jumping, throwing and weightlifting. The events are divided into two parts: the 10-event decathlon and the 18-event heptathlon. The winner of the Decathalon will receive a trophy and a certificate.

The Decathalon will be held on Sunday, April 28, at 10:30 a.m., and will feature 12 athletes from across the country. The competition will be held on the track at the Drake Relays, and will be broadcast live on the internet.

NFL owners ‘sleep on’ possible expansion

By Jim Schardt

NFL owners decided not to meet Wednesday to consider possible expansion, a move that left a sour taste in the mouth of one of the league’s most vocal proponents.

On Tuesday, NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue said he would like to see expansion, but now it’s clear that the owners are not interested in exploring the option.

NFL owners adjourned their meetings Wednesday without reaching any final decisions on expansion.

The NFL expansion committee had made a late scratch Tuesday, leaving the league without a vote on the issue. The committee was set to meet again on Thursday to discuss the possibility of expanding the league to 31 teams.

However, the owners decided not to meet Wednesday, and the future of expansion remains uncertain.

The NFL has not expanded since 1995, when the Jacksonville Jaguars were added to the league.

Franklin Field in Philadelphia, where the Eagles play their home games, is considered a possible expansion site.

NFL fans ‘sleep on’ possible expansion moves

By Bob Schardt

NFL fans were left sleeping on expanded possibilities for the league on Wednesday, after the NFL owners decided not to meet to discuss expansion.

The decision by the NFL owners to adjourn their meetings without addressing the issue of expansion has left fans feeling let down.

NFL fans had hoped for some progress to be made towards expanding the league, which has 32 teams and 31 stadiums. The league has not added a team since the Jacksonville Jaguars joined in 1995.

The fans were disappointed that the NFL did not take action to explore the possibility of adding more teams.
