A Bangladesh radio broadcast on Thursday charged that US forces stationed there under a 1966 treaty are being used to expand the hours of US military base facilities and for other purposes.

US forces stationed in the country are contributing to a "climate of instability," the broadcast said.

The US forces, stationed in the country since 1966, are used for "humanitarian purposes," the broadcast said.

The broadcast also charged that the US forces are being used to expand the hours of US military base facilities and for other purposes.

Midcast accord closer

JERUSALEM, June 16 - Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today that most major issues of a Middle East cease-fire could be settled by tomorrow's meeting of foreign ministers in Geneva.

"I am optimistic," Kissinger said after a meeting of the Israeli cabinet.

"We are a bit closer," he said.

Kissinger said that a second-term administration might also be possible.

He described his mission as "tactically optimistic" and added: "We are achieving the goals we have in mind."

However, he said that a second-term administration would not be possible if the Israel Defense Forces were not ready to move to Geneva.

Israel and Egypt have agreed to the Geneva cease-fire agreement.

"We have not yet reached the last stage of the process," Kissinger said.

"But we are getting closer," he added.

Elderly project curtailed

By MARIA LAWSON

The Old Capitol is set for a $16 million remodeling, according to a report released today.

The building would be converted from a government office to a project for the elderly, according to the report.

"The Old Capitol is not a good building for the elderly," said Skip Little, executive director of the project.

However, the report noted that the renovation would be necessary because of the number of elderly people in the area.

The city has identified the Old Capitol as a priority site for a new city hall, according to the report.

The new building would be located on the site of the current city hall, which was damaged in a fire last year.

The report noted that the city has already begun planning for the new building and that the project is expected to be completed by 2015.

Police chief to be named Sept. 2

By MARIA LAWSON

Skip Little, police chief, will be named police chief Sept. 2, according to a report released today.

Little, who has served as police chief since 1997, will be named police chief by the city council.

"We are fortunate to have someone of Skip's experience and leadership in this position," said city manager Mary Davis.

"Skip has been a valuable asset to our city," Davis said.

Little has served as police chief in several cities, including Savannah, Ga.

City finance chief submits resignation

The city has not yet determined who will replace City Financial Director Joe Pugh, who had submitted his resignation.

"We are in the process of transitioning to another city financial director," said city manager Mary Davis.

Pugh, who has served as city financial director for five years, had submitted his resignation last week.

"Joe has been an asset to our city," Davis said.

City charter, state law differ

Temporary parking lot on urban renewal land

While final preparations are made for the construction of the downtown Iowa City mall set to be completed by late September, the City Council will be elected at-large candidates in the primary election. According to Dick Plautz, director of the city Public Works Department, the council will consist of seven members to be elected from three districts and one at-large candidate. The money for this work will come from the city Parking Revenue Fund which is created by the money taken in by Iowa City parking meters.

Kopechne's question story

Because of differences in the new Iowa city charter and state election procedures, the city will continue to operate under the state election laws for the primary election and the deadline for filing petitions.

Welcome, freaks and suckers

It's been a short summer. As has often been said: "It seems like yesterday" that we sweated and sweated and sweated, and then we had to go to class.

When we departed last May, we just escaped from a year of outrageous rents. Few apartments were available, so we were forced to swelter in our sweat and scream and shout to housing, housing, housing. Iowa City's grocery stores are ready and waiting for the yearly 30,000 influx. Expect no quarter from the merchants, people. They'll expect fewer from you, however.

What next? Oh yes, books. Nice of you to expect Iowa Book to pity the poor parents, but few apartments are available, so we were forced to swelter in our sweat and scream and shout to housing, housing, housing. Iowa City's grocery stores are ready and waiting for the yearly 30,000 influx. Expect no quarter from the merchants, people. They'll expect fewer from you, however.

But when the papers blew through the city, "But, were they ever a bunch of freaks and suckers, or what?" Well, now, to return to the question of the year, we had no money, but we had our books.

Right. Now if we all live as in an apartment—removing the freaks and suckers—then we will have shelter, but little food. And Iowa City's grocery stores are ready and waiting for the yearly 30,000 influx. Expect no quarter from the merchants, people. They'll expect fewer from you, however.

Unemployment

There are many factors involved in the complications investigated in the Department of Health and Human Resources report on Iowa unemployment. The report, which is generally successful when it mentions the importance of recreation, is, unfortunately, responsible for the creation and description of the term "unemployment."

The Iowa Department of Welfare has many similar factors involved. But most of the factors involved are the same. They do not have the same factors involved.

Tractor pull still pulls the crowd

By HAL CLARKE

It's July 4th, and summer school has concluded in Iowa. There are, however, still a few small tractor pulls and recreational activities remaining for the season. This past Saturday, the Bettendorf Fire Department hosted its annual tractor pull.

For the competitors, this was an opportunity to showcase their skills and compete against others in a friendly environment. The event featured various categories, including weight classes and distance traveled. Participants from different age groups and skill levels participated, making it a truly inclusive event.

The Bettendorf Fire Department held a fun and entertaining event for both competitors and spectators. The event not only showcased the strength and determination of the participants but also served as a means to raise funds and support local causes.

In conclusion, the tractor pull in Bettendorf was a testament to the spirit of community and the joy that comes with outdoor activities. It brought together people of all ages and backgrounds, creating a sense of camaraderie and shared excitement.

WASHINGON—AP—A $750,000 bond, securable at 6% for 20 years, has been sold to the Federal Power Commission to finance the construction of a new bridge over the Kootenai River. The bridge will be 20 feet wide and will have a 10-foot approach.

The bridge, which is expected to be completed by the end of next year, will provide an important link between Idaho and Montana. It will facilitate easier access for both residents and businesses, improving transportation and economic opportunities in the region.

The sale of the bond was announced by the Federal Power Commission. The proceeds will be used to cover the construction costs of the bridge, ensuring that the project remains on schedule and within budget.

This is an important development for the area, as it will enhance connectivity and support local economic growth. The completion of the bridge will contribute to the development of the region, providing a much-needed improvement to the existing transportation infrastructure.

In summary, the $750,000 bond sale represents a significant investment in the development of the Kootenai River corridor. It is expected to have a positive impact on the local economy, supporting growth and attracting new opportunities for the area.

by Holmes, Chief, a 12-year-old former Pipestone Indian, who had a 15-month-old baby daughter, said he had sold his horses because his family needed the money for food and clothing. The horses were valued at $300 each, and Holmes was a member of the Sioux tribe.

The event is sponsored by the Bettendorf Fire Department, which uses the proceeds to support local community projects and initiatives. It is an opportunity for the community to come together, showcase their talents, and enjoy a day of friendly competition.

The tractor pull is just one example of the many community events and activities that contribute to the vibrant and diverse nature of Bettendorf. It is a testament to the spirit of community and the importance of coming together to celebrate and support one another.

In conclusion, the tractor pull in Bettendorf is a yearly event that brings together residents and visitors alike, offering a glimpse into the strength, resilience, and unity of the community. It is a tradition that continues to thrive, and it is sure to remain an important part of Bettendorf's cultural heritage.

Giant Halicki
no-hits Mets

SPOKANE (AP) — Spokane's Bill Halicki, a towering 7-foot-3-inch right-hander, threw a five-hitter in his first major league start and the Indians defeated the New York Mets 4-0 in the season opener for both teams.

Halicki, 24, who had never pitched in the majors, allowed only five hits and struck out nine in seven innings. He walked two and issued a wild pitch, which allowed a run to score, but overall he pitched a solid game.

Halicki, who had a 15-3 record in the minor leagues last season, was one of several young pitchers the Indians had high hopes for this season. His performance against the Mets was a promising sign of things to come.

The Indians were leading 2-0 entering the ninth inning, but the Mets mounted a rally with two runs in the frame to tie the game. Halicki, however, got out of the inning unscathed, preserving the victory for the Indians.

With the win, the Indians improved to 1-0 on the season, while the Mets fell to 0-1. Halicki's performance was particularly impressive given the pressure of pitching in his first major league game.

For the Mets, the loss was a disappointing start to the season. They were hoping to build on their success from last year, when they made it to the World Series.

Halicki's performance was a testament to his talent and potential, and it bodes well for the Indians' pitching rotation this season.
