Senate committee approves Cambodia aid bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved a $21.5 million aid bill for Cambodia, with no amendments, on Wednesday. The bill now goes to the House Foreign Affairs Committee for consideration. It is expected to be reported Friday by the House Committee on Appropriations. The House bill provides $14 million for economic and military aid, and $7.5 million for assistance to refugees and displaced persons. The Senate committee has approved $18 million for economic and military aid, and $5 million for assistance to refugees and displaced persons. The Senate committee will consider the bill Wednesday. Pres. William B. was sworn in by the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who said the bill is necessary to ensure that Cambodia is not left behind in the process of economic and social development. The vote was 9 to 7, with one senator abstaining.

UI initiates freedom of choice: will offer two brands of lettuce

Student sue

RIDGEPOLE, Maine - The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will return to the University of Maine at Orono to sue the university for $300,000 in lost revenue. The church is seeking lost revenue from the university's sales of two brands of lettuce, which the church claims are defrauding its members. The church claims that the university has been selling the two brands of lettuce to its members at a lower price than the market price, and that the church is losing revenue as a result. The church is seeking lost revenue from the university's sales of the two brands of lettuce, which the church claims are defrauding its members.
Urban renewal planning congres council

BY FELLSBERGERT

Traffic circulating in the downtown urban renewal area will not be affected by a proposed one-way circulation pattern, since no projects are scheduled to be undertaken in the area for the next several months, according to City Planner Michael D. Bower. The city council made its decision last week to reverse and leave the intersection open to two-way traffic.

The council made the decision after a meeting of the Iowa City Traffic Committee, which was attended by members of the Iowa City Planning Department and the Iowa City Public Works Director.

Computer seminar

The annual Computer Seminar will be held on Monday, March 15, at the Iowa City Library, 213 N. Gilbert Street. The seminar will be sponsored by the City of Iowa City and the University of Iowa College of Engineering.

Yoga classes

The Iowa City Community Center will offer a variety of yoga classes, including Hatha, Ashtanga, and Iyengar yoga. The classes will be taught by certified instructors and are open to all levels.

Recycling discussion

Two initiatives are being considered by the City of Iowa City to promote recycling. One initiative is the implementation of a curbside recycling program, while the other is the development of a recycling education program. The City Council will discuss these initiatives at its next meeting.

Animal shelter

The Animal Protection League will join forces with the City of Iowa City to provide a new animal shelter in the area. The shelter will be located at 1325 N. Gilbert Street and will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

TMM lecture and discussion

Tim Moore, a professor at the University of Illinois, will lecture on the topic of "The Impact of Technology on Society." The lecture will be held at 7 p.m. on Thursday, March 18, at the Iowa City Public Library.

Survey: choice of music tied to politics

By KEVIN BLIND
Staff Writer

A new report released recently revealed that one-third of the students surveyed associated music with political implications. The study was commissioned by President Ford and released during a meeting with Philip Hubbard.

The study, conducted by the University of National Music, investigated the political orientations of individuals associated with their music preferences. The results showed that students who preferred rock music were more likely to have a strong political orientation. Conversely, students who preferred classical music were more likely to have a weak political orientation.

President Ford released a statement regarding the results of the study, saying, "I believe that music is a powerful force for shaping public opinion. It is important that we understand how music influences our society and our political leaders."

After the ball is over...

Last Friday afternoon, March 14, the old ballroom in the Student Union was filled to overflowing with the noise and excitement of the UIW women's basketball team's victory over the New Mexico State University Aggies. The room was filled with students and alumni, all eager to support their team. At p.m., the doors of the old ballroom opened, and the players entered to be greeted by the cheers and applause of the crowd. It was a beautiful March afternoon, with the sun shining bright and casting a warm glow over the gym. The players were dressed in their new uniforms, with their hair neatly coiffed and their make-up flawless.

The administration does not want to admit the strength of this team and they are wrong. They are wrong.

As much as they try to believe it, they will never realize the strength of this team. They have always believed that we were nothing more than a group of girls who couldn't even hold their own. But they were wrong. We were stronger than they ever imagined.

It's not just a case of strength; it's a case of determination. Our team was determined to win, and we did. We proved that we are more than just a group of girls; we are a team.

The direction of the school is in our hands now. We have fought hard to get here and we will not let anyone take that away from us. We will continue to fight for our rights and our futures.

The brilliant gaiety of the colored skirts, the music, and the dancing all contributed to the mood of celebration that filled the room. It was a night that will be remembered by all.

The women's basketball team is the pride of UIW, and they deserve to be celebrated. They have fought hard for their success, and they have earned every ounce of their victory.

It's a hard but true story.

Dear Editor:

I have noticed a trend among students to try to avoid talking about race. I feel that this is a mistake because race is a real issue that needs to be discussed.

I have noticed that when students do talk about race, they often avoid discussing the specific ways in which race affects people's lives. Instead, they tend to focus on more general issues, such as racism and discrimination.

I believe that it is important to talk about race because it is a real and very important issue. We cannot ignore it and hope that it will go away. We need to address it and work to make things better.

Sincerely,

As a journalist and a journalism student, I have always been fascinated by the power of the press. The news is a reflection of our society, and the media have the ability to shape public opinion and influence the course of events.

I have always been interested in the role of journalism in times of crisis. In the face of tragedy, the media have the power to inform and educate the public, and to provide a voice for those who are otherwise unheard.

In the face of recent events, I have come to appreciate the importance of journalism even more. I have witnessed the media's ability to report on events in real-time, and to bring attention to issues that might otherwise be overlooked.

Unique jobs for UI Hospital volunteers

BY ROY JONES

Mary Rees has been her best friend since she was a student at the University of Iowa, where they both attended the College of Nursing. Mary has been a registered nurse for 25 years and has worked at the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics for 20 years. She is currently the lead nurse in the Emergency Department and is also the manager of the Volunteer Program.

Mary cares deeply about the people she cares for and the work she does. She feels that she is doing something important and meaningful by helping others.

Mary's job involves working with patients in the Emergency Department, providing them with care and support. She also works with the Volunteer Program, training volunteers and coordinating their activities.

Mary is passionate about her work and feels that it is important to help others. She believes that everyone deserves to be treated with respect and kindness, and she strives to provide that for every patient she cares for.

Mary's advice for those interested in working in the Emergency Department is to be patient, kind, and compassionate. She also encourages those interested in volunteering to reach out to her and to the Volunteer Program for more information.

Mary believes that everyone can make a difference in the lives of others, and she encourages everyone to consider working in healthcare or volunteering in some way.
Folk singing at the Mill

"We’re here to listen to music"

BY MIKE DONALD

One of the first people who arrived at this evening’s reunion of the Iowa City Folk Singing Club was the mid-40’s, late 50’s period. He looked a bit disheveled, but he was clearly enjoying himself. He was wearing a dark blue shirt and jeans, and had a guitar slung over his shoulder. He walked inside and made his way to the bar, where he ordered a beer and sat down to take in the atmosphere.

There were six or seven people in the bar, all gathered around to listen to the music. The room was dimly lit, with soft music playing in the background.

By 7 p.m., the club was being set up for the evening’s performance. The main stage was located in the center of the room, with smaller stages set up in the corners. The audience was seated on chairs set up in a semi-circle around the stages.

At 8 p.m., the first group of performers took the stage. They were a group of local musicians, and their set included traditional folk songs and some original compositions.

Throughout the evening, the club was hopping. There were people dancing, singing along, and even some who were playing the guitar along with the performers.

By 11 p.m., the last group of performers had taken the stage. They were a local band playing a mix of folk and bluegrass music. The audience was still lively, and many people were up on their feet dancing.

After the last group had finished, the club remained open for a while longer. Some people stayed to talk and socialize, while others got up and left.

Overall, it was a great night for folk music lovers. The club was packed, the atmosphere was lively, and the music was fantastic. It was a perfect way to spend an evening.

Jackson attacks NCAANew York (AP) - Joe Jackson called the NCAA "nasty" Monday and warned that a black boycott of the football bowl games was under consideration.

"The NCAA is a bad deal," the head of Operation PUSH, said in a telephone interview. "The colleges don't have black coaches and black athletic directors, do they? Just look at the black man who's been denied the opportunity to coach - from the race." He said the move was a "direct action for our rights." Jackson said the boycott might be staged in two phases. The first would be a statement of protest, he said, the second a boycott of the games.

Wins Doral Open
Nicklaus:confidence back
MIAMI (AP) - Jack Nicklaus, overshadowed in recent months by the unheralded Ted Miller, is right on schedule, his confidence up, the game in his grip. He's a winner again.

And he has his sights firmly built on the Augusta National Golf Club when he lines up with the other 133 starters at the Masters. Nicklaus was 18 months ago, to the day, the last man to win the Masters, in 1971.

"I've been very pleased," he said in the warm of his weekend victory. "It's the sort of win I've been looking for. This was a particularly nice one. This was my first career victory. I've been working on the same concept all winter, and it's really coming along. I think I'll be able to play well the rest of the year."

Last year, two weeks ago, "I'm sure I would have had my share of setbacks and missed cuts and all that sort of stuff."

For Nicklaus, though, it was a triumph. The two rounds he had to miss the first day came from the weights of his career, and he did not win the U.S. Open to end his 20-month slump. But the victory was a triumph for the young man.

"If you're not one of the big men, it's a bad year," Nicklaus said. "There were a number of disappointing scorecards, and I think the heart's going to break if this thing falls flat short. The putt is going to be there."

"I think we're getting started," Nicklaus said, "and I think we'll be ready to go." Spiikers finish 1-3 in tourney
Riding a streak of 13 victories in their last 17 games, the US women's hockey team hit the ice Friday night in Denver for the preliminary round of the United States Open hockey tournament.

Slopes of this magnitude were customary fare for the US women's hockey team, which defeated Denmark, 7-0, and Sweden, 5-0, in the first two games. But the US women were thwarted by a running game of Tennesse 7H7 with Tennessee

Former Iowa Coach Miller to face top-ranked Hoosiers
BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) - Former Indiana University basketball coach Bob Miller, who left the school last fall after a 15-year stay, will face another former Hoosier this week when the University of Illinois meets Indiana in the opening round of the NCAA Midwest Regional.

Miller, who was named Coach of the Year in the Big Ten in 1970 and '71, will face Illinois Coach Mike Krzyzewski, who was an assistant coach under Miller for two years in the 1970s.

The Hoosiers are ranked 10th in the nation and the Fighting Illini are 15th. Illinois is the highest-ranked team in the Midwest Regional, which also includes top-ranked Kentucky and second-ranked Tennessee.

"It's a great opportunity to get back and face the school I worked at for 15 years," Miller said. "Illinois is a great program and a great test for us." NFL expanding to 30 clubs
HONOLULU (AP) - Commissioner Pete Rozelle told the Pro Football Hall of Fame inductees Tuesday that the NFL is considering a proposal to expand to 30 teams.

Rozelle said he would take the idea to the owners of the league's 26 current members in New Orleans next month and would return to Hawaii for the ceremony to be held there.

The current meeting won't be involved in deciding whether to expand; it will be held at least four months after the new owners' meetings.

Rozelle said Smaller and smaller teams were being merged into larger ones and that a 30-team league would be the result.

"We're going to have the opportunity to expand," Rozelle said. "It's a matter of economics. If you look at the cost of playing in a stadium, it's just too much money."
One of the more interesting developments of the current season is the way in which the season has been staged. At a meeting next month a new strategy will be discussed: Who will be the players? Where will the games be played? What will be the rules? The conference has a new president, a new secretary, a new treasurer, and a new committee to look into the whole matter. It is hoped that the conference will meet again in the fall and that the new president will have had an opportunity to make some of the necessary changes.

Washington got along well with his teammates but showed a lot of ribbing about his playing role. 'I would have been a lot happier if I had had a chance to get the ball more often,' he said. 'I would have been a lot happier if I had had a chance to get the ball more often.'
