A report of the personal diary and oral autobiography of former Vice President Henry A. Wallace was opened to the reading public at the UI library Tuesday. Dooley said Tuesday, "I was there."

It was National Freedom Day. This fee, they say, is a day of national observance which recognizes the war dead. The observer was the Iowa City Police Department. He said he was there to see the diary which was opened to the reading public for the first time in 10 years.

The diary, which is a record of the personal life of the former vice president, was opened to the public for the first time. The diary was written in 1935 and contains a record of the events of the day. The diary was written in a diary which was kept by Wallace during his time as vice president. The diary was opened to the public for the first time in 1935.

FBI probes revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee has decided to launch its own investigation of President Richard Nixon's administration, sources said yesterday. The move comes days after the Justice Department disclosed the late-career bear leader Martin Luther King. One effect which King reportedly considered a surprise that he never realized.

The sources said public announcement which they were not immediately clear. But the sources said that it would be made soon. The sources said that the Senate committee had decided to investigate the matter, but would not say how long it would take.

"We are still considering whether to lift certain restrictions," one of the sources said. "But we are leaning toward lifting restrictions as soon as possible."

The sources added that the committee would not be seeking to impose new restrictions, but would be looking at the matter in a broader context.

"We believe that the restrictions have been too broad," said another source. "We want to ensure that we have a full and fair investigation, and that we are not acting in haste.

However, the Senate committee is expected to hold further hearings and to examine additional evidence before making a final decision.

A resolution for CAMBUS service to the east side area, which would allow approximately 300 Greek residents to be served by CAMBUS, which is currently in operation, was approved by the Student Council Thursday night.

The resolution is designed to provide service for the area residents, according to the Student Council's vice president, Mark Lenke.

The resolution was introduced by Lenke, who said he was pleased with the decision. He noted that the service will save Greek residents time and money.

"This is a win-win situation for everyone," Lenke said.

The service, which will begin in January, will operate on a 20-22 minute schedule and serve Greek residents to the east side of Iowa City.

The first annual beer tasting contest will be held on Nov. 30 at 6:30 p.m. at the University of Iowa Student Union. The event will feature 15 organizations from the University of Iowa, representing a total of 6,000 pounds of beer.

The contest will be judged by a panel of judges from the University of Iowa's Department of Food Science and Human Nutrition.

The contest is free to enter and is open to all University of Iowa students. Participants will be given a tasting card with a list of the beers being tasted. They will be asked to rate each beer on a scale of 1-10.

The contest will be judged on the following criteria: appearance, aroma, flavor, and overall taste.

The winning beer will be determined by the highest overall score.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — Wandering the depot in downtown Albuquerque, I came upon the following items.

— A man wearing a police uniform stood in the doorway of a police station, talking on his radio. He was surrounded by colleagues who were also talking on their radios.

— A yellow school bus pulled into a bus stop, carrying a group of children. The children were wearing uniforms and carrying backpacks.

— A group of people gathered around a microphone. They were listening to a speaker who was delivering a message.

— A man and a woman stood in front of a flag, holding signs that read "support our troops." They were surrounded by other people who were also holding signs.

Group raises $88,000 for world hunger relief

By FELICIA HULSCH Staff Writer

Approximately $85,000 has been raised in a two international relief fund campaign to help alleviate hunger around the world. The campaign includes the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East, Edward F. Keating, chairman of the Emmanuel Commission.

"I think it represents a continuing commitment of both the Catholic and Protestant churches. Both organizations desire to work together in a variety of settings," he said.

"We have to vote," the speaker continued, "and we have to do it. We have to be able to do it. It's the only way we can solve the problem of hunger in the world."

Ends of economic summit stop short of methodology

WASHINGTON — The economic summit in France ended without agreement on how to combat global economic problems, despite pledges by leaders to work toward shared goals.

President Ford and his counterparts from Europe and Japan met in Paris on Tuesday to discuss ways to stimulate their economies and prevent a slowdown. The leaders agreed to support free trade and to work toward a more stable international monetary system.

But they failed to reach agreement on specific policies, such as how to reduce trade imbalances and improve the flow of capital.

"We have not been able to agree on any specific action," Ford said after the meeting. "We are all aware of the problems, but we have not been able to agree on how to solve them.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission on Tuesday rejected a petition to put an end to the per-minute charges levied on telephone rate increases.

The petition, turned down by 4 to 3, was filed by American Telephone & Telegraph Company, the nation's largest long-distance telephone company, and the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The commission said it had been persuaded "by the compelling reason" why "the change should not be made at this time," but that the "petition was not supported by adequate evidence." It rejected the petition for lack of evidence, and ordered the company to continue planning the Lindquist system and the conclusion of the telephone rate increases.

In general, the order said, the commission had been persuaded by "the compelling reason" why the change was not supported by adequate evidence. It ordered the company to continue planning the Lindquist system and the conclusion of the telephone rate increases.

The order was sustained by the commission for lack of evidence, and ordered the company to continue planning the Lindquist system and the conclusion of the telephone rate increases.

Football's journey

By BILL McGILHUFF

There is no outside of professional football a game of players constantly known as "professionals." It is as an art, these are the players that losses down below lines and there is only one who can hit. It's that same line of players that are up at the top of the field, they are the ones that can make a difference. Now, when you hear the term "professional," you might think of a professional athlete, but that's not the case. In fact, it's quite the opposite. The term "professional" is used to describe someone who is trained in the art of playing football. This can include players, coaches, and even fans of the sport.

Weber selected the pro football career as a #22. His team, the Miami Dolphins, have had one of the most successful seasons in the NFL thus far. Their success has been attributed to their solid defense, strong offense, and overall team chemistry.

Wade, who spent the last two years as a member of the Miami Dolphins coaching staff, described the team's success as a result of its collective effort. "It's not just one person or one group that's making it happen," he said. "It's a family effort that we're all part of." Wade also noted that the team's strong leadership has been a key factor in their success.

This two hour seminar is designed for the liberal arts major and will focus on the "what, where & how" of marketing your skills in today's tight job market. Considerable time will be spent on identification of skills, strengths or talents that each person has through courses, work and leisure time experiences; identifying occupations and places of employment in which these skills are commonly used or required, developing a job objective(s) or career goals; and understanding the strategies of conducting an effective search job.
