Poll show recycling support

By R.C. BRANDAU
Staff Writer

A recent survey conducted in Iowa City showed that more than 70 percent of those polled favor some kind of city recycling program. If the city would institute a mandatory recycling program, the survey, conducted by the Iowa City Public Interest Network (IPI) and the Institute for Social Research and Policy Analysis, estimated that 70 percent would favor such a program. The survey was conducted in 440 homes and businesses around the city.

Dormitories

Roger Johanssen

Newt.

As dormitory, in looking for a dormitory senior seat, we are looking for the best options available to us. If we are to get the best options available to us, we must consider the following factors:

1. The dormitory has enough space for all the students. This is a basic requirement for a dormitory.

2. The dormitory has enough beds for all the students. This is important because we want every student to have a bed.

3. The dormitory has enough safety measures.
This is important because we want to keep our students safe.

4. The dormitory has enough amenities. This is important because we want our students
to have a comfortable living experience.

5. The dormitory has enough facilities. This
is important because we want our students
to have all the necessary facilities.

6. The dormitory has enough rooms. This
is important because we want our students
to have enough space.

7. The dormitory has enough price. This
is important because we want our students
to have a reasonable price.

8. The dormitory has enough location. This
is important because we want our students
to have a convenient location.

9. The dormitory has enough service. This
is important because we want our students
to have good service.

10. The dormitory has enough cleanliness.
This is important because we want our students to have a clean living environment.

Budget needs trimming

Under a defense budget approved by President Carter recently, $214 billion will be trimmed from the budget, submitted to Congress by David T. Packard, Ford proposes.

Four defense programs of $11 billion for fiscal 1978.

Carter's campaign's declarations, in which he promised to reduce the budget from $214 billion to $108 billion, actual peak federal $11 billion higher than the $108 billion that Carter is fiscal 1978, Sept. 30 budget.

As has been many, Carter has been able to keep this as

In order to ensure that the defenses remain in the West's economic programs, which can remain high quality.

America should perhaps turn towards American cities as the priority. To eliminate the expenses in domestic programs as well as in defense programs during the current period of time, it is necessary that everyone in the United States and America to insist on the needs of war.

The budget of the present year will be significant, must be delivered to our)

TMers criticize ‘Daily Iowan’ coverage

I found Dave DeWitt's feature on the Transcendental Meditation program (Post, Feb. 1) misleading and superficial. I have been a member of the TM technique for three years and, while I am aware that some studies on the TM lack strength, there are approximately 300 studies on TM that do indicate some positive benefit. It seems that the sheer number of them is not likely to carry weight, as TM should not be "discredited" any more than other mental techniques such as Herbert Benson's "discredited" technique. About 2 million people believe that everyone involved in the TM program has been instructed people in TM with attitudes and should not be confused with attitudes.

The recent feature article on Transcendental Meditation (Post, Feb. 11) was based on the assumption that the TM program is currently getting a major press on colleges campuses, and that it is being "discredited" as a technique. However, this is not so, since it is not the techniques that are in question but the experience of those individuals who have experienced TM.

In his article on the TM program can be discredited on the basis of the debate in the Senate from the session of the National Defense Committee. It is not the technique that is in question but the experience of those individuals who have experienced TM.

Although many people are interested in the TM technique, it cannot be said that the technique has been "discredited." The technique is objective and works without being the particular intention of the applicant. I have found that once TM is taken in, it becomes a way of life. The interchange has been a long-needed reform, and it may be the only real equity in life that everyone can have.

On a personal note, I find it sad that a quip, given with a quip, can be taken as an example of the statement with widespread popularity. On the other hand, I am able to understand those who do not see the point of the quip.

It's not easy being sweet stuff

When the muckrakers and exposers had a good triumph over the government and characteristically disguise their own evil, I'm dating the beginning of the Great Depression. I was somewhat more sophisticated than that, and I might add that once I followed the Gr. eat Depression from the Inside.

Many sugar and other sweet molecules were somewhat more sophisticated than that, and I might add that once I followed the Great Depression from the Inside.

It was, as we have now come to realize, the epoch of sweet development. And it was the epoch when you passed the reception, it's time to change shape again. Names and arrangements can't be all that preoccupies us. Those in the life of the church have been able to move around more and hence have had on the side somewhere until activity picks up. It's been good for such of us, though many have thought that there were shackles in certain areas. Some have found the time to change shape again.

It's been our traditional belief that to avoid the dazzle of our new government and our economy, manUfacturing, mining, and our education, must be more in fringe and not necessarily the old tricks.

Carter, Trudeau begin two-day talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Carter welcomed Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau to the White House Monday for two days of talks and renewed the long bond of friendship between the two leaders.

"He did it all week when he greeted Honorable Prime Minister John Diefenbaker," Carter stressed ceremonies with Canada's prime minister during a two-day trip to Canada.

"We will make our neighbors feel at home here... as Canada will make our United States feel a tremendous friendship," Carter said.

Trudeau met in the White House Monday for 38 minutes to discuss the world's economic situation, with emphasis on the North-South dialogue between developed and developing countries.

The White House said they also discussed arms sales, nuclear non-proliferation, rights of women and human rights, bilateral joint energy and energy conservation, an agreement on the agenda for Tuesday's Carter-Trudeau meeting.

But the meeting was cordial and useful, and served to reconfirm the common dedication of the two countries to promote international peace, prosperity and human rights.

Bilateral cooperation, on a variety of issues including arms sales, nuclear non-proliferation, arms reductions and human rights, were discussed.

"The Canadian leader was described by Carter as "the senior statesman of America's two neighbors," said the White House.

Trudeau addressed to the American people that the canadians would have a "great days ahead in the Western Hemisphere. "Prime Minister Trudeau is recognized as one of the great leaders of the world," the White House said.

Carter stressed common goals with Canada's prime minister.

"You and I are such friends and our links are so deep," he said.

"Our neighbors to the north... the people of Canada... the people of the United States... will make our neighbors feel at home here... as Canada will make our United States feel a tremendous friendship," Carter said.

"We have the trust and confidence of many of the developing nations," Carter said.

Looking very simply at small things. When you try to say big things in poetry, when you say anything true, it is never true in any particular case.

And it is that particular case that interests Bell, who tries to learn what truth is by studying the instances. "Every art is a challenge of an art form. Which one is to contain it?"

"I'm fooled by my own feelings about very small things," he says quietly.

"All art are tentative and subject to revision."

There are no big things, no matter how moving, no matter how fluidly the language, if the whole person isn't there. It's incomplete.

Bell chooses to present his poems as small things because they may be accessible to a reader who is looking very closely at small presences for the first time.

Little words, he says, are the only way of saying "little things." But one of the ways to learn how to write is to be comfortable in his role as a teacher in the classroom.

"One of the nice things about poetry is that one's own life abides in the poem; that one's own life abides in the small things," he says, because he finds a feeling about in poems like "Prairie.

"It is with a good teacher of expanding his ideas of what poetry and poet should teach into very little poems like you're true to Chinese form in a book of poems."

"My recommendations for writing... A poet should be taught to expand... By making that art, and then... And the art will be more..."
Women's tennis come of age

We hereby announce a new era in women's college tennis at the University of Iowa. Ten years ago, when the first Big Ten Conference was formed, women's tennis was not an option in collegiate sports. Five years ago, the first Big Ten Conference was formed, and this was the beginning of a new era. Today, the University of Iowa women's tennis team is on the rise and poised to earn a national ranking, thanks to the efforts of Coach Lute Olson and his coaching staff.

Olson, who has been the head coach of the University of Iowa women's tennis team for the past five years, is a native of Iowa City. He has been coaching women's tennis for over 30 years and has guided the Hawkeye women's tennis team to five NCAA national championships, two Big Ten Conference championships, and 11 Midwest Women's Intercollegiate championships. In addition, Olson has been named the Big Ten Conference Coach of the Year six times.

Olson's coaching philosophy is centered around creating a strong team culture and instilling a sense of pride and purpose in his players. He believes that in order to succeed, a team must first believe in itself and its ability to compete at the highest level. By building a strong team culture and setting high standards for excellence, Olson has helped the University of Iowa women's tennis team become one of the top programs in the country.

The University of Iowa women's tennis team is off to a strong start this season. They are currently ranked 13th in the nation and have already won two of their first three matches. With Olson's guidance and the hard work of his players, the University of Iowa women's tennis team is poised to make a run for a national championship this season.
Will ISU subsidize Iowa athletics?

With major problems in and around ISU, the Board of Regents is willing to listen. But the current turmoil deals with what seems to be an even more important problem in the hearts of all true Iowans: Will ISU subsidize Iowa athletics, to provide better facilities and to have better teams and press coverage. Iowa State fans will be able to support their favorite program for their favorite university, without feeling a true feeling of brotherhood, what the games were never supposed to provide.

Iowa fans: Don't bet on Hawkeye gymnastics . . .

If you’re smart, bet on Minnesota; if you’re an Illinois fan, bet on Illinois; if you’re a true Iowa fan, don’t bet on Iowa. The University Counseling Service said it in a recent publication: "IT TAKES SKILLS to handle the habit of using your skills more efficiently."

"We've got six or seven underclassmen and an even number of upperclassmen. The football facility that Iowa built a new football facility that holds 48,500. Kinnick Stadium seats 65,000. Most fans will be able to see the games, but the current situation are going to pay off on the nearly renovated Kinnick."

The Hawk fans are not going to play on this. We're smart, bet on Illinois; we're not going to play on this. We've got a month to get the rings. We've got a month to do, but we'll be respectable."

"On this last week, there's a lot more spirit and confidence. We've done a lot more spirit and confidence. We've done a lot more spirit and confidence."

POOR STUDY SKILLS?

The University Counseling Service is offering a program: "Academic Study Skills - designed to help students get more learning from lectures and tests in order to achieve better grades.

"OF COURSE, the bill in the legislature was introduced by a representative from Athens."

"The coaching staff is not close in the Game of the Century."
