Mobile-home ordinance proposed to supervisors

By Jen Jari

A proposed ordinance modifying the operation of mobile home parks will be presented at the Johnson County Supervisors meeting this morning by R.R. Brown, attorney for Mobile Home Owners of Iowa.

The ordinance proposes regulations to clarify the zoning of mobile home parks in Iowa. City councilors agreed at a meeting last week to request further information on the matter.

Brown said the proposed ordinance would require park owners to present papers to the Johnson County Planning Department before building new mobile home parks.

The ordinance would also require mobile home park owners to enforce reasonable codes of conduct and maintain their premises to prevent fire, crime, and vandalism.

Meeting

The Johnson County Supervisors will meet at 9 a.m. today in the Johnson County Boardroom. The meeting is open to the public.

Enrollment drop, off-campus degree

Regents mull over future options

by Andy Empir

GRADUATE EDITOR

WASHINGTON, Iowa — As an enrollment crisis engulfs the state, the University of Iowa regents this week approached the issue with a new spirit of openness.

"We have to have a dialogue," Acting President Donald Shaw said Wednesday. "I'm very open to the idea that we can find creative solutions." The regents are scheduled to take up the enrollment issue at a defensive pace, with the first meeting set for March.

While the regents agreed that the enrollment problem is a serious one, they were careful not to project a sense of despair.

"I think we're at a point where we have to..." Shaw said. "...the regents have to take a hard look at what is probably deciding the fate of the university..." He added that the regents will discuss the issue at length at their March meeting.

"We're going to have to face the reality of the situation," Shaw said. "We're going to have to face the reality of the meeting.

This week's regent meeting was on the campus at the regular university meeting that will be attended by all regents.

Two-year area and community college enrollment has been declining across the state for eight years. The regents said the discussion will be focused on how to handle the situation.

Lethargic security only the charnel in a world of realized terror

by ROBERTA FINDELL

"He's a man who is afraid of his own politics," he's a student at the University of Wisconsin, and he's afraid of his own politics. It's a strange world, but he's not alone. There are thousands of us who share his feelings. And it's not just at Wisconsin. It's happening all over the United States. The Republican party in Wisconsin has been working hard to keep this from happening. They have been putting a lot of money into advertising, trying to convince people that the Democrats are the ones with the problems. And it's working. People are starting to believe it. And that's what's scary. This is a dangerous time. People are being manipulated, used for their own ends. And it's not just the Republicans. The Democrats are just as guilty. They're saying one thing and doing another. It's a terrible situation.

The message is the sure perseverance of the country's status quo...

By ROBERTA FINDELL

The message is the sure perseverance of the country's status quo... The country's status quo is in crisis, but the message is that it's going to be just fine. The government is going to continue to do what it always does, and people are going to continue to believe that it's working. But it's not. It's not working. The country is in crisis, and it's not going to be fixed by any message. It's a false message, and it's doing more harm than good. It's making things worse. People are getting educated, and they're seeing through the lies. And that's a good thing. That's a step in the right direction. But it's not enough. We need more. We need a real message, a message that will make a real difference.

TV journalism: gifted need not apply

By ROBERTA FINDELL

WASHINGTON (077) — The mainstreaming of NBC news network means more than it looks on the surface. Just a few years ago, ABC and NBC and CBS were the three big networks. But now there are many more. And they're all doing it differently. The days of the big three are over. The days of the small guys are over, too.

There must be some black reporter or editor or producer or anchor person. You don't even have to be very good. You don't even have to have any experience. Just be black, and they'll hire you. But there's a catch. You have to lie. You have to lie about your background, your experience, your education. You have to lie to get the job. And then you have to keep lying to keep the job. It's a scam, and it's a fraud. It's a fraud that's going to hurt us all.

The message is that we're all part of the same thing. That we're all part of the same system. That we're all part of the same country. That we're all part of the same world. But it's not true. It's not true at all. It's a lie. And it's a lie that's been going on for too long. It's time to stop it. It's time to start telling the truth. It's time to start being honest. It's time to start being real.

The message is that the government is doing everything it can to make our lives better. That the government is working hard to improve the lives of all Americans. But it's not true. The government is not doing anything. It's not doing anything at all. It's doing nothing butfracating and manipulat

The message is that we can't change the world. That we can't change anything. That we can't make a difference. But that's not true. We can change the world. We can make a difference. We can be the change. We can stand up for what we believe in. We can fight for what we want. We can be the change. We can make a difference.
Benefit bash Sunday for state prisoners' self-help programs

By LYLE WOLSPAR Staff Writer

A benefit party to help self-help and self-empowerment programs in Iowa's three state penal institutions was held Sunday at 1 p.m. in St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Iowa City. The event was sponsored by the staff and inmates of the prison system, as well as by the Religious Action Center of the American Jewish Congress.

"People in there are saying we're trying to turn it around. If you can't live within the laws of the institution, chances are you won't be able to make it on the outside," said one inmate who helped set up the event.

"People who are looking for order are in for a shock," he added. "The prisoners are trying to get on their feet." The event was attended by inmates and visitors from all three state prisons. The benefit included music, food, and a program featuring several prominent speakers who spoke about their experiences as prisoners and the importance of self-help and self-empowerment programs in the prison system.

The benefit was a success, with many people coming together to support the prisoners and their efforts towards rehabilitation. The event raised money for the prisoners' programs and highlighted the importance of self-help and self-empowerment in the prison system.

The Devil in Miss Jones, an event, but finally only porn-possessed

By BILL CONWAY

Byline: Bad News

Revealing the truth to be obscured by NBC's Irresistible. The film Industry is so adept at selling itself that few are aware of the power and presence of David in Miss Jones.

The tale is told by the notorious Satanist, David COPACABANA, ex-demon, who reveals the truth about his own power and presence. This film reveals the power and presence of David in Miss Jones.

In Miss Jones, a deviant young woman who wants to be a rock star, is seduced by a powerful demon who uses her to control a cult. Her story is told through a series of flashbacks, with scenes from different eras of her life, including her youth in the 1960s, her days as a rock star in the 1970s, and her present as an old woman in a nursing home.

Miss Jones' life is a study of the seduction of the human soul, and the power of the demonic. The film explores the themes of desire, possession, and redemption, as Miss Jones struggles to break free from the hold of the demon who possesses her.

The film includes footage from Miss Jones' live performances, as well as interviews with the cast and crew. It is a powerful and disturbing film, that will leave you with a newfound understanding of the power and presence of David in Miss Jones.
Writers to ‘read around clock’

Another Sunday morning...20 tons

By MIKE O'MALLEY

It's the Sunday morning after the Iowa Hawkeyes defeated Northwestern 20-13. The rest of the football season goes on, but the scene is set for another day of Hawkeye cleanup duties. Wildcat Stadium is far from the only setting for such an undertaking. The total trash for the season, according to Anderson spokesman, with the Northwestern game was the smallest of the year, the 20 ton total was the year's highest, the 353-lb. game was the highest to the Earl E. Brown said the trash collection system, about the people who attend the games.

For the Hawkeye state by drinking Iowa-brewed Picketts. Looking through the trash, we have found a roll call at a state liquor office, and a brochur1e complete with game rosters on the back, brochures complete with game rosters on the back.

There wasn't a lot of movement toward the day's clean-up in the hands of the volunteers who do much of the cleaning up the work. Thursday's Iowa-Iowa State roundball contest in the Midwest Regional will be the first game in the NCAA Basketball Tournament. The unranked Hawkeyes will be without the services of freshman forwards Walt Allard and Jeff Mortlock, who are attending the funeral of a childhood friend in their hometown of Trainer, Iowa.

Both the Iowa and Iowa State women's teams will compete in the NCAA Tournament this weekend. The two rounds of the tournament will determine who advances to the regional semifinals.

The Iowa State women's team will compete in the NCAA National Tournament after winning an NCAA-recognized regional. The two teams that will compete in the 1988 NCAA National Tournament were determined by the NCAA Selection Committee. The NCAA Selection Committee will select the top eight teams from the Big Ten Conference to compete in the NCAA National Tournament. The NCAA Selection Committee will announce the NCAA National Tournament field on Monday.

The NCAA National Tournament will be held in Des Moines, Iowa. The NCAA National Tournament field will be determined by a combination of the NCAA Selection Committee and the NCAA Tournament Selection Committee.

game. Wade twice broke back,
There's one in every crowd...

There is an old saying which states, "There's always one," and this week's football games brought out a collection of "ones" that made the weekend's campuses around the United States seem like smaller college towns.

The Buckeyes scored a 19-point after the Iowa loss and were ranked as the nation's top team in the perfect conference record. If Coach Woody Hayes had been around for the teams playing on Saturday, he might have had nothing but compliments for the "ones," but suốt final game in the series, he would have said the Buckeyes are the ones who beat Iowa last November was just too hard to

Being crazy means the difference

When Joe Hufford talks about blowing machine, he's not talking about a game of chance, but he is telling the way he and his teammates try to play defense for the Iowa football team. When crazy isn't blowing machine, it's getting up on six points in a hurry or a 10-point deficit in 10 seconds or less. Crazy in the way Hufford is talking about probably means turnover or a penalty in 10 seconds or less. Hufford and the rest of the Hawkeyes aren't going to check on that lost very much with a giant killer like Purdue, anotherจา that has proven to be a monster.

"Purdue might be a rise one to check out. It would really mean nothing to be the first Iowa team to beat Purdue in 13 years. There is one event of several Iowa years, but Purdue's last one.

We don't have the great athletes like USC or Ohio State, so we have to play crazy." Hufford's lack of identity for a long time has been his ability to come through in the big 350-1700 line. (Hufford said, "Our team isn't under 400 yards. We fail if we don't hit them under 400 yards, but we don't play that way."

"It's a tough go to pinpoint what the problem was. We weren't good and kept getting into positions. Losing to Wisconsin was a tough game to counter," he said.

November is always a confrontation of the Iowa football team. When crazy can't go out there and rely on ourselves, "That's only one of several Iowa years, but Purdue's last one."

Purdue tailback Scott Dierking, left, who comes into Iowa (18) with 1,069 yards this season, has already topped that mark. (Purdue quarterback Mark Taliaferro in the background.)

despite interpretations and inferences. There was a lot of it that didn't help Iowa's cause. But Iowa did have its share of offenders, too: Gerald Reynolds and Curtis Wright to name a few. We'll see what happens when we get back in the game.

Fifteen minutes after the game, the Hawkeye defense was still flummoxed. From the demonstration appeal to starting defenses left us all confused. We watched Minnesota score last year, but we put up our hands. We thought we had a better chance.

The Hawkeyes were not the only ones who were upset. Coach Carrington told us that a football team never stays the same - it gets better or it gets worse. We were in the middle of it.

Although Hufford is from nearby Mt. Vernon, it was still a difficult choice for Joe to come in. After all, the 1971 season was in full swing when Joe decided to come to Iowa. Joe had been hurt in practice and was not in shape when he arrived.

Joe didn't come out of the gate as strong as we hoped, but with a lot of hard work and determination, he proved himself to be a valuable asset.
