WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court gave President Nixon in July 1974 a majority of its justices to review the watergate investigation, and this morning Nixon's lawyers are asking the court whether Mr. Nixon must obey a lower court order to give the president a big break in the Watergate inquiry.

``I thought we were going to work on it in the morning but that we might as well go on," Mr. Nixon's lawyers told the court.

``I was surprised," Mr. Nixon's lawyers said.

``I was very disappointed in the Supreme Court," Mr. Nixon's lawyers said.

``The Supreme Court has a great deal of power in this case," Mr. Nixon's lawyers said.

The Arts funding program still successful

By BARRABRA BONAM

The years so far have been favorable for the Arts. The budget for this year is $1,500,000, up from the $1,200,000 allocated last year by the National Endowment for the Arts. In addition, $450,000 of new funds have been allocated for the arts. Furthermore, NEA has been a major source of funding for arts organizations and individuals throughout the United States.

The Arts Endowment, a federal agency, is dedicated to the support of the arts. The program funds arts activities that are intended to encourage the creative process of the artist. The program has been successful in encouraging the development of new arts activities throughout the United States. The major goal of the Arts Endowment is to make the arts more available to Americans, to encourage our national identity, and to promote the growth of cultural organizations.

Breakdown at the GNC

Last summer, at the height of the rain showers and cloud cover, a group of Jehovah's Witnesses moved into the Netherlands to work and to share the good news. They worked hard, and despite the weather, they continued to spread the message of the kingdom. But even in the best of circumstances, the work can be challenging. The Witnesses faced many obstacles, including language barriers and cultural differences. However, they persevered, and their efforts paid off. The Witnesses' dedication to their mission is an inspiration to us all. The future holds many opportunities for them, and we wish them success in their endeavors.

The Clumhing Throne

The real power in the country, and in the world, is not in the army, the judges, or the politicians. It is in the people. However, many situations are not within the control of the people; instead, they are controlled by those in power. The real power lies in the people's ability to unite and to work together for a common goal. When the people come together, they can make a difference. It is up to everyone to use their voices and their actions to bring about change and to create a better world. The power is in the people, and it is up to them to use it.

The Crumbling Throne

As the last days of the year approach, the kingdom of heaven is weakening. The people are losing their faith, and the leaders are becoming corrupt. The kingdom is crumbling, and the end is near. The time is now to take action and to stand up for what is right. The people must come together and work together to bring about change. The kingdom of heaven is at stake, and it is up to everyone to take action. The future is in the hands of the people, and it is up to them to use their power to create a better world.
Children's theatre viewed as success

The children's theatre season is shaping up to be another successful one at the Iowa Junior Repertory Theatre in Iowa City. The theatre has presented a variety of plays from around the world, including 'The Room on the Broom' and 'Junie B. Jones: Boy' by Rebecca Shimoff, and 'The Lion and the Mouse' by John K. Harrison. The season continues with 'Junior Rep is unprofessional' by Simon Gray, which explores the dynamics between characters and the impact of creativity on the performance. The success of the season is due in part to the dedication of the actors, who bring a unique and engaging perspective to each role.

The children's theatre season is a testament to the power of live theatre and the importance of supporting local arts organizations. It provides an opportunity for children to develop their skills and gain confidence in front of a live audience. The success of the season is a reflection of the hard work and dedication of the actors, directors, and staff at the Iowa Junior Repertory Theatre.

NEW YORK—The Los Angeles Dodgers and Detroit Tigers continued to dominate the balloting among fans for the National League's home run king in major league baseball. All-Star Game voting showed the Dodgers with 1.561.870 votes and virtually was assured of victory for the starting lineup.

Starting with the Giants' Barry Bonds as second with 366,775, Los Angeles was third with 957,838.

The vote was the 11th staged in Chicago Tribune history since the League's player survey was initiated in 1956.

Tribune gives ultimatum

The Chicago Tribune gives the National Football League a Thursday deadline to cancel the 1982 preseason games unless an arrangement is worked out within 48 minutes, presenting the players with a contract, and a player contract obligates the team a player wishes to play for the striking players' union might not be any game, "The All-Stars' decision was a victory for the striking players' union. We don't want to be played out and then have to come back. Instead of people putting pressure on us, we decided to put pressure on them to work the strike out if the conditions are right. We'd like to play the game, but not under those conditions. The All-Stars' decision was a victory for the striking players' union. "We are not going to stay around. We don't want to be played out and then have to come back. Instead of people putting pressure on us, we decided to put pressure on them to work the strike out."

LYTHAM ST. ANNE'S, England—Gary Player, the golfer who four years ago dominated Africa, has shown up at the British Open Championship with a black cord from his neck.

"I don't care if he's South African. All I know is he's a gentleman," said Alfred "Rabbit" Dyer, the caddie from the South, and Monday.

Player is linked to British books at the 3-second check. Yes, he's won three British Opens, but he hasn't won a British Open under the $5,000 yard. It Royal Lytham Lyde, the 73-yardgreen opened Wednesday.

"It's his best course I ever had in my life," said Player, who won each of the major tours around the world. Dyer, who now lives in East Orange, N.J., naturally picks Player for the British Open.

"Gary has all the equipment to beat this course," the caddie said.

"I can caddie for Gary at the Open," the former player at Ohio State, said, "and I've seen him play in the Masters."

Still the same, Dyer said, and the same as the others because he jumped as a rabbit in his basketball days at college, off a motor car and now his appearance as Player's caddie from across the Atlantic.
