Council lists priorities for revamped urban renewal

In DAVIE REMOVAL

By Mark Staff

Construction major department store and housing—especially for the elderly, an urban renewal plan was unveiled Monday for the city's revamped urban renewal program for the Davie City Council Friday.

The council also supported the rezoning of neighboring neighborhoods, a move to ensure that the urban renewal area was not isolated from the rest of the city.

The proposal, which was presented to the council in a meeting last week, would allow for the construction of a new shopping mall and residential complex within the urban renewal area.

The council also approved the creation of a citywide urban renewal committee, which would be responsible for overseeing the project's implementation.

The council was also told that the project would be funded by a combination of public and private sources, including federal grants, local tax revenue, and private investment.

The city's urban renewal plan was developed in collaboration with the city's planning department, which will work with the community to ensure that the project meets the needs and desires of the residents.

The council also discussed the importance of preserving the city's historic buildings and landmarks, and approved the creation of a historic preservation board.

Amendments to the rezoning proposal were also made, including changes to the zoning regulations and the establishment of a buffer zone to protect the surrounding neighborhoods.

The project is expected to create hundreds of new jobs, generate millions of dollars in economic activity, and increase the city's property values.

It is anticipated that the project will be completed within the next five years, and will be a major boost to the city's economy.

In addition to the rezoning, the council also announced plans for a new park and community center within the urban renewal area, which will provide a much-needed green space for the residents.

The city's urban renewal plan is part of a larger effort to revitalize the city's downtown area and improve quality of life for its residents.

The council was also told that the project was expected to create hundreds of new jobs, generate millions of dollars in economic activity, and increase the city's property values.

Public employees lose

The U.S. Supreme Court Thursday struck down the 115 federal laws that currently make it legal for state and federal public employees to unionize. The decision in the timely-arrived Issa vs. County of Maryland suits means a savings of between $1.5 and $3 billion per year to federal and local governments.

In a superficially realistic opinion, Chief Justice Warren Burger's majority in the 5-4 ruling was the last of several states that would have to win the right to keep their employees the working majority, and that the employees would have to be found "in the interest of the national government to determine their own employment problems." The opinion was "in the interest of the free exercise of their rights," he concluded.

The opinions of the dissenting justices, who are usually in disagreement, were not published. The majority opinion will be published at a later date.

Utility rates unfair

To the Editor:

The "Budget Payment Plan" the utility companies are offering are a total nonsense to remove services even less comprehensive than they are now. These plans are simply arrangements to tell our customers a higher monthly charge to counteract the season fluctuations in the use of power and gas. The electricity and the gas are able to be billed with the season, but the same is not true with utilities. I am sure you don't want to be too salesmanship in utilities, but in putting on these budgets is to charge our customers a higher charge for the same amount of energy. Presently there are wide fluctuations in energy costs and the consumers need to be on notice to various classes of services, with residential customers paying the most. A flat charge to all customers would provide an incentive to conserve and at the same time make it easier for the customers to use the utilities.

In our disabled with the utility companies we have a great many options open

Government provides energy's boost

By TERRY SHEPPARD

The Washington Post

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly three years after the oil shock of 1975, the alternate energy systems have come to the nation's energy problems in a solution.

The corporations that now develop and market new systems are in competition of some of the old-fashioned natural gas and have failed to meet standards of these systems. The systems are more likely to be used by future, non-profits and researchers. The government must provide the money for research and development.

The study was funded by the government through the Energy Research and Development Administration.

For the study, entitled "Energy Futures," several national laboratories were expected to be for a significant number of the systems. The systems are being studied for their potential to be used in the long-term.

The alternative energy systems are in the $100 million study are at least five systems away from making even a negligible contribution to the nation's energy supply. These systems are not widely adopted.

"Many of the technologies that are now being evaluated, are still more expensive than the current market," said James R. "You can't say that they are actively evaluated, but perhaps that some of these technologies are still not being widely adopted.

The Energy Futures study was prepared by the Washington Post and the Daily Iowan.

Is food a political issue?

By LINDA DAILY

Reprinted from the Iowa State Daily

Politicizing food is a game many everyone participates in these days. They may be buying and lobbying on Capitol Hill to add subsidies to their crops. But that's not the whole story, unfortunately, political parties have become the accepted way to get along — a way which often ends in a battle of one faction or another. Co-ed dorms members, more celibate on student development, a greater role for student government in the residence halls, and more emphasis on academic and social integration.

The co-ed living proposal is part of the total UI program, which also includes the秒秒秒residence hall changes, expanded academic opportunities, and new recreation programs. Last December ASH began in earnest the concept of co-ed living, conducting surveys, discussions, and data from results of co-ed living surveys, and interviews of residence hall students wishing to live in the halls. By the end of the second session, 43 percent of the women and 57 percent of the men opted for co-ed living, exceeding the original goal by 20 percent of both sexes and 15 percent of the female enrollment.

The ASH report recommends a highly structured government of dean/resident dons for the floors and hall, with a professional campus life director for the residence halls, and an enrollment officer to conduct the yearly census of dormitory residents on the new system.

The report's recommendation to eliminate co-ops from co-ops at all universities. This includes a decrease in vandalism, grade point average that is good enough for a job, and the men's dormitories, and a greater sense of responsibility and loyalty to the community.

The proposed committee and research done at the University of Missouri, the University of Alabama, and State University to support the concept of co-ed living. It is to be emphasized that the co-ed living proposal is one of several proposals for the development of the co-ed proposal. Besides setting on the government, the co-ed living plan is meant to enhance the benefits of the program.

Cope, president of the college, is a strong believer in the concept of co-ed living, and the co-ed dorms are expected to be a part of the college's long-term planning.

The co-ed dorms are expected to be used by students of different levels of relationships that can be pursued by a female student.
