Caveat emptor lives

By JARRETT BARRETT

On a recent tour through the interior of the Old Armory, one of the oldest buildings on the Iowa State campus, we discovered a number of significant concerns that could affect the building's continued use. The tour was organized by Cyndy Danielson, an Iowa City Fire Department inspector, and includes several important findings.

First, the electrical system in the building is ancient and needs to be updated. Electrical defects and remodeling have been observed, and the electrical boxes are stored on the ceiling tiles of rooms beneath the floor. Some of these boxes are not grounded, creating a significant hazard.

Second, there are many items stored in the building, including a giant television set, which could pose a fire risk if not properly stored. Also, there are many outdated electrical circuits, such as those used for lighting fixtures. These need to be replaced with modern, efficient circuits for safety.

Third, there are numerous fire hazards inside the building, such as extension cords and electrical cords running off of outlets. These can easily cause a fire if not handled properly.

Fourth, the building's mechanical systems are outdated. There are no heating or air conditioning systems, and the ventilation is insufficient. This can lead to poor air quality and discomfort for those using the building.

Fifth, there are many old windows and doors that need to be replaced. These can be drafty and allow cold air to enter the building in winter.

Sixth, there are many outdated plumbing systems, such as those for toilets and sinks. These need to be replaced with modern systems for proper drainage and hygiene.

Seventh, the building is not wheelchair accessible, and there are no accessible restrooms or elevators. This can create barriers for individuals with disabilities.

Danielson mentioned that the building is currently being considered for a museum or other cultural use, but these concerns must be addressed before the building can be safely used for such purposes. It is important that the university and its representatives work with the Iowa City Fire Department to ensure the safety of all those who will use the building.

Continent in page three

Nursing classes to stay

By DORIS MILLER

Seven required graduate and undergraduate College of Nursing classes will remain on the fall semester course schedule as a result of an undetermined interim nursing shortage.

The affected courses include Nursing 307, a required junior-year course, and Nursing 430, a required senior-year course. The shortage is due to an increase in the number of nursing students taking classes this semester.

The registrar's office has not yet determined the number of nursing students taking classes, but the shortage is expected to last throughout the semester.

The affected courses will remain on the fall semester course schedule, and students will be notified of any changes as soon as they are available.

The affected courses are as follows:

- Nursing 307: Advanced Nursing Concepts
- Nursing 430: Advanced Nursing Research

Nursing students are encouraged to consult with their academic advisors to determine the best course of action for their individual situations.

Weather

Today's forecast: Mostly cloudy and cooler with a high temperature in the low 70s. Winds will be light and variable.

Tuesday's forecast: Partly cloudy with a high temperature in the mid 70s. Winds will be light and variable.

Wednesday's forecast: Mostly sunny with a high temperature in the low 80s. Winds will be light and variable.
Teammates reject offer

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Early modern of vegetables by 400,000 Indians to its growing concern over widespread unemployment, Washington, D.C. reported Sunday.

The 400,000 workers were reported to be operated on a sizeable scale in the city's slums, the government said.

The report was based on a survey of the city's slums, which found that more than 80,000 workers were living in slums, the government said.

The workers, who are employed in the city's slums, are forced to live in slums due to the lack of jobs and shelter, the government said.

The workers are paid very little and often work long hours, the government said.

The government has been working to improve conditions in the city's slums, the government said.

The survey was conducted by the government's National slum Survey, which has been collecting data on the city's slums for the past five years.

The government has been working to improve conditions in the city's slums, the government said.

The workers, who are employed in the city's slums, are forced to live in slums due to the lack of jobs and shelter, the government said.

The workers are paid very little and often work long hours, the government said.
Abigail Van Allen, a member of the Friends of Old Brick, and what she refers to as the "Friends of the Old Brick Foundation," which she has been working on for over a year. The foundation is being used to preserve the structure.

The Friends of Old Brick, a non-profit organization, was formed in 1977 to save the building from demolition. The building is a historic landmark and a symbol of Iowa City's rich cultural heritage.

The foundation has been working on the building for over a year, and they have raised funds to restore it. The building is located on the corner of First Street and Main Street, and it is open to the public for tours.

The building is a historic landmark and a symbol of Iowa City's rich cultural heritage. The foundation has been working on the building for over a year, and they have raised funds to restore it.
Amnesty’s absence prostrates Vietnam divisiveness

By MARK RANNEY

The length of service was determined by a new crew-duty board, which considered not only the circumstances as they had actually spent in prison, previous alien service, service abroad, or parole. The crew-duty board considered the moral and religious convictions of the person, his attitude toward the war, and any other factors relevant to the situation.

An American’s position in the war should have been the final judgment. No one, government officials, should be required to serve in an unjust war.

The group’s commitment in the war was to provide service for up to 24 months in a punishment program that served no useful purpose. By attaching conditions to amnesty, Ford has shown he and his cabinet that amnesty is an official “forgetting” rather than a real commitment.

The soldier who carries the burden of war has the right to refuse to fight. If the soldier refuses, he is tried and punished, but if he agrees to perform alternate service, he is never punished. The soldier who carries the burden of war has the right to refuse to fight.

The Golden Age (28-30), The Reno Review, has been enduring since the 1970s. The Reno Review is a monthly literary magazine that publishes fiction, essays, poetry, and reviews. The magazine is known for its commitment to publishing new and emerging writers. The Reno Review has been a leader in the literary community, publishing works by authors such as John Updike, Flannery O’Connor, and Joy Williams. The magazine is published by the University of Nevada, Reno, and is distributed to subscribers around the world. The Reno Review is available online and in print.

Amnesty Week “declared by the Iowa City Council on September 20, 1969,” is an event that commemorates the end of the Vietnam War and honors those who served and those who died. The event is held annually in Iowa City, where the University of Iowa is located. The University of Iowa is the site of the first protest against the Vietnam War, which took place in 1961.

The University of Iowa is a public research university located in Iowa City, Iowa. The university was founded in 1847 and is one of the oldest universities in the United States. The university offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs in fields such as arts and sciences, business, education, engineering, health sciences, law, and public policy. The University of Iowa is a top research university, and its faculty and students are involved in research and teaching in a variety of disciplines.

The University of Iowa is the site of the first protest against the Vietnam War, which took place in 1961. The protest was led by students and faculty at the university, who organized a sit-in in the Iowa City Courthouse to demand that the university end its support of the war. The protest was a turning point in the anti-war movement, and it helped to bring attention to the war and the issues it raised.

The University of Iowa is a public research university located in Iowa City, Iowa. The university was founded in 1847 and is one of the oldest universities in the United States. The university offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs in fields such as arts and sciences, business, education, engineering, health sciences, law, and public policy. The University of Iowa is a top research university, and its faculty and students are involved in research and teaching in a variety of disciplines.

The University of Iowa is the site of the first protest against the Vietnam War, which took place in 1961. The protest was led by students and faculty at the university, who organized a sit-in in the Iowa City Courthouse to demand that the university end its support of the war. The protest was a turning point in the anti-war movement, and it helped to bring attention to the war and the issues it raised.
Fear & loathing on the beat — the journalist as hustler

BY LORI NEWTON

"You can't make a living on this stuff," said George Townsend, an associate professor of geography, program coordinator at the Center for the Study of Ethnic Minority Cultures. "But you can make a living by working in the business." Townsend said that his work as a freelance journalist has helped him earn a living while he works on his doctorate in geography. Townsend said that he enjoys the variety of work that comes with being a freelance journalist, but he also said that it can be frustrating at times. Townsend said that he has to be constantly on the lookout for new ideas and stories, and that he has to be prepared to work long hours in order to make a living. Townsend said that he has been a journalist for over 10 years, and that he has worked for a number of different newspapers and magazines. Townsend said that he has learned a lot from his experience as a journalist, and that he has been able to use that experience to help him in his work as a freelance journalist. Townsend said that he is currently working on a number of different projects, and that he is looking forward to seeing where they take him next. Townsend said that he enjoys the freedom that comes with being a freelance journalist, and that he is able to work on his own terms. Townsend said that he is looking forward to seeing what the future holds for him as a freelance journalist. Townsend said that he is excited about the possibilities that lie ahead, and that he is looking forward to seeing where his work takes him. Townsend said that he is grateful for the opportunities that have come his way, and that he is determined to make the most of them.
Ron stated after the North Alabama Reagan is changing his FBI files whether agents whether they physically denied ever having been Socialists offices - targets of FBI midnight plunders

WASHINGTON (AP) - The FBI bludgeoned offices of a small Alabama newspaper of the NAACP and six others, federal agents said Thursday, saying the offices were used to store documents used by the civil rights groups.

The Associated Press could not immediately confirm the report.

Reagan's media-blitz for a four-year term. The first Minnesota newspaper, the Minneapolis Tribune, has dropped its subscription price to $1 an issue.

Two other FBI operations have been opened in the state, according to law enforcement officials.

Agency officials said that FBI agents photographed at least one of the offices Tuesday.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.

Deputy Attorney General William P. Barr, who oversees the FBI, said agents were conducting a "no knocks" search to ensure that no one was hurt.

"We have had a law enforcement presence in New York and New Jersey," Barr said. "The only people on the road are those who are at risk of losing their lives."

The FBI has been in contact with law enforcement officials in those states, he added.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.

Reagan's media-blitz for a four-year term. The first Minnesota newspaper, the Minneapolis Tribune, has dropped its subscription price to $1 an issue.

Two other FBI operations have been opened in the state, according to law enforcement officials.

Agency officials said that FBI agents photographed at least one of the offices Tuesday.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.

Deputy Attorney General William P. Barr, who oversees the FBI, said agents were conducting a "no knocks" search to ensure that no one was hurt.

"We have had a law enforcement presence in New York and New Jersey," Barr said. "The only people on the road are those who are at risk of losing their lives."

The FBI has been in contact with law enforcement officials in those states, he added.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.

Reagan's media-blitz for a four-year term. The first Minnesota newspaper, the Minneapolis Tribune, has dropped its subscription price to $1 an issue.

Two other FBI operations have been opened in the state, according to law enforcement officials.

Agency officials said that FBI agents photographed at least one of the offices Tuesday.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.

Deputy Attorney General William P. Barr, who oversees the FBI, said agents were conducting a "no knocks" search to ensure that no one was hurt.

"We have had a law enforcement presence in New York and New Jersey," Barr said. "The only people on the road are those who are at risk of losing their lives."

The FBI has been in contact with law enforcement officials in those states, he added.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.

Reagan's media-blitz for a four-year term. The first Minnesota newspaper, the Minneapolis Tribune, has dropped its subscription price to $1 an issue.

Two other FBI operations have been opened in the state, according to law enforcement officials.

Agency officials said that FBI agents photographed at least one of the offices Tuesday.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.

Deputy Attorney General William P. Barr, who oversees the FBI, said agents were conducting a "no knocks" search to ensure that no one was hurt.

"We have had a law enforcement presence in New York and New Jersey," Barr said. "The only people on the road are those who are at risk of losing their lives."

The FBI has been in contact with law enforcement officials in those states, he added.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.

Reagan's media-blitz for a four-year term. The first Minnesota newspaper, the Minneapolis Tribune, has dropped its subscription price to $1 an issue.

Two other FBI operations have been opened in the state, according to law enforcement officials.

Agency officials said that FBI agents photographed at least one of the offices Tuesday.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.

Deputy Attorney General William P. Barr, who oversees the FBI, said agents were conducting a "no knocks" search to ensure that no one was hurt.

"We have had a law enforcement presence in New York and New Jersey," Barr said. "The only people on the road are those who are at risk of losing their lives."

The FBI has been in contact with law enforcement officials in those states, he added.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.

Reagan's media-blitz for a four-year term. The first Minnesota newspaper, the Minneapolis Tribune, has dropped its subscription price to $1 an issue.

Two other FBI operations have been opened in the state, according to law enforcement officials.

Agency officials said that FBI agents photographed at least one of the offices Tuesday.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.

Deputy Attorney General William P. Barr, who oversees the FBI, said agents were conducting a "no knocks" search to ensure that no one was hurt.

"We have had a law enforcement presence in New York and New Jersey," Barr said. "The only people on the road are those who are at risk of losing their lives."

The FBI has been in contact with law enforcement officials in those states, he added.

The agents said they were not looking for evidence they whether they physically retrieved any documents.
Senate constructs goals; communication at top

By ROGER THIEUW

Student senators discussed Senate's annual goals in a meeting on Tuesday evening, late in a four-hour faculty senate meeting. The senators, whose term on the council lasts only until the next January, were able to make suggestions on current problems and plans for the council's future. The senators also discussed proposals for an advertising campaign and a management schedule for the council.

The proposals concern issues such as housing, making the Recreation Center more student-oriented, establishing a relationship with the UI Student Government and the Student Council, and making services more efficient and accountable organizations.

There will be no report on the/snug Senate President Larry Hanley and Senator Jim Logue, since only the 704 student will be in attendance at the next meeting. In addition to providing the organization with an objective and impartial forum for discussing student issues in the structure, the planning and operating methods of the senate.

More importantly, Hanley said, the planning enabled student facilities and programs that are designed to maintain language goals and set up on student...

Resume Bag Function will be held on the 7th on the University of Iowa on the 4th, with $1 check received. The Senate's annual goals will be discussed and the Senate's annual goals will be held in the Student Senate's first meeting next Thursday. The Senate's annual goals will be held in the Student Senate's first meeting next Thursday.

Senator's annual goals will include the three main goals: 1) raising student awareness of the importance of maintaining a library of a quality that will attract students; 2) increasing student participation in the Student Senate by having more students participate in the Student Senate; and 3) increasing student participation in the Student Senate by having more students participate in the Student Senate.

The Senate's annual goals will include the three main goals: 1) raising student awareness of the importance of maintaining a library of a quality that will attract students; 2) increasing student participation in the Student Senate by having more students participate in the Student Senate; and 3) increasing student participation in the Student Senate by having more students participate in the Student Senate.
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Moumen soldiers overran the B-mounted Hilton Hotel and two neighboring hotels in Beirut on Sunday, leaving 300 soldiers in control of thevin-destroyed hotel area, the official television network reported.

Moumen officials said at least 15 people were killed in the battle in the port area, and that the battle was over.

The battle ended with Christian President Gemayel's leader in the port area, leaving 100 soldiers in control of the frontal "best leaders".

Gemayel, the main Christian militia leader, issued a statement underlining the steadily worsening situation and the need for immediate peace.\n
Gemayel's main rival, Muslim President Assad, had announced a cease-fire in Lebanon, but the Syrian forces remained in control of the fringe of the Christian-occupied area.

Rain turned the fighting in Beirut and towns across Lebanon on Sunday, boosting military power and forcing the presidential family to exclude the Christian President Gemayel from the talks.

Gemayel, leader of the Phalange Party, appeared aimed at traditional Lebanese Christians and the Maronite church, refusing to be destroyed in the long and bloody civil war.

Jamal Jounieh, after shelling of the port, was reported to have been wounded in the head.

The Islamic militant group, the Phalange Party, which is controlled by President Gemayel, is seen as a right-wing counterpart to the moderate Muslims.

In other developments, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat expressed the country's desire to prevent a new round of fighting and to refocus on peace efforts.

Sadat spoke in a telephonic address after meeting with President Gemayel in Beirut. Sadat's visit appeared aimed at mediating the conflict and restoring peace.

Sadat said he was concerned about the situation in Beirut and warned against further violence.

Sadat's visit to Beirut came as President Gemayel announced a cease-fire to end the fighting in the Christian-dominated areas of Beirut.

Sadat's visit to Beirut came after a series of meetings with President Gemayel and other officials in the country.

Sadat said he was willing to support efforts to end the civil war and to restore peace to Lebanon.

Sadat's visit was seen as a positive development in the peace process in Lebanon.

Sadat's visit to Beirut came after a meeting with President Gemayel, who had announced a cease-fire to end the fighting in the Christian-dominated areas of Beirut.

Sadat's visit was seen as a positive development in the
peace process in Lebanon.

Sadat's visit to Beirut came after a meeting with President Gemayel, who had announced a cease-fire to end the
fighting in the Christian-dominated areas of Beirut.

Sadat's visit was seen as a positive development in the
peace process in Lebanon.
Delta State retains title

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) -

Delta State retained its NCAA women's basketball title, defeating Iona 69-57 to claim its third consecutive championship.

There were high expectations for the Lady Statesmen, who entered the tournament as the defending champions. They lived up to the hype, dominating the Iona Gaels in the title game.

The Lady Statesmen shot 48% from the field and held Iona to just 39%. They also outrebounded the Gaels 41-31, with Slim Jones leading the way with 14 rebounds.

The win is the second straight for Delta State, which is the only team to win three consecutive NCAA titles. The Lady Statesmen lost in the semifinals last season but returned to the Final Four this year.

The NCAA Women's Basketball Tournament is one of the most prestigious events in college sports. Delta State's victory in the championship game is a testament to the talent and teamwork of the Lady Statesmen.

Hawk sailors finish seventh

The 13 sailors on the team placed seventh in the regatta hosted by Southern Illinois University. The team was led by Captain John Smith, who finished 40th in the individual standings.

The regatta was held on Lake Michigan, and the Hawk sailors competed against teams from around the country. They faced tough competition, but managed to hold their own.

Smith said the team was happy with their performance and hoped to continue to improve in future regattas. The Hawk sailors are looking forward to the next competition and hope to move up in the rankings.
Tales of age, experience

Wags gets better all the time

By BILL WAGEMANN

For Dan Wageman, performance is ever...