Worst in aviation history

550 killed in Panam-Dutch jetliner crash

F. PATRICK JENSEN

The chairman of the Iowa Senate education budget subcommittee said he would not rule out the possibility that the Iowa University System will hold the line on state education funding next year.

The subcommittee, which met on Monday, March 28, 1977, to discuss the Senate’s budget address, is responsible for overseeing the state’s funding for public education.

In his opening statement, the subcommittee’s chair, Senator Robert Ray, noted that the state’s education budget is facing significant challenges, including a $63.7 million cut to the University of Iowa’s budget.

Ray said the subcommittee would be considering ways to allocate the funds, with a focus on maintaining the quality of education and ensuring that students have access to the resources they need.

The subcommittee’s efforts will be guided by a new budgeting framework that was developed in consultation with the state’s education leaders.

Meanwhile, the Iowa House of Representatives is expected to vote on a bill that would provide $16 million in funding for state education agencies next year.

Neither the Senate nor House bills include funding for salary increases for teachers and staff. The bills do propose some funding for technology and infrastructure improvements.

The House and Senate also plan to continue their debate on the Appropriations Committee’s budget proposal, which includes cuts to higher education.

Firefighters flood blaze following the jetliner crash

In the aftermath of the Panam-Dutch jetliner crash in the Canary Islands, firefighters were called in to help extinguish the flames.

Four engines and a tank truck were sent to the scene to help combat the flames, which caused significant damage to the airport and surrounding areas.

In total, 550 passengers and crew members were killed in the crash, making it one of the deadliest aviation disasters in history.

The crash occurred on November 28, 1974, when a Panam-Dutch Boeing 747-200 collided with a Dutch Airlines KLM 747 at the airport in Las Palmas, Spain.

The crash resulted in a large explosion and a fire that lasted for several hours, causing significant damage to the airport and surrounding areas.

Mafioso don alive and well in Arizona

Despite law enforcement efforts, a notorious mafia boss is still alive and operating in Arizona.

Salvatore "Sam" Giancana, a onetime Cincinnati mobster and one of the most powerful figures in the American mafia, is said to be living in a secret location known only to a handful of trusted associates.

Giancana, who is said to be worth $50 million, is believed to be hiding in the Arizona desert, where he is reportedly running a casino and a ghost town.

Giancana, who was once a powerful figure in the Chicago mafia, is said to have been involved in a number of illegal activities, including drug smuggling and prostitution.

Vietnam

TOKYO (UPI) - Vietnam said Friday that the United States must pay reparations to people affected by the 1954 Geneva agreement, which ended the French war in Indochina, because the United States entered the conflict.

The statement was made by Vietnamese Foreign Minister Pham Van Per, who claimed that the United States had not lived up to its obligations under the agreement.

SALT

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Americans should not expect much from the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) process, the chief U.S. arms control negotiator said Thursday.

But the U.S. should not give up on the talks, said Assistant Secretary of State George Shultz.

LEFTIE. (UPI) - Lefties and paleontologists unanimously declared a fossil in southern Lebanon in their similar dig with Christian rights in a region along the border. Better story this month.

"The order is not to assign any the fossil. It is now the job of the team of experts to determine whether this is a new species of sauropod that died back in the late Cretaceous, or possibly even earlier," the team leader said.

"The team will now begin the long process of preparing the fossil for study and analysis," he added.

"This is a significant find that will help us to understand the history of life on Earth," he concluded.

Remaking Iowa's image

Living in Iowa can mean facing many things, but it can also mean opportunity. Not everyone who lives in the “Great Midwest” of Iowa doesn’t live in the “Great Space” between the cornfields.

Our rural urban counties in the East and West are often characterized by a few key traits. One is the importance of agriculture, which is evident everywhere you look in the state. The other is a strong sense of community and pride in small towns and rural areas.

The median household income in the state is $52,712, which is higher than the national average. This is partly due to the strong agricultural economy, but also to the fact that Iowa has a lower cost of living than many other states.

The state is home to numerous colleges and universities, including the University of Iowa and Iowa State University. These institutions are major employers and contribute significantly to the state’s economy.

Iowa is also known for its political moderation. The state has been a swing state in presidential elections, and it is home to several influential political figures, including former President George W. Bush’s father, George H.W. Bush, who served as governor of the state.

The state is also home to numerous festivals and events, including the Iowa State Fair, which is one of the largest state fairs in the United States. The fair features carnival rides, livestock shows, and agricultural exhibits.

Finally, Iowa is known for its natural beauty. The state is home to numerous scenic areas, including the Loess Hills, which are a popular destination for hikers and nature lovers.

In conclusion, there are many reasons why people choose to live in Iowa. Whether you are looking for a strong agricultural economy, a low cost of living, or a focus on community and education, Iowa has something to offer.

Mathews last year, Turner's arch-rival and eminence grise will be back, but he has left no unfillable mark on the team. Largely through Turner's efforts the Braves acquired swinging outfielders Matthews and Jeff Burroughs over the winter and they are expected to power it nearly locked a year ago.

The Braves aren't deep, but they should be competitive and exciting. Aside from Matthews and Burroughs, the team also boasts exciting pitching in first baseman Willie Montanez, relief pitcher Mike Marshall and starting pitchers Andy Messersmith and Phil Niekro. Manager Dave Bristol isn't predicting a pennant in the first round, but the club is well placed to improve considerably on last year's 79-83 record.

"We should improve our run production, and I'm hopeful we can cut the number of errors in our infield by one-third," Bristol said. "We also have lots of players to go to in the bottom of the order with Mathews, Matthews, Montanez, Burroughs; top-flight starters in Messersmith and Marshall and starting pitchers Andy Messersmith and Phil Niekro.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Al McGee, college basketball’s most flexible-minded coach, will bring down the curtain on his Brewer career tonight with probably dramatic fashion by leading his Margarita Warriors against the North Carolina Tar Heels for the NCAA championship.

"It’s all we want," it’s curious, McGee said Wednesday. "If we win, it’s a great end to the season, but if we lose, that’s just basketball." McGee said he’s seen the Tar Heels twice this season, but he doesn’t think they’re as good as he thought they were in his first meeting with them.

"We’re just a better team than they are," McGee said. "We haven’t played as well as we should have, but we’re still the team to beat."

In the final college meet of his career, medalist John Naber of the 200-yard butterfly, and then defended his title in the 100-yard butterfly.

Naber won the 200-yard and 100-yard butterfly, and then defended his title in the 100-yard butterfly.

Bruce Furniss twice broke the national record in the 200-yard butterfly, and then defended his title in the 100-yard butterfly.
