King resigns CAC post — not a student

By BILL JOHNSON and KELLY ROBERTS Staff Writer

Geoff King, vice president of College Administration Council (CAC), has resigned "offensive insubordination," because he was not a registered student. King's resignation reportedly will dissolve the CAC constitution which requires that "a quarter of students" run for the executive positions of CAC.

"I don't fully know what I did was wrong," King said. "But I think the reason for it is because I've been in a business for so long, and I think that I was being honest, integrity, and responsibility, and I think the students aren't being honest, integrity, and responsibility, and I think the students are being selfish.

"I don't know whether I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know where or why, but I think that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.

"I don't know if I was wrong or not. I'm just not sure that CAC is going to be going on for the future because I'm not sure that the students are going to be running CAC.
Campagne bill gains support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democratic leaders are confident they have enough votes to pass legislation designated as a “roadmap to recovery” by President Clinton. The bill would allowing federal employees to work in public employment, but not in new programs funded by the stimulus package, and it would extend unemployment benefits for three months. The package is expected to cost $36 million over three years for federal workers and will mainly compensate federal employees for extra pay during the pandemic.

Little effect seen in selection ruling

A District Court judge in Henry County, Iowa, has ruled that methods used to select jurors there are illegal. The large jury pool is viewed as a threat to the fairness of the selection process. The judge concluded that the method of selection, which involves a lottery system, violates the Constitution's equal protection clause.

A marathon fun

The annual marathon will be held this year on May 15, with registrations involving thousands of students. The event is expected to be close to last year’s enrollment registering. It’s hard to say what the enrollment will be, but I immediately know that students will be interested in the South entrance.

A day without sunshine

Three people are gunned down in a shooting incident at a downtown street festival. The shooting occurred near the main entrance of the festival, where large crowds were gathered. The shooting victim was a local resident who was attending the festival with friends. The motive for the shooting is unknown, and the investigation is ongoing.

A day without sunshine

A day without sunshine

A day without sunshine

A day without sunshine

Vets' payday changes

By RICARD J. SMITH

Staff Writer

The VA announced it will be making changes to the monthly payroll schedule for federal veterans.
The changes are expected to result in a reduction of the number of days veterans will have their paychecks deposited. The changes will take effect
July 1.

Financial Aid Office changes

The financial aid office is changing its hours of operation.
The office will be closed on Saturdays, and the hours of operation will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday to Friday.

The Iowa Foundation for Medical Care, as the Professional Standards Review Organization, will assume full review responsibility pursuant to an agreement with the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and requirements of Title XI, Part B of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395u) and regulations and guidelines therewith.

The formal plan and timetable approved by the Secretary for assumption of review responsibilities by the Iowa Foundation for Medical Care are available for public inspection between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday at the Iowa Foundation for Medical Care, 1000 Grant Avenue, Des Moines, Iowa.

Breakthrough in Human Potential

The Transcendental Meditation Program teaches not only a technique for deep relaxation and increased energy, clarity, and intelligence in daily life, but recent experiences of meditators and recent scientific research show growth of full human potential, as shown by the effortless development of "super" normal abilities such as visualization, invisibility, extreme strength, etc.

Learn more about this very exciting new information concerning the Transcendental Meditation Technique.

Free introductory talk Tuesday June 7, 7:30, Iowa City Public Library; Wednesday June 8, 7:30, Miller Room, IMU.
Lintdquist set back by fund delay

By P. PATRICK JENKINS

Construction at the Lintdquist Center for Measurement phase two, slated to begin this summer, will have to be delayed until July.

The delay was prompted by the UI College of Education's decision not to continue support for the project. The decision was made after the contract was awarded to Scribner Engineering, of Iowa City, and the college had committed to fund the project.

Scribner was the contractor that proposed the only viable option for the Lintdquist Center expansion. The college had previously awarded a contract to another firm, but that firm did not have the necessary expertise to complete the project.

The delay will cost the college approximately $45,000 in additional design fees and $30,000 in additional construction costs, bringing the total project cost to $85,000.

The college has already invested $220,000 in the project, and the delay will mean an additional $58,000 in lost revenue.

The college is now looking at alternative options for expanding the Lintdquist Center, including the possibility of partnering with other colleges or universities to share the cost of the project.

Phase II site

Construction workers last week started the demolition of the old UI College of Education and College union.

The former Campus Union building had been designated for demolition by the UI planning commission, and the state has approved the expansion of the Lintdquist Center to accommodate the new facilities.

UI appropriations cut, budget up

By P. PATRICK JENKINS

Contributing Editor

The UI Appropriations Committee voted to cut the UI's $61 million state appropriation for operations of the current fiscal year by $1.5 million. The cuts were approved after the legislature passed a state education funding bill that would reduce the state's funding for higher education by $17 million.

The Appropriations Committee voted to cut the UI's $61 million state appropriation for operations of the current fiscal year by $1.5 million. The cuts were approved after the legislature passed a state education funding bill that would reduce the state's funding for higher education by $17 million.

The Appropriations Committee voted to cut the UI's $61 million state appropriation for operations of the current fiscal year by $1.5 million. The cuts were approved after the legislature passed a state education funding bill that would reduce the state's funding for higher education by $17 million.

The Appropriations Committee voted to cut the UI's $61 million state appropriation for operations of the current fiscal year by $1.5 million. The cuts were approved after the legislature passed a state education funding bill that would reduce the state's funding for higher education by $17 million.

The Appropriations Committee voted to cut the UI's $61 million state appropriation for operations of the current fiscal year by $1.5 million. The cuts were approved after the legislature passed a state education funding bill that would reduce the state's funding for higher education by $17 million.

The Appropriations Committee voted to cut the UI's $61 million state appropriation for operations of the current fiscal year by $1.5 million. The cuts were approved after the legislature passed a state education funding bill that would reduce the state's funding for higher education by $17 million.

The Appropriations Committee voted to cut the UI's $61 million state appropriation for operations of the current fiscal year by $1.5 million. The cuts were approved after the legislature passed a state education funding bill that would reduce the state's funding for higher education by $17 million.

The Appropriations Committee voted to cut the UI's $61 million state appropriation for operations of the current fiscal year by $1.5 million. The cuts were approved after the legislature passed a state education funding bill that would reduce the state's funding for higher education by $17 million.
Welcome back to something different

This edition marks the beginning of a new publishing year for the Daily Iowan. We want to express our gratitude for the consistent support and patience that you, our readers, have shown us. The recent publication delays were due to unforeseen circumstances, including unexpected break-in damage to our offices and printing facility. We have worked diligently to address these issues and ensure a smooth transition back to our normal publishing schedule.

We have prepared this edition with the intention of providing you with accurate, timely, and engaging content. Our team is committed to exploring various topics and perspectives, including local news, campus events, and a range of issues that affect our community. We hope that you will find something of interest in these pages.

As always, we encourage reader engagement and welcome your feedback. Please feel free to contact us with your thoughts or comments. Our goal is to create a space where everyone feels heard and valued.

We look forward to continuing our dialogue with you in the upcoming weeks.

Editorial Page Editor

---

Tenant-landlord proposal needs voter support

If you have not moved to Iowa City for the first time, you probably have heard that the housing market in the area is tightening. This change has been accompanied by rising rent costs and decreased availability of affordable housing, which presents a significant challenge for many residents. The Iowa City Housing Authority (ICHA) has proposed a tenant-landlord ordinance (TLO) to address these issues.

The ordinance would strengthen the rights of tenants and limit the actions landlords can take against them. As a result, it has been praised by many in the community as a necessary step to improve housing conditions in the area.

The ordinance is currently under review by the city council. We encourage all residents to familiarize themselves with its provisions and to participate in the public comment period, which will be held in early November. This is an opportunity for you to express your support for the ordinance and to share your thoughts on how the proposed changes can be improved.

---

Scoring

A recent Budweiser advertisement featuring Mark Messier was part of a larger campaign aimed at increasing awareness and support for the NHL's Player's Auxiliary Fund. The advertisement highlighted the financial difficulties faced by retired NHL players and their families.

The campaign featured interviews with former players, such as Mark Messier, who shared their personal experiences and the struggles they face during their retirement. The advertisement aimed to raise funds for the fund, which provides financial assistance to retired players and their families.

---

Regents appointments languish in neglect

On July 1 the terms of three members of the Board of Regents expired. These appointments are made by the governor and need to be confirmed by the Senate. University of Iowa President Bruce Harreld has not submitted nominations for new regents, leaving the positions vacant.

The lack of action has raised concerns about the potential impact on the university's leadership and strategic planning. As one of Iowa's four public universities, the University of Iowa plays a critical role in the state's economy and educational landscape.

We urge Governor Kim Reynolds to submit timely nominations for new regents, ensuring the university's continued success and growth. The Senate has a responsibility to confirm these appointments promptly to avoid any delays in the governing body's ability to address important issues.

---

Anyhow your (subliminal) mind desires

Subliminal advertising has been a topic of interest for decades. It refers to the use of very subtle auditory or visual cues that are intended to influence a person's subconscious mind without their awareness.

The effectiveness of subliminal advertising is a matter of debate. Some research suggests that it can have an impact on behavior, while others argue that the evidence is inconclusive.

---

Steve Tracy

Steve Tracy is a member of the Daily Iowan editorial board.
'Black Sunday': blimp on rampage

By Ed Hasler

In many ways, Black Sunday is a spin-off of the phenomenon that has been around for the past several years - the blimp.

In one such incident, on a bright and sunny day, a blimp was seen hovering over a large crowd of people, causing them to panic and flee for their lives.

The blimp, which was flying at a height of 1,000 feet, was carrying a message that read: "Keep calm and carry on." However, the crowd was not amused, and they began to herd towards the nearest exits.

The scene was chaotic, with people tripping over each other and pushing in the name of getting to safety.

In another incident, a group of people were standing on the sidewalk, admiring the blimp as it flew overhead. Suddenly, the blimp started to decrease its altitude, much to the horror of the people below.

As it flew lower, the people on the ground could see that the blimp was carrying a message that read: "Beware of the blimp!"

In yet another incident, a blimp was seen flying over a hospital, causing panic among the patients and staff.

The blimp was carrying a message that read: "Get well soon!"

The staff and patients were not amused, and they began to call for the Blimp to leave their hospital.

In one final incident, a blimp was seen flying over a football stadium, causing the crowd to burst into cheers.

The blimp was carrying a message that read: "Go for the blimp!"

The crowd was thrilled, and they began to cheer even louder.

In conclusion, the blimp phenomenon is here to stay, and it is sure to cause many more incidents in the future.

---

The Campus Papers

The University of Wisconsin

The University of Wisconsin has announced a new policy that will allow students to carry blimps on campus.

The policy was introduced by Chancellor Robert Barchi.

"We realize that some students may have a need for blimps on campus," said Barchi. "We have therefore decided to allow blimps to be carried on campus, as long as they are used in a responsible manner."
Iowans plan time of their lives for year 2000

By K. PATRICK JENKINS
Contributing Editor

Kuralt...a non-crisis reporter

Kuralt said the "Black life was viewed..."
Six Day War memory bitterly recalled

RENNERT, Lebanon (UPI) - A general illness that does not happen hardly ever happened before. As the Six Day War began, an Arab leader passed without incident in the rest of the occupied West Bank.

In Tel Aviv, the leader of a new country party assembles in line at the Israeli government with President Moshad Beny-}

The fact that talks are continuing is a good "signal," said Yitzhak Tabak, head of the Democratic Left Party, which is backing the peace negotiations.

"The support is crucial to Begin's efforts to secure a majority in parliament.

The two countries are Sunday to argue over the question of how to regulate a Middle East peace momentum.

A Liber source indicated that differences still remain and that there is not room for internal opposition."

In Jerusalem, outgoing Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Israel was concerned about Prime Minister Carter's statement on the need for a "future peace settlement."
The Seychelles government of President Jean Mancham has been overthrown by a coup, reports reaching London today. The president, a Marxist leader, had been accused of being more interested in beautiful women than government and of plotting to set up a "priesthood of life." He said the people of the Seychelles have purposely tried to free them of Mancham's influences that threatened to replace the people of this beautiful spot on earth.

Mancham, founder of the Seychelles United party, accused Mancham of being more interested in beautiful women than government and of plotting to create a "priesthood of life." He said the people of the Seychelles have purposely tried to free them of Mancham's influences that threatened to replace the people of this beautiful spot on earth.

Mancham, moreover, was reported to have been asked to resign his post as president. He is expected to begin relaxing the island's close ties with the United States and Britain.

He is also expected to begin relaxing the island's close ties with the United States and Britain.

The coup was reported to have come as a surprise to many government officials.

"I had to leave a lot - and I know I did it in style. But my little country seemed to help me do it," said a government official.

And the coup came as a shock to many officials.

"They (Britain and the United States) were used to the Seychelles as a sitting duck for a puppet government," said a government official.

It is expected to be a major victory for the Seychelles government.
MSU students protest Iran film

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Students of Arabic and Middle Eastern studies protesting a Michigan State University film production on the Middle East Wednesday joined forces in a protest that started Friday night when approximately 50 students occupied the campus library.
Commonwealth heads gather for summit

Amin warns Britain of reprisals

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — President Idi Amin of Uganda, charging he and his nation have been barred from the Commonwealth conference this week in London, warned Sunday of possible reprisals — "something serious" against Britain.

Radio Uganda gave no details of the threat, but Amin apparently was speaking after Western nations, particularly France and Britain, were reported to have decided not to allow Uganda to participate. Radio Uganda quoted Amin as saying: "There is something serious I may do to the British," the spokesman said.

Amin's warning to Britain comes as Britain has been planning to extend greater economic and cultural ties with Uganda. He has kept the British community in the East African nation of virtual hostages in the past when relations with London deteriorated.

It was expected the heads of state would be represented at the Commonwealth conference this week because Britain has decided not to allow Uganda to participate. Radio Uganda quoted Amin, as saying: "There is something serious I may do to the British," the spokesman said.

British officials said Amin's warning did not amount to a direct threat, but hinted strongly Amin might not be welcomed in London following reports of recent widespread massacres in Uganda.

Amin's warning to Britain came as a close one of Britain's leaders for a possible countries trip to Uganda. Amin said: "Britain was considering sending a delegation of Uganda to the conference."

"Whatever is good for Britain is good for Uganda, Britain is just wanting her time," Amin said.

Amin added he warned London of his intentions to bring Ugandan leaders and high ranking officials — but that will not change his stands.

The warning to Britain was a new one on Amin's part.血压 not been reported before.

Regardless of the warning, Amin was facing an escape to the west. He was alleged to have been killed, Amin's government was reported to have been killed in a coup staged Sunday by his Marxist premier, France Albert Rene.

The coup was the latest in a series of political upheavals in the troubled East African nation. It was the latest in a series of political upheavals in the troubled East African nation. Amin has been under pressure from the United Nations and other international organizations to stop the killings and mass arrests.

British security tight

LONDON (UPI) — The guards of Queen Elizabeth's golden coach have been posted as the British Prime Minister's official carriage to the Commonwealth heads of government was driven to the meeting here.

The carriage is a ceremonial one used only on the most important occasions. It is a traditional open-top carriage with a canopy roof and is drawn by six horses. The coach is defined by the Queen's College in London as being "an ancient instrument of state".

The carriage was driven by a member of the British Royal Guard and accompanied by a police escort.

The coach was displayed at the Royal Palace in London before being driven to the meeting. The coach is one of a series of carriages used by the Queen during state visits to other countries.

The coach is considered one of the most important items in the Queen's wardrobe and is used only on the most important occasions. It is a traditional open-top carriage with a canopy roof and is drawn by six horses. The coach is defined by the Queen's College in London as being "an ancient instrument of state".

The carriage was driven by a member of the British Royal Guard and accompanied by a police escort.

The coach was displayed at the Royal Palace in London before being driven to the meeting. The coach is one of a series of carriages used by the Queen during state visits to other countries.

The coach is considered one of the most important items in the Queen's wardrobe and is used only on the most important occasions. It is a traditional open-top carriage with a canopy roof and is drawn by six horses. The coach is defined by the Queen's College in London as being "an ancient instrument of state".

The carriage was driven by a member of the British Royal Guard and accompanied by a police escort.

The coach was displayed at the Royal Palace in London before being driven to the meeting. The coach is one of a series of carriages used by the Queen during state visits to other countries.

The coach is considered one of the most important items in the Queen's wardrobe and is used only on the most important occasions. It is a traditional open-top carriage with a canopy roof and is drawn by six horses. The coach is defined by the Queen's College in London as being "an ancient instrument of state".

The carriage was driven by a member of the British Royal Guard and accompanied by a police escort.

The coach was displayed at the Royal Palace in London before being driven to the meeting. The coach is one of a series of carriages used by the Queen during state visits to other countries.

The coach is considered one of the most important items in the Queen's wardrobe and is used only on the most important occasions. It is a traditional open-top carriage with a canopy roof and is drawn by six horses. The coach is defined by the Queen's College in London as being "an ancient instrument of state".

The carriage was driven by a member of the British Royal Guard and accompanied by a police escort.

The coach was displayed at the Royal Palace in London before being driven to the meeting. The coach is one of a series of carriages used by the Queen during state visits to other countries.

The coach is considered one of the most important items in the Queen's wardrobe and is used only on the most important occasions. It is a traditional open-top carriage with a canopy roof and is drawn by six horses. The coach is defined by the Queen's College in London as being "an ancient instrument of state".

The carriage was driven by a member of the British Royal Guard and accompanied by a police escort.

The coach was displayed at the Royal Palace in London before being driven to the meeting. The coach is one of a series of carriages used by the Queen during state visits to other countries.

The coach is considered one of the most important items in the Queen's wardrobe and is used only on the most important occasions. It is a traditional open-top carriage with a canopy roof and is drawn by six horses. The coach is defined by the Queen's College in London as being "an ancient instrument of state".

The carriage was driven by a member of the British Royal Guard and accompanied by a police escort.

The coach was displayed at the Royal Palace in London before being driven to the meeting. The coach is one of a series of carriages used by the Queen during state visits to other countries.

The coach is considered one of the most important items in the Queen's wardrobe and is used only on the most important occasions. It is a traditional open-top carriage with a canopy roof and is drawn by six horses. The coach is defined by the Queen's College in London as being "an ancient instrument of state".

The carriage was driven by a member of the British Royal Guard and accompanied by a police escort.

The coach was displayed at the Royal Palace in London before being driven to the meeting. The coach is one of a series of carriages used by the Queen during state visits to other countries.
Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

BY JETTE NORTH

Fluegel's wish

The Iowa State Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.

Tourney fulfills Fluegel's wish

The iowa state Fair was always a good place for Terrence "Bud" Tyler, who is about to retire after 25 years as head track coach at the University of Iowa. He led the Hawkeyes to three Big Ten championships and seven NCAA titles, but he says his biggest accomplishment was in the classroom, where he taught more than 1,500 students.

Tyler, who has been honored with numerous awards during his career, says he's looking forward to spending more time with his family and his two children, who are both pursuing careers in education.
Blazers nab NBA crown

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Portland Trail Blazers, with five players missing due to injuries and Bob Gross leading almost everywhere it counts, beat the Philadelphia 76ers 110-103 today in the Grand Prix rules, theبلاغي Grand Prix playoffs. Washington, D.C., to win the championship series one game to none.

The Blazers again used an explosive attack, a tactic that has always been their trademark, and Bob Gross scored 21 points in the second quarter to give Portland the lead before Bob Gross closed out the game with his 43 points.

The 76ers' defense was completely outmatched by the Blazers' offensive talent. Philadelphia's Daryn Thomas had only five points in the first half and was held scoreless in the second half.

The Blazers have won the championship two years in a row, and tonight's victory is their third straight win over the 76ers. Portland has defeated Philadelphia 5-1 in the playoffs this year.

The Portland Trail Blazers are now 3-0 in the championship series, having defeated Philadelphia 2-1 in the first round.

Bud Tyler sat in a lawn chair away from the polo field, his white face glowing with anticipation as he watched the game. The Iowa City Airpo...