Britain's membership of the Common Market. By J.C. Parnell

The British government has agreed to extend the six-month period for the United Kingdom to withdraw from the Common Market, according to reports in yesterday's newspapers. This agreement follows the ministerial summit in Brussels last week, at which Britain's entry into the Common Market was discussed.

The agreement was reached during a private conversation between Prime Minister Edward Heath and French President Charles de Gaulle. The British government has said that it will now start preparations for the referendum on membership of the Common Market, which will be held on October 30.

The extension of the six-month period for the United Kingdom to withdraw from the Common Market is a significant step in the negotiations between the United Kingdom and the Common Market countries. The United Kingdom has been a member of the Common Market since 1973, but has expressed reservations about its membership in recent years.

The extension of the six-month period will give the British government more time to consult with the public and to prepare for the referendum. The British government has said that it will use this time to ensure that it has a clear understanding of the views of the British public on membership of the Common Market.

The extension of the six-month period also has implications for the other member states of the Common Market. The agreement will allow the other member states to continue their preparations for the referendum, which will be held in the spring of 1974.

The British government has said that it will now start preparations for the referendum on membership of the Common Market, which will be held on October 30. The referendum will be held on the same day as the referendum on the European Communities Act, which is due to be held on the same day.

MEAT AT THINGS
Calley and the American Mind

Unless lawyers for the United States Army do some pretty fast footwork, Lt. William L. Calley Jr. will soon be free to walk (to stalk?) the streets of America. During his murder trial he was convicted of the manslaughter of 101 Vietnamese civilians. He was convicted on the charge of the murder of 101 Vietnamese civilians and was sentenced to life imprisonment. He is not the first American soldier to receive a sentence of life imprisonment for the murder of civilians. However, he is the first American soldier to receive a sentence of life imprisonment for the murder of civilians in a war in which the United States was not fighting. The trial of Calley has received a great deal of attention and has been the subject of much debate.

The trial of Calley has been the subject of much debate. Some people believe that he was wrongly convicted and should be acquitted. Others believe that he was rightly convicted and should be sentenced to death. Still others believe that the trial was a travesty of justice and should be overturned. The trial has been described by some as a trial of the American military and by others as a trial of the American people.

In conclusion, the trial of Calley has been a highly controversial event. It has raised important questions about the role of the military in society and about the responsibility of soldiers to follow orders. It has also raised questions about the fairness of the American justice system and about the ability of the American military to maintain discipline in times of war. The trial of Calley will undoubtedly continue to be a source of debate and controversy for many years to come.

Tale of the New West: Navajos Against the Utility Companies

Navajo leaders have organized the Coalition for Navajo Liberation to protest against the construction of a coal-fired power plant. They believe that the construction of the power plant will have a negative impact on the Navajo people, who rely on coal for their livelihood. The Coalition is demanding that the power plant be built on a tribal trust property, rather than on private land.

The Coalition has filed a lawsuit against the utility company, alleging that the company has violated environmental laws. The Coalition is also demanding that the utility company pay for the cleanup of the site. The Coalition's demand for the use of tribal trust property is based on the belief that it is more environmentally sustainable to use land that is already owned by the tribe.

The utility company has defended its decision to build the power plant on private land, arguing that it is the most economically viable option. The company has also argued that the Coalition's demand for the use of tribal trust property is a violation of property rights.

The Coalition's leaders are determined to fight for the rights of their people and to protect their land and environment. They are convinced that the construction of the power plant will have a negative impact on the Navajo people and that it is important to use alternative sources of energy.

taste so good.

And, that is the reason is the 100% U.S.D.A. choice American beef that goes into each Sirloin Steak that we serve. That’s why we call them “All-American” Sirloin Steaks.

And, that’s what separates them from some steaks you’ll find some places: imported beef, shaped to look like a particular cut, pre-tenderized to age quickly, fast frozen and shipped all over the country. That’s not All-American.

The bike psyche

By WILLIAM J. MALCOLFY
Staff Writer

I rode a bike. I always have, and it’s difficult to explain why.

Perhaps the greatest difference between a bicycle and an automobile is that a bicycle requires its rider to be in touch with the road. Being connected to the road makes a bicycle a different kind of vehicle.

Recently, I started riding again, and I’ve been captivated by the ride. It’s not just the physical exertion; it’s the mental aspect as well. The bicycle requires its rider to focus on the road ahead, to anticipate the road’s changes, and to adjust accordingly. It’s a form of meditation.

The Staff

Today’s column stems from my curiosity of the interpretation behind bicycle design. I sought out the cycling expert Jim Ormsby, who explained that there are four main types of bicycle designs:

1. Road bikes are for high-speed racing and rely on aerodynamics for efficiency.
2. Mountain bikes are designed for rough terrain and have thicker tires.
3. Hybrid bikes combine elements of both road and mountain bikes.
4. Recreational bikes are for casual riding and have wider tires.

Each type of bike is designed to excel in a specific area, and their designs reflect this.

He trades for turquoise jewelry

By STEVE ALLEY
Staff Writer

One person who has done quite a bit of trading with Indians and true Indians is Bob Patterson, the owner of the Thunderhead Trader, an Indian jewelry shop located in the middle of the city on South Clinton Street.

"I used to go down to the business street every month and take all I could get," says Patterson, "but I have been there about a month and I don't think I have been there. My trade has been more with the Navajos, and different types of Indian jewelry that are hard to make. Perhaps the most important historical ingredient to Indian jewelry is turquoise. Due to the popularity of Indian jewelry, the price of turquoise has risen dramatically. "Rare turquoise comes to be a lost art." Paterson said. There is a big price variation, according to the type and quality, and cost about $35 to $85 a pound. The hand-made turquoise jewelry is turquoise. Due to the dramatic increase in cost, according to the type and quality, the price of turquoise can vary from $150 to $800 a pound. Paterson says he has always traded for turquoise jewelry because he has always traded for things that he has seen anywhere else.

Good Samaritan Al Stacy makes every day Christmas

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) - Al Stacy is the good Samaritan of the alleys. Kids follow him around shouting: "Get me a doll, Mr. Stacy. Get me a baseball. Get me a sled."

Dogs follow him barking for food. Stacy, 57, always produces. Friends even put in orders for him and he usually fills them.

For 14 years he has been a garbage man for the city and a champion collector of useful stuff. His modest five-room home on the Northwest Side is filled with things he has found on his 25-square-block neighborhood route - pictures, mugs, lamps, furniture, radios, vases, plates, pitchers, toys, copper and brass ware, and hardware of all kinds.

"I just love to collect and see something new every day, and I figure I have more than 20,000 items - not junk, good things," said Stacy, who keeps nine grandchildren supplied with trinkets. "I don't sell much. I have a rented double-car garage filled from floor to rafters with the overflow and its been emptied twice by junk dealers who give me about $180 for the lot."

"I was roaming the alleys as a kid, looking for empty bottles to sell."

His wife, Gertrude, keeps the apartment as orderly as possible and says, "It's Christmas every day around here, he always brings something home - he's the world of surprises. He even brought our dog, Happy, home a couple of years ago and we love her."

Mrs. Stacy has a collection of old, delicately patterned plates on the kitchen wall that would make antique dealers drool.

Stacy says there is nothing like a garbage can to reveal what a resident is like. "And what stumps me in these times of runaway food prices is the amount of good things going to waste," he said. "There is more good food being thrown out than ever before. Maybe, it comes from families who had an argument at dinner time and just dumped it all into the garbage - or maybe a big party was planned and only a few showed up and the leftovers were dumped."

"But how do you explain why I find dozens of loaves of bread, still soft in their unopened packages?" Stacy pondered. "And unopened steaks and roasts still in their original wrappers, cooked turkeys only a fourth eaten, unopened fruit of all kinds, unopened cans of vegetables."

"The dogs and cats that follow me are the best fed in the city. They haven't lost their sense of values, but people have in a world of hunger."

Ruckleshaus denies Justice post rumors

By KEITH JANZEN

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa -- William Ruckelshaus denied rumors yesterday that he would consider a post in the Justice Department.

Ruckelshaus said, however, that he would consider a post in the Ford administration if it should be offered him.

Ruckelshaus, Nixon's deputy attorney general, said yesterday that the Watergate heroes when he and Archibald Cox were fired by the White House after the resignation of former attorney general Elliot Richardson.

Ruckelshaus praised Ruckelshaus as he was released from prison last night as a private fundraiser.

Thursday night, Ruckelshaus said he might run in the 1976 presidential campaign in Utah, California, and Illinois but he is not sure.

Ruckelshaus said he would not consider a post in the Justice Department in 1977.

By the way, the Watergate heroes when he and Archibald Cox were fired by the White House after the resignation of former attorney general Elliot Richardson.

Ruckelshaus praised Ruckelshaus as he was released from prison last night as a private fundraiser.

FOOTBALL vs. DETROIT LIONS
Oct. 19
Maryland Lions
BY BRIAN SCHMITZ
Sports Editor

"We've got a very good football team," signed Penn State's Joe Paterno.
"I don't believe that," revealed Iowa Coach Bob Creaninges.

"I've had my problems getting this team together. We had a thirteen spring and a horrible intersquad game. This is a team that has made things happen. We can't win this year's games on last year's laurels," Paterno said.

"Joe, I know your whole philosophy. You try to introduce the other fellow's thinking. You make up what you want to," said Creaninges. "You can either defend formation known to man. You'll try to make us think we're the wrong side.
Paterno grins. "I feel three defensive formations, three formations and two secondary one-out starters in the pros. This is just a big rebuilding year for us. I hate all of my wide receivers too," Paterno said.

Creaninges shakes his head. "But you're a good teacher, Joe. Last year you got a full quarterback in Shannon, a good out in Nate, and Barkworth as defensive end—of the country's best." Paterno is probably about to be asked if he had a full statement of charges from the special prosecutor, or, having said that, an indictment.

On the other hand, Maryland said, yes, the former President Nixon's pardons are not a judgment, but from the executive branch.

Citing "Therip. of N. Gilmore," Paterno shook his head and added, "We're not going to judge you on the game against Navy. Those field conditions were awful. And besides, after getting beat you'll never have another than a wet one," said Creaninges.

Creaninges shakes his head. "Look, Bob. If you're not any good it's not our fault if you're not any good. If we had won seven or eight games before, then we could get angry. A good football team doesn't lose. I don't know if it was an upset. Look at you guys. You've got the threshold of becoming a top-flight team," added Paterno.

Creaninges grins. "Sure, we've got it all the attention now. But we're not out of the woods by a long shot. We still need improvement. We still have a long way to go. Our offense came alive, Joe, but you fell from the Wing-T too much.

"Yes, but you know more about what you've done than we do. We're still not a good team, Joe. We're just getting ready for you. Joe. This is really going to be your first big game, and Creaninges.

Paterno grins. Two coaches—one with a veteran who is just getting the feel of the offense. The other with a veteran who is just getting the feel of the defense. Paterno shifts his head. "Look, Bob. If you're not any good it's not our fault if you're not any good. If we had won seven or eight games before, then we could get angry. A good football team doesn't lose. I don't know if it was an upset. Look at you guys. You've got the threshold of becoming a top-flight team," added Paterno.

of the best passers in the country. He's completed 48% of his passes, with 31 completions in 64 attempts, for 199 yards and five touchdowns.

The offense was the most potent part of the Hawkeye attack last week. Quarterbacks Dan La Fleur and Denny Armpit stopped something coming from around the end. Tackle Walter Washington and three Virginians stopped the run. The entire defense was a problem on third down. The Iowa offense was a problem on third down. The Hawkeyes were the biggest problem on third down.

of the best passers in the country. He's completed 63.6 per cent of his passes, 221 yards and two touchdowns.

The Lions have been vulnerable to the pass. They have allowed only 174 yards against the run. Tackle Mike Fetter said, "I've played against Navy before. I've played John Sciarra's offensive line before. We know what we're doing, what to expect down there."

We prepare for the full. Pennsylvania is one of the finest defensive backfields in the county. Defensive end Greg Buttle and Chris Devlin are two players to watch. The Lions have been216-rhma.

So where does Lynn Heil fit in? Heil only threw UCLA's quarterback John Sciarra for a loss four different times and was in on nine tackles.

I'm trying to find a balance. We have to chase the quarterback more. We have to be aggressive. I try to find a balance.

I look at football on two different kinds of scales," he said. "One scale is the one off the field. It's kill, maim or destroy tactics. It's one scale of one. The other scale is the one off the field. It's a game where men's dispositions must, if not a delight."

I think Heil is hard to play. He's crazy. But all the guys think I'm weird I don't think, technically.

The quiet one who keeps to himself as he can. I need my privacy. I've always been that way. Lynn I don't go for all that he-broth­er­rik just. Man at the guns -page page page 1939 was a great year.

Dr. Eddie Anderson, when checking up a impressive coaching staff at Iowa City, came to Iowa to help everybody forget the nightmare of the ’38 football season—which he did, and then some.

Under his direction, the Iowas “Ironmen” blockheaded for Iowa and showed everybody what college football was all about.

Pointed standards turned like an inviolable Godfather at victory after victory, the Athletic Department cleaned up at the box office; Henry torched everything at Denny’s, and, of course, there was the limped Nile Kinnick, the golden boy of the Iowa golden era, who was restored to 11 all-American teams, named the Big Ten’s Most Valuable Player, received the Heisman and Maxwell trophies, and nosed out Joe DiMaggio for the Outstanding Male Athlete of the year.

The “Ironmen” scored a 27-7 cliff-hanger. A 27-7 season’s end tie with Northwestern.

Kinnick piled up 23 points.

And Iowa’s golden era, who was Gaussian to some, had too many holdovers, but they (or got to mention one) were rolling. Iowa 4, Purdue 0; Iowa 7, Notre Dame 6. and Iowa 7, Minnesota 9. And, minus Kinnick and other key players, the “Ironmen” managed a season’s end tie with Nebraska.

Along with the individual earnings and the team honors, Anderson was dubbed Coach of the Year.

It’s been 35 years since men—“Ironmen” are back in the Iowa backfield the bigger.

One of the Iowa football teams that saw a great year in 1939.

...and his “Ironmen”
Anderson's 'Ironmen'

Iowa 1939:

1939 was, like they say, a great year.

Dr. Eddie Anderson, who chucked up an impressive coaching stint at Holy Cross, came to Iowa to help everybody forget the nightmares of the '38 football season—which he did, and then some.

Under his direction, the Iowa 'Ironmen' shamed for Iowa and showed everyone what college football was all about. Fanned stadiums roared like Godzilla at victory after victory; the Athletic Department cleaned up at the trophies, and nosed out Joe the Heisman and Maxwell Most Valuable Player, received the Big Ten's overflowed at Donnelly's. And, of course, there was the lionized coaching stint at Holy Cross, Anderson and assistant Frank Cardeo went all the way for '38's plushy for their season's-end namings and the team kudos, Andruska went all the way for six games. Erwin Prasse, Bill Osmanskl, one of Anderson's best players at Holy Cross who assisted at spring practice, repeatedly boasted, "I'll bet more students at the University of Iowa are only the real football players." But they forget to mention that is the team.

The 'Ironmen,' named finally for their bulging-bomber girth, sweet-toe and played football. The team was so lacking in numbers that some men had to play the fall to minimums of the game, playing in six games. Erwin Prasse and World Longhorn did likewise in four games, and Dick Evans and Wally Bergstrom managed a brace of games. Kinnick piled up 10 points of the Hawkeye six opening wins over South Dakota. Topnotch Indiana hampered Iowa only to fall in a 13-12 cliff hanger. 42-7 loss to Michigan was unnoticed the next week. Up to 14-I, was ever Wisconsin. Now the Hawkeyes were rolling, Iowa 5, Purdue 0, Iowa 7, Notre Dame 6, and Iowa 13. Minnesota 6. And, naming Kinnick and other key players, the 'Drumbeats' played a sound's end 17-7 tie with Northwestern. Along with the individual runnings and the team. Kinnick, Anderson was dubbed Coach of the Year.

It's Jerry 15 years now, and many 'Ironmen' are back in the season that played for the season. One of them, Max Hawkins, told The Daily Iowan that of the 38 Ironmen he's been in contact with, 28 are coming back, including South, Dick Evans, Bill Green, Bill Osmanskl, Jim Harris, Hotel, Page, Prasse, Forgesten, and Anderson.

Department cleaned up at the box office. Twenty teams overwhelmed at Dodder's. And, of course, there was the friendly 'Ironmen,' the golden boy of Iowa's glory, the last game was remembered of 11 All-Americans, 11 first-stringers of the Most Valuable Player, received the first-team and新闻 award, and named Joe D'Amore for the Outstanding Male Athlete of the year.

But things looked pretty dim at the beginning of the season. The Hawkeyes previous season— which created a 1-4-1 mid—was something everybody wanted to forget. Iowa had been unscathed 10-0-4. Coach Sid Valon had been replaced by the new guy from Holy Cross, Anderson and assistant Frank Cardeo and Jimmy Harris had on their hands a number of '38 Ironmen. And a lot of '38 drew.

Even Bill Osmanskl, one of Anderson's best players at Holy Cross who assisted at spring practice, repeatedly boasted, "I'll bet more students at the University of Iowa are only the real football players." But they forget to mention that is the team.

Wilson's not a retread news item. A true winner, he was one of the best in the country who served 40 years ending in 1961. He holds the record for the most 10-year periods served and has been named the greatest by many fans.

Takes a long look back to past seasons, and try to recall the parade of University of Iowa football players since the early 1930's and come up with a list to rate as top ten.
