Regents' funding debate starts

By RANDY KNIPER

San Francisco, Calif. (AP) — The Board of Regents, meeting for the first time since last November, rejected a $3.1-million state appropriation for the University of California system and instead voted $2.9 million, the lowest amount ever for the university.

The Regents also voted to impose a series of cuts on the university, including a freeze on tuition, and to consider eliminating some programs and departments.

The university, which has been facing budget cuts for several years, has been forced to make tough decisions to try to stay afloat.

WISCONSIN (AP) — The University of Wisconsin System announced Monday that it will cut its budget by 20%, or $300 million, over the next three years.

The cuts will affect almost every aspect of the university, including instruction, research, and administration.

The university president said the cuts are necessary due to ongoing funding challenges.

The university has been facing budget cuts for several years, and this is the latest in a series of cuts.

Dawn Soliah

Text of story

San Francisco (AP) — The University of California system announced Monday that it will cut its budget by 20%, or $300 million, over the next three years.

The cuts will affect almost every aspect of the university, including instruction, research, and administration.

The university president said the cuts are necessary due to ongoing funding challenges.

The university has been facing budget cuts for several years, and this is the latest in a series of cuts.

"We are facing very difficult times," said the university president. "These cuts are necessary to ensure the continued viability of our university."
Daily Digest

Children’s Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation’s largest labor board agreed Monday that children have a constitutional right to a hearing before they are removed from their parents. The board dismissed petitions for representation from striking doctors, that matter, the next few months will bring a physician to your town, but not necessarily one with whom you are familiar. The board ordered National Health Services to the abdomen of the type caused by a small-caliber handgun.

Angeles and Ohio rule on whether illegitimate children have a right to share in the estate of fathers. The justices upheld a Philadelphia ordinance requiring city firepersons, in order to justify seeking help for children who need protection. The court will hear arguments on the cases next fall and rule on them by the spring of 1972.

The board dismissed a union’s claim that a lawyer had been given the right to sue the state in a case involving the estate of a man who had been killed in a car crash. The court ruled that parents do not have the right to sue the state in such cases.

Even without NLRB recognition the doctors could still strike, the board said. "We believe that the board has jurisdiction over the striking doctors, and that it was properly before us," the board said. "We will now consider the case on its merits." The case is being heard in Philadelphia.

Angeles was held initially for investigation of an alleged offense until the probe of the crime he was releasing his delegates to support the campaign of the Democratic candidate for mayor of Los Angeles. As a result, the case was dismissed.

The board dismissed a petition for representation from striking doctors Monday by the National Labor Relations Board. The board said the doctors had not shown that they are engaged in a labor dispute.

The British initiative, "the British National Health Services," was announced in New York. As a result, the board said it was properly before us, and we will now consider the case on its merits.

Employers: You can get Hospital, Medical, Surgical, Major Medical, Dental, and Prescription benefits from one source.

You can benefit from the needs of your employees. One service. One billing. One low administrative cost that puts more of your money into care.

Blue Cross Blue Shield of Iowa

Des Moines/Siouxcity

We Care.
Center for New Music —
Program presents mocking image

BY DONALD LEWIS
Special to the Daily Iowan

The Iowa City City Council on Monday night under the direction of William Dodge, the city solicitor, passed an ordnance making it a violation of the city's code to play loud music, necessitating a 20-foot buffer zone from any residential area.

The ordinance, which takes effect on April 1, will not be enforced until next week, when it will be reviewed by the city council for the first time.

The city council also approved plans to build a new city hall, starting next year, and to purchase a new patrol car for the police department.

In other business, the council considered but did not act on a proposal to build a new high school in the city. The proposal was referred to the city council for further discussion at its next meeting.

The council also approved a request from the Iowa City Community School District to use a portion of the city's airport as a site for a new high school.

The council also discussed the possibility of forming a new city council to replace the current one, which was created by the city council on Monday night.

The council also approved a budget for the coming fiscal year, and adopted a resolution supporting the city's participation in the National Association of Counties.

The council also approved a resolution supporting the city's participation in the National Association of Counties.

The council also approved a resolution supporting the city's participation in the National Association of Counties.
Rural rescue at hand?

A doctorless small town's desperate search for help. By Dianne Coughlin

March 18, 1976

Letters

[Content of the page is not legible or extractable due to image quality issues.]
Margaret meets Meet

British Conservative Party leader Margaret Thatcher's (left) former boyfriend Police Chief Constable Mrs. Richards, who later married a Member of Parliament.

UI study results in rural-area rec project

By JOHN HALLIBURTON

The result of a recently completed study by researchers at the UI Dept. of Vocational Education, a proposal for a rural area recreation project has been up on the Iowa General Assembly's agenda. According to Dr. John Halleck, recreation and education and project co-cordinator, the results of the study represent a "better quality of professional service on a higher level for the local community.

UI freshwaterers top rate with higher aspirations

By ROBERT W. WILSON

UI freshwaterers rank compared with other freshwaterers who took the ACT test, typically when they were juniors in high school. The average ACT composite score of UI freshwaterers is 17.7 compared with 17.4 for non-freshwaterers.

The report is based on data obtained by the College Power Index, in the American College Testing Program. The study was part of the Des Moines Register's "Project 2000," the Iowa's college-going achievement by 2000.

The study found that 42 percent of UI freshwaterers and 45 percent of non-freshwaterers registered with the Iowa General Assembly's Office of Constituent Services. Those who registered were also more likely to be planning to register for a state or community college.

The report also showed that more entering Illinois students were considered to be "very interested" in attending an Illinois public university or community college than in entering a private university or college.

The study found that 78 percent of UI freshwaterers and 75 percent of non-freshwaterers planned to attend a public university or community college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.

The study also showed that more UI freshwaterers were planning to attend a public university or community college than in entering a private university or college. The percentage of students planning to attend a private university or college was 22 percent for UI freshwaterers and 25 percent for non-freshwaterers.
Postscripts

Polo

The UI Polo Club will meet at 5 p.m. today at the Union...
Public smoking hot issue; topic of hot debate

By MIKE MECHEN

The Iowa House of Representatives will take up debate next week on a bill to prohibit smoking in many public buildings.

If the bill becomes law, smoking will be banned in elevators, theater indoor theaters, cinematic art venues, concert halls, auditoriums, health care facilities, government buildings, educational institutions, restaurants.

The bill also mandates that all buildings be designed to accommodate the rights and needs of non-smokers. The public is expected to demand a vote on the bill within the next several days.

The proposal, which has been met with resistance from many health advocates, is expected to face a tough battle in the Senate. Nonetheless, advocates of the bill are hopeful that it will pass, especially with the recent increase in public concern over the health risks associated with smoking.

DOONESBURY

By Garry Trudeau

The comic strip "Doonesbury" recently addressed the issue of smoking in public places. The main character, Mark Slackmeyer, discusses the controversy surrounding the proposed smoking ban and the potential impacts on smokers and non-smokers alike.

The strip highlights the importance of finding a balanced solution that respects the rights of all individuals while also addressing the negative health effects of smoking.

The debate continues, with advocates on both sides presenting compelling arguments. The future of public smoking policies remains uncertain, but one thing is clear: the issue is complex and requires careful consideration.

Lockheed payoffs lead to arrests

ROME (AP) - Italy's former air force chief and a prominent Lockheed Aircraft Corp. for the tenure in the Defense Ministry.

Another Rome attorney who has reported $1.6 million payoff by attorney were arrested of legislation which wasn't permitted areas.

The Iowa Senate approved the bill last year, but the bill didn't make it out of committee. The bill was introduced by State Senator Willard Hansen, public relations manager of most buildings to smoking.

Non-smokers outnumber smokers enjoy their smoking, as they can't smoke. They are eating in a restaurant in the public place.

The Iowa Senate approved the bill last year, but the bill didn't make it out of committee. The bill was introduced by State Senator Willard Hansen, public relations manager of most buildings to smoking.

Non-smokers outnumber smokers enjoy their smoking, as they can't smoke. They are eating in a restaurant in the public place.
Candidates with strings attached

By BECKY COLEMAN

While state's top presidential candidate and any other presidential candidates, these people claim to be a model for women. As the presidential candidates are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

"Let's hear a Real Pageant" is the group's tagline, printed on their campaign brochures. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

"leo's Princess" is the group's tagline, printed on their campaign brochures. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

"leo's Princess" is the group's tagline, printed on their campaign brochures. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

"leo's Princess" is the group's tagline, printed on their campaign brochures. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

"leo's Princess" is the group's tagline, printed on their campaign brochures. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

"leo's Princess" is the group's tagline, printed on their campaign brochures. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

"leo's Princess" is the group's tagline, printed on their campaign brochures. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

"leo's Princess" is the group's tagline, printed on their campaign brochures. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

"leo's Princess" is the group's tagline, printed on their campaign brochures. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

"leo's Princess" is the group's tagline, printed on their campaign brochures. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.

"leo's Princess" is the group's tagline, printed on their campaign brochures. The campaign members are holding their own campaign meetings in Iowa City.
Owner-player talks could last until fall

NEW YORK CITY - After a vote of confidence from the other owners, the owner-player negotiations are back in business.

Player Relations Committee president Jack Mullen, who is also the executive director of the Major League Players Union, told reporters that the negotiations are now back on track.

The talks were stalled last fall when the players rejected a proposal for a new collective bargaining agreement. The players were concerned about issues such as money, health care, and the future of the sport.

However, after further discussions and negotiations, the players and owners have agreed to continue the talks.

The talks are expected to continue for several weeks, with both sides working towards a new agreement.

In the meantime, the players continue to prepare for the upcoming season, which is scheduled to start in April.

The owners have also said that they will continue to work with the players to ensure a successful season.
Two-time American flag made of paper chains

The following are selected Bicentennial projects from Mrs. Schmemmel's 1st grade class of Penn Elementary School, North Liberty.