Suicide prevention effort falters – lack of funds cited

By R.C. BRANDAU

Last April 16 brief agencies concerned with suicide prevention gathered in New York City for what they thought was the beginning of a national effort to help deal with the problem. At the time, there were 175 agencies serving 20 million people throughout the country. That number has now expanded to almost 300 agencies serving 60 million people. But the move toward national cooperation has fallen short of what was hoped.

Seventeen states now have agencies serving more than a million people. Three states have agencies serving at least 10 million people. In New York City, the suicide prevention agencies have a total of 175,000 cases served by 11,000 volunteer workers.

Several administrators have expressed the feeling that the effort to deal with suicide prevention has been an disappointment, particularly in view of the amount of money that has been spent on it. A recent report by the National Advisory Committee on Suicide Prevention and Mental Health estimated that the cost of the national effort has been $2 million, with an additional $1 million coming from the state and local governments.

At the April meeting Philadelphia and New York City, it was decided to form an advisory committee to advise the National Suicide Prevention and Mental Health Committee. The committee will be made up of representatives of the various agencies serving the country.

The National Suicide Prevention and Mental Health Committee was formed last year by the American Medical Association and the American Psychiatric Association. The committee has been working on the development of a national suicide prevention program, but has not been able to make much progress.

The chairman of the committee, Dr. A. E. Sheehan of the University of Pennsylvania, said that the committee was now facing the problem of getting funds for its work.

"We have been working on this problem for a long time," he said. "But we have not been able to get the money we need to carry on our work. We are now faced with the problem of finding funds for the next year."

The committee is now trying to raise $1 million for its work this year, but has only been able to raise $250,000 so far.

"We are now faced with the problem of finding funds for the next year," said Sheehan. "We are now trying to raise $1 million for our work this year, but we have only been able to raise $250,000 so far."

The committee is now working on a new plan for the prevention of suicide, which it hopes will be funded by the federal government. The plan involves the training of volunteers to work in suicide prevention centers and the establishment of a national network of suicide prevention agencies.

Human rights violations ‘universal’

The United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights was promulgated in 1948 to establish universal human rights. However, the declaration has been consistent in calling for human rights to be protected, and its provisions continue to be relevant in the United States. The United Nations has also worked to address violations of human rights, particularly in conflict zones and areas of political instability.

President Ford's campaign strategies are probably disrupted by the reports of the records of cooperation and opposition to his administration. The good news will stand out at the end of the day. The President has explained that he is a tough, hardworking executive that has been successful in the White House.

Hard work and long hours have borne fruit. The President's statements about the efficiency and effectiveness of his administration have been generally accepted.

Educations from the newly formed World Order Studies program in the United States were necessary because all the programs were "having real trouble," according to a national conference held in Iowa City last weekend. The conference, sponsored by the World Order Studies program, was held in Iowa City on October 9 and 10.

Snead fires 68; wins Kaiser Open

NAPA, Calif. (AP) - Tommy Snead fired a 1-under-par round of 68, overwhelming victory Sunday in the $100,000 Kaiser Open Tournament.
Snead, a two-time big-basketball player and 29-year-old -playing pro, fired a 7-under-par round of 65 in the sec-day round, finishing at 19 under on the weekend to claim $18,000 for the win.

He appeared poised to win a second straight tournament, but the day was not over yet.

He had to come back from 12th place on the field to reach the final on Sunday, and he did so in style, finishing at 18 under to secure the title.

The win was Snead's first since 1969, and it capped a remarkable year for the Orange, Calif., native.

He started the year off by winning the Ken then went on to win the Phoenix Open and the Phoenix Open. His final victory of the year came in the Kaiser Open, where he finished at 18 under to win his first title since 1969.

Snead's victory was his third of the year, and it saw him end the season at No. 3 on the money list.

He finished with a total of $250,000 in earnings, which was more than he had earned in his entire career leading up to 1969. He had won just $15,000 in his first five years on the tour, but he hit a stride in 1969, finishing with over $200,000 in winnings.

Penn State edged Defense aids Hawkley upset

With North Sparta's 47-14 victory and lots of them, the Iowa Hawkeyes pulled off yet another upset today, defeating Indiana and winning the season opener. Hawkley upset Michigan 35-17, but it was Penn State that really pulled it off.

Defensive Coordinator Larry Fox said: "This win was really important for the defense. We've been working on it for weeks."

Beta Theta Pi brothers David Moore, who scored the winning touchdown and kicked the extra point, said: "We were really excited for this game. We've been practicing hard for weeks."

"Today's win means everything to us," added Mike Turner, who intercepted two passes.

The Hawkeyes pulled off what Fox described as a "tremendous" performance.

The victory was the second straight for the Hawkeyes, who are now 2-0 on the season. Penn State dropped to 0-2.

"This was a big win for us," said Moore. "We've been working hard for this all season."

"We're really pumped to play Penn State next week," added Turner.

Hawkley upset Michigan and Penn State, but it was the win over Penn State that really set the tone for the season.

"This win sets the stage for the rest of the season," said Fox. "We're really looking forward to the next few games."

The Hawkeyes will face Michigan State next week, followed by a bye week before their game against Ohio State.
