British reporter says 3rd World harasses press

Business Council draws leaders to luxurious meeting

LONDON (UPI) - A British journalist released from a soap jail Sunday "Third World"eharasses the press, both domestic and foreign, in the increase.

"We are simply not being permitted to work in this country," the corres pondent for the London Daily Telegraph said. Castro's regime had barred the correspondent from covering the world's current events.

"They are not allowing us to do our work," the correspondent said. "They have been closing down our office and not allowing us to publish anything.

Energy efficiency better than nukes

To the Editor:

In the last several years as increasing amounts of information has been offered that suggests that the use of nuclear power is not the answer to our energy problems, many people are beginning to question the wisdom of pushing for the development of new nuclear plants. Currently a major priority of the American energy policy is to keep our nuclear plants running. This, I believe, should be drastically slowed.

Now the big question is whether new nuclear plants can operate with a lower rate of pollution. It seems that by eliminating the emission of carbon dioxide, we will be able to prevent the formation of this gas into acidic precipitation and a number of other pollutants. If we can create a nuclear reactor that is capable of operating at a lower rate of pollution, then we should be able to proceed with the development of nuclear energy.

Sincerely,

Majority protest can end animal cruelty

To the Editor:

How does the silent majority feel toward animal cruelty? How should we respond? As a group with a history of political repression and a reputation for effective, sometimes violent, protest actions in support of its objectives for protection of national culture and of the place, on first acquaintance, looks so much like the United States, it seems important to voice our opposition to the killing of animals. We feel strongly that the animals should be treated with kindness and compassion.

'Battle' bill is step in right direction

To the Editor:

The 'Battle' bill is a step in the right direction for the people of Iowa. This bill will help to prevent the cruel exploitation of animals. After reading the letter from Jesse King, I realized that the issue of animal cruelty is a serious one. It is important that we take action to ensure that animals are treated with kindness and compassion.

Old St. Nick to be exposed?

To the Editor:

Many people assume that the holiday season is all about getting together with family and friends, enjoying good food, and exchanging gifts. However, I believe that we should also be aware of the darker side of this holiday tradition. For example, the tradition of Santa Claus may be used as a way to promote the exploitation of children.

LMHL picks up another enemy

To the Editor:

When you think about it, it seems strange that we are picking up another enemy so soon after the last enemy we picked up. However, it is important that we stand up against any force that seeks to harm our community.
