Morgan extortion

By The Associated Press

The Israeli cabinet postponed a decision Sunday on any possible pull back of its forces in the Sinai pending further "clarification" from Washington. In Beirut, Lebanese terrorists said they will kidnap U.S. Army Col. Ernest R. Morgan within 72 hours unless food and building materials are given to "the toiling masses."

A U.S. Embassy official confirmed that several foreign news agencies had received notes threatening Morgan but he would not say if contact had been made with the kidnappers.

Informed sources said the notes referred to Morgan as "this American spy" and were signed by a group calling itself the Organization of Revolutionary Socialist Action.

Palestinian guerrilla organizations immediately disclaimed any connection with the group.

Calling Cape Verdeans

PRAIA, Cape Verde (AP) — The new president of the world's newest independent nation has urged the 400,000 Cape Verdeans living in the United States, Europe and mainland Africa to come home and help rebuild the drought-shattered economy of these islands.

Almeida Pereira, who made the appeal, was elected president of Cape Verde by the national assembly Saturday, an hour after 500 years of Portuguese colonial rule came to a ceremonial end. Cape Verde, a collection of 15 islands lying 400 miles off West Africa in the Atlantic, has a population of just 300,000. But an equal number of emigres live in the United States and another 100,000 in Europe and Africa.

The 51-year-old Pereira said the first priority of the new government will be to fight "hunger, misery and ignorance." Cape Verde's main exports are canned fish and salt, but local agriculture has been devastated by seven years of drought.

Naval assassins

LONDON (AP) — The London Sunday Times quoted a U.S. Navy psychologist as saying the U.S. Navy has taken convicted murderers from military prisons, trained them as political assassins and placed them in American embassies around the world.

The newspaper quoted Lt. Cmdr. Thomas Narut, a psychologist at the U.S. naval hospital in Naples, Italy, as saying "it's happened more than once" and that his busiest training period was at the time of the 1973 Middle East war.

In Washington, a U.S. Navy spokesman told the Associated Press: "The Navy categorically denies that it is or has been engaged in psychological or any other type of training of personnel as assassins. No such training has taken place ..."

Carter Camp has 'no claim'

By MARY SCHNACK

Staff Writer

Carter Camp, who has threatened to file counter charges against white patrons of the COD Steam Laundry over an incident that occurred there July 2, has "no claim that he was discriminated against by the police," Asst. County Atty. Lowell Forte said Sunday.

Camp was charged with assault and battery in an incident at the COD where furniture, glasses and a plate glass window were broken. Four other Indians have been charged with criminal trespass in the same incident.

Camp charged July 3 that police actions in the incident evidenced discrimination and threatened to file counter charges of assault against "alleged white assailants." Camp was not available for comment Sunday. According to Forte, the Indians "got better treatment than a busload of state senators."

Those charged with criminal trespass were Stanley Holder, 25, of Gracemont, Okla.; David C. Pine, 25, of Bristow, Okla.; Nakeya White Bear, 21, of West Pere, Wis.; and Elrod L. Twocrow, 18, of Chicago, Ill. Camp, 33, is from Oklaahoma City, Okla.

Holder and Camp have been in Eastern Iowa since early June when they and Leonard Crow Dog stood trial in Cedar Rapids Federal District Court. On June 5, the three were found guilty of interfering with a postal officer and robbery in connection with the 1973 takeover of Wounded Knee, S.D.

The three were reportedly staying at the camping ground at Seminole Valley Park in Cedar Rapids since the completion of the trial. Crow Dog left Cedar Rapids July 1 to return to South Dakota.

According to a witness at the COD July 2, seven or eight Indians who had been at Joe's Place, at 115 Iowa Ave., since 1 p.m., were "loud and boisterous" when they entered the COD Steam Laundry, 213 Iowa Ave., at approximately 5 p.m.

According to Forte, the Indians tried to "start fighting with white patrons." One of the Indians walked up to a white patron and asked him "Why are you staring at us, don't you like Indians?" The white patron claimed he was not staring at the Indians, Forte explained.

According to Forte, after several beer mugs had been broken by the Indians, a bartender, Dave Osmundson, approached the Indians and said the COD management did not want any trouble. The bartenders had reportedly tried unsuccessfully to contact the owners of the COD, Joe Johnston and Preston Penney.

It then appeared, said Forte, that the Indians were about to leave with several pitchers and glasses. At that point Osmundson tried to stop the Indians from leaving, Forte said.

Camp then hit Osmundson. The other Indians then began throwing chairs, a table and glassware at Osmundson, a witness said.

The Indians then left but a woman employee reportedly got the license plate number and a description of the car the Indians were driving.

"Police arrival was timed perfectly as far as the Indians were concerned," a witness said. Police later arrested the group in Iowa City when they were spotted traveling the wrong way on a one-way street. An employee of the COD

Probe refinery cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special Senate inquiry to determine if oil companies purposely cut refinery production in order to raise gasoline prices was announced Sunday by Sens. Henry M. Jackson and Adlai E. Stevenson.

"The price of crude oil has dropped because of plentiful supplies both in this country and abroad, yet since January gasoline prices have risen sharply while the refineries have been operating at reduced levels," the two senators said in a joint statement.

They said the first round of hearings will commence within two weeks by the permanent subcommittee on investigations headed by Jackson, D-Wash., and the Commerce subcommittee on oil and gas production and distribution, headed by Stevenson, D-Ill.

Federal energy officials said last week they expect gasoline prices to increase by 3 to 5 cents per gallon this summer and several major oil firms announced price hikes during the week.

John Hill of the Federal Energy Administration characterized the expected increases as largely seasonal, however, and said he expected prices to settle after the peak vacation driving season.

Sub report falsified

NEW YORK (AP) — The commander of a U.S. submarine that collided with a Russian submarine in Soviet waters was ordered to prepare a falsified report about the incident in addition to a truthful one, the New York Times said in its Sunday edition.

Attributing its account to crew members, the newspaper said the collision took place while the U.S.S. Gato was on a reconnaissance mission in 1969.

It said the Navy's Atlantic fleet command in Norfolk, Va., later ordered the Gato's skipper, Capt. Lawrence Burkhardt III, to prepare two reports of the incident. One report was to be accurate, but the other was to say that the Gato had broken off her patrols two days before the incident because of a broken propeller.

One crew member was quoted as saying the order to falsify the report had originated in a section of submarine headquarters in Norfolk known as Office M-34 or the "spook shack."

Greeks oust U.S. boat

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A Greek gunboat ordered an American vessel hired to conduct oil surveys for Turkey out of Greek territorial waters, the government announced Sunday.

The Greek government protested the incident to Turkey and Turkey said the violation of territorial waters had taken place by mistake, the announcement said.

The incident took place last Monday while the Goel 1 was carrying out seismic soundings in the Aegean near the Greek island of Mytilene, several miles from the Turkish coast.

The vessel, accompanied by a Turkish torpedo boat, penetrated Greek territorial waters by about 500 yards, the announcement said.

A Greek gunboat approached them and with the use of loudspeakers advised them of the violation, the announcement added. The American vessel and its Turkish escort left with no further incident.

The announcement came a few days after the Turkish press reported that Greek war vessels had "nearly touched" the Goel and its escort on two occasions in the last week.

Since last year, Greece and Turkey have laid conflicting claims to oil exploration rights in the Aegean Sea.

Teach your children well

Yes, it was hot. But that did not seem to deter a continual human stream which celebrated July Fourth with the People's Bicentennial Commission last Friday. Musicians, below, serenade passersby at the somewhat impromptu carnival around the Pentacrest area.

TRANSCENDENTAL MEDITATION
Various scientific research studies indicate that regular practice of the TM technique is a means by which the human being can increase the functional integrity and the orderliness of the body and mind. All of these improvements may be summarized by saying that TM is a specifically human process which extends the quality of being alive to its ultimate value.

Hawaii's Mauna Loa volcano woke up from a 25 year rest on July fourth, spewing lava out in two directions down the volcano's 13,680 foot drop. By Saturday, lava was racing only toward Mauna Kea, Hawaii's tallest mountain, forming a huge pool. No immediate threat to populated areas was reported.

Churches prepared to help Viet family to arrive soon

By MARTHA HANSON
Staff Writer

A four-member South Vietnamese family will be making Iowa City their new home within the next two weeks, according to Nancy Flatt, a member of the St. Paul Lutheran Church committee that is arranging the family's arrival.

The family is being sponsored by three Iowa City churches, the St. Paul Lutheran Church, The Episcopal Community of St. Francis, and the Trinity Christian Reformed Church, the congregation of which voted Sunday to join the joint sponsorship.

Flatt said the family consists of Tran Van Thanh, the father, who was an accounting section chief in a Saigon bank for 10 years; Dinh Thi Kim Ha, the mother, who was a secondary school teacher for 13 years, and their children, Tran Kim Thu, 6, and Tran Nhut Tan, 4.

The family was evacuated from South Vietnam April 25, Flatt said. They reached Guam May 2, and arrived at the Ft. Chaffee, Ark. refugee camp May 11. They are now waiting at Ft. Chaffee for security clearance.

Flatt said Thanh speaks fluent Vietnamese and French, but his English is limited. She said the churches haven't found jobs for either parent yet, but have located an apartment for them.

The Iowa City churches were assigned the sponsorship through the Lutheran Immigration Service, one of the charitable organizations that is locating sponsors for the Vietnamese refugees.

Body of local man, 19, found in Iowa River

By DAVE HEMINGWAY
Staff Writer

A body which was found July 4 floating downstream in the Iowa River by the UI Art Museum was identified Sunday as that of Jeffrey Abbott, 19, of 206 Indian Lookout, Iowa City.

Dr. William Powers, an Iowa City pathologist who performed the autopsy on the body Friday, in the absence of Johnson County Medical Examiner, Dr. T.T. Bozek, said Abbott drowned.

Iowa City Police Sgt. Ronald Evans, who conducted the recovery of the body, said the autopsy showed Abbott's body had been in the water one to three days when it was found around 3 p.m. by a passerby.

The body was fully clothed at the time it was found and was later identified by fingerprints and dental charts.

Abbott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Abbott, told authorities Sunday that they last saw their son July 2.

Mrs. Abbott said she and her husband were camping near Oxford when they heard a description which fit their son over the radio Saturday morning.

Mrs. Abbott, who said her son could not swim, said authorities believe Jeffrey Abbott fell into the river near the bridge next to City Park. Mrs. Abbott said authorities suspected no foul play was involved in her son's death.

No new leads in murders

By a Staff Writer

Muscataine County sheriff's officers and agents of the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation (BCI) are continuing their investigation of the slayings of two rural Nichols men near West Liberty Friday, but so far have come up with no new leads concerning the motives behind the deaths.

The body of Danny Martin, 19, was discovered by a brother about 3 p.m. Friday in a bedroom of the farmhouse of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Martin. BCI reports indicated that the victim's throat has been slashed and the body sexually mutilated. Martin's parents were vacationing when the slaying took place, and returned home late Friday.

The other victim, David Eichelberger, 23, was found on a farm owned by his father, Edward, after the younger Eichelberger's car was discovered abandoned nearby. The body was hanging by a rope from a tree, and preliminary reports indicated that there were no signs of violence to the body.

Official results of autopsies performed Friday will not be made available until later this week.

Despite earlier reports that had ruled out the possibility of combination murder-suicide, authorities said Sunday that all leads are being explored, including the possibility that drugs might have been involved in the deaths.

Relatives of the victims said the two were casual friends. An unconfirmed report Sunday said that the two were last seen together Thursday night, when it was said one of them was threatened by an unidentified person at a West Liberty Tavern, Mr. G's.

Eichelberger, a spring graduate of Iowa State University at Ames, was to have begun teaching at the Linn-Mar Community Schools in Linn County this fall, and had recently rented an apartment in Cedar Rapids.

Martin, a student at Eastern Iowa Community College in Muscatine, was an oil company employee, and assisted his father in the operation of the family's farm, located six miles southeast of West Liberty, west of the Cedar River and east of Iowa Highway 22.

Kitchen serves food naturally

Little ole' soupmaker...

Dan Miller prepares the house special, stone soup, at the appropriately named Stone Soup Kitchen in the basement of Center East at Clinton and Jefferson streets. The new restaurant began serving its natural menu today.

By LARRY PERL
Staff Writer

The sign at the head of the lunch line reads, "Welcome to Stone Soup — a People's Kitchen — This restaurant is designed to serve the community. This means that we encourage your participation. If you'd like to volunteer to help out in the kitchen, sign up on the schedule."

With more than 200 people being served and some 20 volunteers and staff members handing out in the kitchen, the new Stone Soup restaurant at the corner of Clinton and Jefferson Streets premiered with a free Independence Day lunch.

What Stone Soup staff member Nancy Whitson described as "a really good crowd" showed up in the basement of Center East between noon and 2 p.m.

Everyone filed through the lunch line, filled their plates with homemade whole wheat and raisin bread, topped it with butter and spun honey, grabbed ample bowls of vegetable soup with potatoes, carrots, onions, tomatoes and spinach leaves, and finally sat down at seven long, family style tables. The weather was a bit hot for soup, but no one seemed to mind.

The food won't be free when Stone Soup opens for lunch today and every day except Sundays from now on. Volunteers say, however, that the restaurant will be less expensive than others around town.

Although the prices will not be set until today, staff member Whitson estimates standard items such as soup, bread, salad and beanburgers will cost 50 cents or less. A daily, varied main dish's price might fluctuate depending on preparation costs, but should run about a dollar, she says.

If you haven't already guessed, Stone Soup is a natural foods restaurant, the first in the area. Meat, coffee and highly processed foods such as bleached flour and commercial sugar will be avoided.

The restaurant will utilize whole grains, natural sweeteners and the currently abundant support of fresh produce, which Stone Soup helps pick from gardens in the vicinity as much as possible.

"The idea is to serve good nourishing food at reasonable prices," one volunteer said the day before its opening. Stone-soup is a non-profit enterprise, sponsored by the New Pioneer Cooperative Society. Except for five paid staff members, all help is on a volunteer basis.

Stone Soup is funded largely through loans from private citizens associated with the New Pioneer Co-op, the loans total $1,500.

"One guy loaned us $1,000," one volunteer said. "That's a real vote of confidence."

During their first weeks of business, the Stone Soup staff say they will play things pretty much by ear. According to staff member Jim Kirchner, the restaurant will be open only between noon and 2 p.m.

"We're going to be pretty flexible, especially the first week or so," said Kirchner. "When we get it together a little more, we'd like to start serving breakfasts and dinners, too."

Billie Jean bows out in glory

By ROBERT JONES
AP Sports Writer
WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Wimbledon '75, sun-washed, record-setting and only two years away from its centenary, belongs to Billie Jean King, queen of the center court since she won her first title here as a kid of 17 back in 1961. The cheers of the crowd on the final day Saturday went to Arthur Ashe, first black man to win a title here and comprehensive conqueror of the previously invincible Jimmy Connors. But the sentiment was all with Billie Jean, who first played here 14 years ago as a bouncy sunny youngster called Moffitt—they called her "little Miss Moffitt" in those days before her marriage. Last Friday, on the world famous center court—"I love it so much I could give it a hug," she said—she thrashed Australian Evonne Goolagong Cawley 6-0, 6-1 in the quickest women's final in 24 years, brought her number of singles titles to six, then bowed out in a blaze of glory and sentiment. "I'm not playing singles any more after this," she declared after her win. "I want to go out on a high. I really do...it's time for the other ones to take over." Billie Jean, the one who did more than anyone to put women's tennis on the map and the player who transformed the women's game from its baseline rallies to serve and volley play, still can win more honors here. Although she was adamant that she won't play singles any more, she hinted she might still be back for doubles. And if she does, she can break the all-time record of 19 titles she shares with Elizabeth Ryan, who won 19 times as a doubles player in the 1920s and 30s. Billie Jean teamed with Karen Hantze to win her first title in the women's doubles in 1961. Since then she's picked up six singles titles and been losing finalist three times, women's doubles winner nine times, and mixed doubles winner four times. It's a record that puts Billie Jean firmly among the all-time tennis greats. And she proved it, at the age of 31, in her 6-0, 6-1 final against Mrs. Cawley Friday. It lasted exactly 39 minutes and Evonne, a top player in her own right, never had the ghost of a chance.

And neither, for the first 50 minutes Saturday, did Jimmy Connors, the ebullient left-hander from Belleville, Ill., in his men's singles final against Arthur Ashe. The Ashe-Connors final won't rank among the greatest seen on the center court, but it was certainly one of the most surprising. Ashe won 6-1, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4 and he won when almost everyone else, apart from Ashe himself, thought Connors, the complete tennis machine, would walk over him. Faced with Ashe's super-human volleying at the net, Connors—an absurd 2 to 11 betting favorite beforehand—looked just a good, instead of a great, player. At one time midway through the two-week tournament, it seemed as if both last year's winners—Connors and Chrissie Evert—might set a record by being the first pair of champions to win again the following year. But Billie Jean wrecked that by beating Chrissie in the semifinal. Ashe picked up $23,000 for his win. Billie Jean's victory brought her $16,100.

Dr. Manuel Gilman, the New York Racing Association veterinarian, said it was a compound fracture, was very serious and was a day-by-day proposition.

The mishap occurred with about three-quarters of a mile left in the race and with Ruffian holding a half-length lead over the Kentucky Derby winner. Suddenly, jockey Jacinto Vasquez pulled up the previously unbeaten filly and dismounted, as Foolish Pleasure continued on to the wire.

An inflatable cast was put on the leg immediately and Ruffian was removed by horse ambulance. At her barn the inflatable cast was replaced by a similar cast and X-rays were taken.

"She was running easy on the lead and when she changed leads the leg snapped just like that," said Ruffian's jockey Jacinto Vasquez.

"I think it's serious," said Vasquez. "I don't want to even look at the film. It was her right leg."

Vasquez dismounted at the three-quarter pole and as Ruffian waited for the horse ambulance, Foolish Pleasure continued to the finish to win first prize of $225,000.

Foolish Pleasure, who carried 126 pounds to 121 to the filly, was timed in 2:024.5 for the 1 1/4 mile and paid $3.80. The Kentucky Derby winner went off at 4-5 with a crowd of 50,764, who had made Ruffian 2-5.

It was not immediately known if Ruffian's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Janney, would receive second money of $125,000 since she did not complete the race.

Ruffian, who had won the first 10 starts of her career, all of them impressively, took the lead about 50 yards out of the gate and held from a head to a half-length margin over Foolish Pleasure, John L. Greer's Kentucky Derby winner, until the mishap.
