House weakens energy plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) - House leaders Thursday talked with President Carter about the energy plan, negotiating to propose a plan for the energy policy.

The plan would include a $1 billion increase in loan guarantees, a new study to determine the energy needs of the country, and an agreement on the first phase of the program.

State Medicaid penalty stands

Since Carter's idea for weakening the energy plan was submitted to Congress last week, a number of Congressmen have been anxious to see what the President would say.

Many observers had expected that the President would propose a plan that was "less drastic" than the one he had announced.

The President said he was "not prepared to lay out" the details of his plan, but he did say he would not support the "full" version of the plan.

Bryant win local topic

The strength of Anita Bryant's campaign to preserve the gay rights ordinance in the City Council was discussed Thursday after its introduction in the City Council. Bryant was pleased with the vote, as the Department of the City Council didn't think Bryant could "get that kind of support for her proposal." Reading from a prepared statement, Bryant said, "We are dismayed by the results of the City Council."

DOONESBURY

Keeling said the show is one of the few that are printed for First防线. Throughout the exhibit, there were several scenes, including one that is a continuation of a theme in Keeling's "Finn Indian." In addition, the image of her mother is a "reality bite" that she has always wanted to feature. The theme continues to evolve through the use of the pieces, all of which are created by Keeling.

Nothing Gnu under the sun

In a network of black holes, quarks, exploding stars, and Alpha Bryant, it is reassuring to know that there still exists a world of real symmetry, variable fields, and biology beyond... such as the planet of the Gnus. The Planet of the Gnus was known throughout the circle of the galaxy as a world of beauty where nothing seemed to matter, not their feathery coats, nor their feeding habits, nor their walk, nor their manner of making friends. But just as in any other place, the faces of the Gnus were not to be considered the face in fine detail, the face in the grain, the face in the expression, but the face in the total environment. At last, there were definite edges, and these could still maintain an aerial view. These were the faces, not the animals but little beings who shaded the patterns on the ground, which were used for relaxation.

In the region of the Planet of the Gnus who were not content even to let the commonwealth of the plants devise a delicate plan to strip the reservations of their tax revenues, came the powerful Re-Gnus. The younger Gnus were promised even greater opportunity; the older Gnus promised even greater opportunity. At last, the Re-Gnus were said to be considered the face in fine detail, the face in the grain, the face in the expression, but nothing more.

The younger Gnu in the heart of the mountains. At last, the Re-Gnu leaders also stated that they were for preserving the tax reservations, that they would be made into areas for hiking but that the change would come soon.

The tax reservations became more and more bid-eyed. And, despite the fact that, for years, the tax reservations were more and more popular, the site of many cultural events and economy-boosting, truly expired afternoon. The trees themselves remained intact, if slender, to resist any hope that they would be completely eradicated. The younger Gnu in the heart of the mountains. At last, the Re-Gnu leaders also stated that they were for preserving the tax reservations.

Thus, despite the clamor for human consumption, the Gnus were said not to have to look for the seaweed; they were expected to be considered the face in fine detail, the face in the grain, the face in the expression, but nothing more.

Woman's bookstore first, only in town

By BELLE KLINE

Lansing City is aglowing, for being a tough, competitive town is what it takes to start a new business—particularly in these times—but Lorty's Bookstore is not daunted.

Wednesday, Pitt and her partner, Lorna Gauntt, started their new bookstore, The Plains Woman Bookstore. Many of their books are organised by books and about women.

"We realized the market," Pitt said, "and how we're doing the kind of store where a bookstore like this could really go. It has a strong support group of people who are interested in feminist and non-sexist literature.

"I believe in the power of the printed word, " Pitt continued. "The momentum is growing. If anything, it's a woman's slant.

"We're not touching our feet," she added. "But we're not trying to portray ourselves as a fervent feminist and non-sexist woman's bookstore."

"I think people should be exposed to these things about women's culture," Pitt said.

"The books have to come from somewhere."

Bach festival this weekend

The Fifth Annual Bach Festival will be presented this weekend by the Chamber Music Society of Iowa-Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at 8:00 p.m. in the Iowa Building, University of Iowa, and at 2:00 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the Women's Press Club in downtown Iowa City.

"Performing with the Chamber Players of the University of Iowa, professional and amateur groups, will offer a variety of programs throughout the weekend," said Dr. John V. Buss, director of the festival.

The programs of the festival are designed to provide a variety of music for the entire family, he said.

"We have in mind," he added, "to have music that will appeal to the young as well as to the old."

"The festival is a way to introduce young people to music," he said.

"The programs of the festival will feature Cantata No. 5, "By Your Holiness and Your Excellency," by Michael Praetorius, and Cantata No. 2, "An Old Woman," by J.S. Bach, as well as a variety of other works.

Saturdays are reserved for the performance of Cantata No. 3, "In the Precious Blood of Our Lord Jesus Christ," and Cantata No. 11, "In the Precious Blood of Our Lord Jesus Christ,"

"We have some fine soloists," he said, "who will be performing with the orchestra.

Israel begins transition from Labor party rule

TE'AT VITAL (UPI) - Israel officially began the transition from 12 years of Labor Party rule to a new government Saturday when President Begin announced that a new, right-wing Likud bloc had taken over from the outgoing Labor government.

Officials warned Saturday that allegations of strong-arm tactics by the incoming Labor Party were being blown out of proportion.

In a ceremony attended by officials from both parties, the President handed a set of keys symbolizing the transition to Begin, who had won a sweeping majority of the seats in the March 26 election.

"The transition process is taking place in a normal way," Begin told a news conference. "There are no serious allegations of any violent tactics." The President is a former right-wing prime minister who defeated Labor leader Golda Meir in 1969.

The outgoing Labor government was defeated in a vote of no confidence in the Knesset, Israel's parliament, on March 9. The new Likud bloc won 61 seats in the 120-member assembly, compared with 58 for Labor.

The transition process was a major milestone in Israeli politics, as it marked the end of a long period of Labor rule and the beginning of a new era of right-wing leadership.

The new government also brought to an end the long-serving Prime Minister Menahem Begin's reign, as he ceded power to his successor, Yitzhak Shamir, who was sworn in as prime minister.

The transition ceremony was held in the Knesset building in Jerusalem, and was attended by both outgoing Labor leaders and incoming Likud politicians.

The ceremony marked the formal transfer of power from one government to another, and was seen as a moment of hope for a country that had faced many challenges and conflicts in recent years.

The new government was expected to focus on issues such as economic reform, security, and peace negotiations, as it seeks to build on the achievements of the previous Labor administration.

The transition process was a testament to the democratic nature of Israeli politics, as it allowed for a peaceful and orderly change of government, and ensured that the country's future would be determined through the will of the people.
Blue Collar Backlash

BURLINGTON - The superstars dropped into the Indian Head dugout pretty briefly over the left field fence Wednesday night at Burlington’s Community Park Stadium for the Midwest League All-Star Game. The players were wearing their new uniforms, but the regular-season rosters weren’t and the very few that were perusing the drives was not the best look at the game. The Superstars were wearing helmets and uniforms, but the regular-season rosters were not. The All-Star Game was a bit of a letdown for the fans who had been looking forward to seeing the best of the best in action. Bucks want Benson

NEW YORK (AP) - After Benson was up for the National Basketball Association college draft Friday by selecting Indiana center Kent Benson, the other NBA teams will proceed to give up the highest telephone bill in league history.

Beginning at 1 p.m. EDT, the annual search for basketball talent continues with all 22 teams tuned in to a conference game between Iowa and Arizona.

After about four hours, the NBA will have a $1 million pool and every eligible college player in the country who ever dreamed of reaching a pro uniform will be watching anxiously to hear the results.

There was no secret draft last year on the same format in previous years when the NBA and college leagues were not affiliated, nothing is all that unique and every fear for itself.

NBA draft

The news, Benson, Los Angeles, hopes to virtually rebuild themselves through the draft with three selections above the first round. Benson, Golden State and Denver have the first round choices each, but each of those teams are players are gone, probably say there will be free players available of starring and included anywhere in the NBA.

The first pick Benson was the Bob and team owner Bob Knight with the other team, the Express Acol, Acol, the Bucks will be hard.

 touring Benson can come even close to doing what then as Bob Knight before going to Los Angeles two years ago.

Washington, looking for reinforcement or option or forward, it is expected to use its pick to take either Bob Tull of North Carolina or the Kenyon Kelly of North Carolina.

Phoenix, needing to replace fired Tom and then Dokky of Los Angeles, can be hard to pick.
