Vogel accuses county supervisors of violating open meeting law

By SCOTT WRIGHT

Robert F. Vogel, independent candidate for County Supervisor Robert J. Bartel, met with supervisors Tuesday night to begin a "secret" meeting in violation of Iowa's open meetings law.

Bartel confirmed to Vogel that he would hold the meeting without allowing public changes, as required by Iowa law.

Vogel said he had heard of the meeting by the Iowa State Auditor's Office, and had notified the county Board of Supervisors.

"The county Board of Supervisors has no authority to meet in secret," Vogel said, "and I demand they meet again at the proper time and place under proper authority."

Prosecutors in the case are expected to be Independents Donald B. Johnson and Jack Anderson, who will meet Aug. 15 to decide whether to prosecute the case.

The hearing was set for Aug. 15 in the County Auditor's Office, with the county Board of Supervisors as the defendant.

The hearing will be conducted by the county Board of Supervisors, with the county Board of Supervisors as the defendant.

New Iowa damage deposit law will protect landlord and tenant

By WILLIAM J. MURPHY
Staff Writer

For Iowaans who have had trouble getting an apartment or have had difficulties with a current apartment, Iowa’s new right turn law may offer some relief.

A new law passed by the Iowa Legislature will require property owners to make deposits with the Iowa City Housing Authority to cover damages caused by tenants who leave property under-tenanted.

The bill, which was signed by Gov. Terry Branstad on March 15, will require property owners to provide a bond of $1,000 to cover damages caused by tenants who leave property unrented.

The bond will be used to cover damages caused by tenants who leave property unrented, such as unpaid rent, damage to property, and other issues that may arise.

The Iowa City Housing Authority will be responsible for collecting the deposit and distributing it to property owners as needed.

In addition, the law requires property owners to file a notice with the Iowa City Housing Authority within 10 days of a tenant leaving the property unrented.

The notice must include the reason for the unrented status, the amount of the deposit, and any other information that may be required.

The law also requires property owners to provide a receipt for the deposit to the tenant at the time of the deposit.

The Iowa City Housing Authority will review the deposit requests and make a determination regarding the amount of the deposit and whether the deposit is due.

The Iowa City Housing Authority will then notify the property owner and the tenant of the decision.

If the property owner disputes the decision, the property owner may appeal to the Iowa Court of Appeals within 30 days of receiving the decision.

If the property owner does not appeal within 30 days, the property owner will be required to pay the deposit to the Iowa City Housing Authority.

The Iowa City Housing Authority will then forward the deposit to the property owner within 30 days of receiving the deposit.

The new right turn law is designed to protect Iowa property owners from damages caused by tenants who leave property unrented.

The law is expected to be effective in September 2016.

Mr. Stern may be correct in asserting that a few people don’t have anything to fear. Many of those who do may not care and may never have heard of Mr. Stern or the supervisors. Unfortunately, the city, state, and federal government all have the same problem: how to deal with the fact that there are now an increasing amount of citizens who are not aware of the fact that there are vast networks of covert intelligence-gathering. This is a problem that transcends national borders.

Ironically, this verse from the Bible:

AND YE SHALL KNOW THE TRUTH AND THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU FREE.

Embarrassing the citizenry of the Iowa City Government and the Federal government is an article of faith for all those who believe that there is a conspiracy against the people. In order to accomplish this, one must recognize that there are many different networks of covert intelligence-gathering. This is a problem that transcends national borders.

Tour sensation Miller not for sale

by Brian Smithe

Professional athletes are as far apart as the heads on our society. Some are bought and sold and traded away in a matter of minutes. They are packaged, portrayed and marketed by special publicity promoters to the American public and are displayed like commodities in a store-front window.

Every time a cross-country runner breaks a new record, every time a professional athlete is awarded a multimillion-dollar contract, the image of America's most popular athletes is forever changed.

Joey Miller is the model, the icon, the idol of the new profession of professional athletes. For every Miller there are a dozen other athletes who can do the same thing, only they are not allowed to advertise and endorse every vehicle, every magazine, every newspaper, every commercial and made-for-television movie walking the greens.

Miller has earned a living and marketed by get-rich-quick schemes, but by no means a mainequin. The manager of the club in which Miller plays, which is more than you can say for some of the other clubs around the country. It is the 23rd of the season.

In the 14th inning Monday, Miller sat on his uniform,看了 Wetmore, who's been his regular at the center field of the team. Miller was asked what he thought of Wetmore's performance in the game. Miller said, "I thought he did a good job. He made some great plays."

Miller then turned to the crowd and said, "I'm looking forward to our next game. We're playing against a tough team and we'll need everyone at their best."

The crowd responded with a loud cheer, and Miller smiled. He thenwalked away, back to his locker and prepared for the next game. All around him, the energy was palpable.

It was a typical day in the life of Joey Miller, one of the most famous athletes in the world. He had just played a great game and now he was getting ready for the next one. He was focused on the task at hand and ready to do whatever it takes to help his team win.

Miller's dedication to his craft was evident in every move he made. He was a machine, a robot, doing everything he could to help his team succeed. And it was all for the love of the game.

"It's my best contact ever," Miller said after the game. "I got a good grip on the ball and hit it solid."

It was a performance that would be remembered for years to come. Miller had proven himself once again, and the world was watching. The game was over, but the story of Joey Miller was just beginning.

The fans cheered as Miller walked off the field, and the energy was still high. It was a great day for baseball, and it was only going to get better.
