WASHINGTON (AP) — Company charities and other nonprofit organizations do not have to be reformed, even if their preferences are violated, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.

The justices split 5-4 in a case that a General Electric executive claimed the company’s political contributions violated his preferences as a practicing Catholic.

Democrats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the next campaign season in full swing, Democrats and Republicans are looking to the future in their respective parties.

Democrats believe they have a strong base of supporters and are confident in their ability to win the majority in the upcoming election.

Republicans, on the other hand, are concerned about the impact of recent political events on their party's prospects.

In a related development, the Democratic National Committee has announced plans to hold a debate among the candidates for the party's presidential nomination in early 2024.

Separately, the Department of Justice has opened an investigation into possible campaign finance violations by a high-profile Republican party official.

Democrats said they would use the debate to highlight their party's record on issues such as health care, education, and climate change.

Republicans, for their part, are focusing on national security, immigration, and crime.

Weather

Some more snow will move into the area today, and it will be a bit colder.

However, this will not be the last snowfall.

The National Weather Service and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration are monitoring the situation closely.

They said that while the snowfall is expected to be relatively light, it could cause some travel disruptions.

The service also warned that conditions could become hazardous for those who are not prepared.

Precautions such as using snow chains or driving slowly should be taken.

The service added that drivers should also be aware of any potential for ice or sleet conditions.

The NWS and NOAA encourage the public to stay informed and be prepared for any changes in the weather conditions.

Henry's 'senior official,' 3 years old, quietly dies

BROOKLYN, New York (UPI) - The mother of "senior American civilian" Rahman, who is responsible for the explosion of the American embassy in Bangladesh last week, is raising him in hospital, a police report said today.

The 3-year-old boy was charged with kidnaping, robbery, and murder in the explosion of the embassy. He was taken to a hospital after being arrested.

Rahman's mother, however, made an oral motion to remove the judge from the trial. Lawyers for the boy and his mother have not commented on the motion.

The judge is expected to decide whether to grant the motion at a later date.

Rahman is one of the main suspects in the attack on the embassy, which resulted in the death of two American citizens. The attack was claimed by the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA).

The SLA is a militant group that has been involved in several other attacks in the United States, including the one at the California Institute of Technology in 1970, where 11 people were killed and 13 injured.

The group has been linked to a number of other attacks, including the one at the American embassy in Bangladesh, where Rahman is believed to have been involved.

The group has also been linked to the bombing of the United States Olympic team's hotel in Munich in 1972, where 11 Israeli athletes and a German police officer were killed.

The SLA has been described as a terrorist group by the United States government.

The group is known for its use of explosives and its ability to carry out attacks without being detected.

The group's leaders have been captured and charged in the United States, and its members are being hunted by the FBI and other law enforcement agencies.

The group's activities have been linked to the Chinese government, which is believed to be funding the group.

The SLA has been described as a dangerous and well-organized group, with members who are highly trained in explosives and guerrilla warfare.

The group's activities have caused a great deal of concern in the United States, and its members are being hunted by the FBI and other law enforcement agencies.

Is the price for highway safety really too high?

Secretary of Transportation William P. Coleman Jr. announced Monday that his agency's research devices will not be installed in a test car until next year because the agency had hoped to have air bags in a test car by this year. Mr. Coleman had opened up air bags as standard equipment, concluding that the devices would not affect sales of new cars or cause significant financial losses for the manufacturers, while insurance companies and consumer groups argued that the devices were responsible for reducing crash deaths and injuries.

Coleman expressed the belief that the use of air bags, which include about 250,000 devices in use currently, will shortly improve the safety of buses, trucks and other vehicles. Air bags are already in use on some public transit vehicles, including school buses, taxicabs and some buses operating on public roads.

In 1982, the Transportation Department's research devices were begun at the request of Congress, which had signed a bill that directed the agency to develop air bags. Air bags were developed as standard equipment for some cars by the time the bill was signed, but the devices were not made available to the general public until the early 1980s.

The devices, which are made up of inflatable bags, are designed to collapse on impact and to inflate within a few milliseconds. They are designed to protect the driver and passenger from the impact of the lower portion of the windshield and the steering wheel. The devices are designed to be deployed in approximately 4 percent of the general population, and the devices would be deployed in the United States in the early 1980s.

"It felt very natural," he said. "I felt like I was able to express myself freely and understand what was being said."

"I think this is an important step towards making the test more accessible to people from different cultures," Ongley said.

California court strikes death penalty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The California Supreme Court ruled Thursday that California's death penalty law is unconstitutional because it does not allow for consideration of mitigating circumstances.

In a unanimous decision, the court declared that a jury has found not guilty in a non-capital prosecution must be released.

The court ruled that the imposition of the death penalty in cases involving multiple convictions cannot be considered by a jury if the crime involves special circumstances.

The decision was a victory for those who argued that the death penalty is applied in a discriminatory manner.

The case involved the murder of a police officer in Los Angeles County.

There have been calls for the death penalty to be abolished in the state, but the court ruled that the law is constitutional.

Officials check for spread of swine flu in Wisconsin case

ATLANTA (UPI) — Federal health officials and Tuesday a check was being made in Wisconsin where a new evidence of swine flu transmission was found in Milwaukee.

Dr. Donald Miller, coordinator of the national intensive influenza surveillance program at the National Center for Disease Control, said that evidence is found in persons-reported transmission of the disease in the Milwaukee area. "We may be starting to see in the next few weeks of swine flu." "The second lesson" of the influenza virus occurred shortly before outbreak of the flu.

"The Center of Disease Control confirmed that Dr. Harry, a 3rd-year law student, had contracted swine flu. At the same time, the agency said it had discovered two new cases of swine flu, one in the Wisconsin town and the medical inquiry being conducted by state health officials."

"Additional cases reported from the two farms are being tested to ensure that there is no spread that was not occurring in the past."

Miller said his report was "a good example of the previously mentioned cases that occurred in the past."

Miller also said he was "cautiously optimistic that the number of these cases in Wisconsin (and probably in neighboring states) is small." But he added that means "in a state." "It may be a few cases."

Chicago is the only college basketball team in the history of the Big Ten Conference to win the NCAA men's basketball championship.
Indiana loses on court and in recent rankings

By The Associated Press

Indiana, the big winner in college basketball last winter, was not selected to be in the Associated Press' National Basketball Coaches' Association's 1976-77 All-America first team. But the Hoosiers' late-season surge may have been enough to give them the No. 1 national ranking.

In 1975-76, the Hoosiers' biggest strength was their defense. They led the Big Ten in fewest points allowed. But this season, their offense has been their strength. They led the Big Ten in scoring and were second in field goal percentage.

The Hoosiers' 21-5 record in the Big Ten included a 15-3 record in league play. They were the only Big Ten team to win their opening 10 conference games.

The Hoosiers' defense also was strong. They allowed only 71.4 points per game in Big Ten play, the lowest average in the conference. Their opponents shot only 42.3 percent from the field.

Indiana's two losses came against Iowa and Purdue. In both games, the Hoosiers' defense was not as strong as usual.

The Hoosiers' 21-5 record in Big Ten play gave them the conference championship. They also won the Big Ten tournament.

The Hoosiers' big victory came against Iowa in the championship game. They outscored the Hawkeyes 75-65.

In the Big Ten tournament, the Hoosiers defeated Iowa State in the first round, 91-87; Ohio State in the quarterfinals, 87-86; and Purdue in the semifinals, 85-77.

Indiana faces Michigan State in the NCAA tournament on Thursday. The Hoosiers have faced Michigan State four times this season, winning three of the games. They also defeated the Spartans in the Big Ten tournament.

The Hoosiers' biggest challenge may come from the Spartans. Michigan State is the only team to have played the Hoosiers twice this season and not lose.

Michigan State has won three straight games against Indiana.

Enriched Flavor breakthrough brings unprecedented taste to low tar smoking.

For many years low tar cigarettes have promised taste.

But your own taste told you the truth: low tar meant low taste.

Until MERIT.

MERIT packs 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco fortified with key flavor-rich ingredients of cigarette smoke proven to deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Tests Verify Taste

MERIT was taste-tested against current leading low tar brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were involved. The majority report: Even if the cigarette tested had up to 60% more tar than MERIT, MERIT still delivered as much—or more—taste.

Repeat: delivered as much—or more—taste.

MERIT. Unprecedented flavor at one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.
