State endangers financed abortions

By TOM DREYFUS

The Iowa Department of Social Services was clearly out of order in refusing delays for an abortion last July, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said in a ruling reported Thursday.

The court reversed a lower court's decision that had blocked an abortion, allowing the state to go ahead with further delay proceedings.

The court said that the state's actions violated a woman's constitutional right to privacy and that the state had no legitimate interest in preventing the abortion.

Book Exchange

I don't have a book exchange and lecture note service operated by the College of Arts and Sciences, which is attempting to overcome some of the problems that have been encountered in the past, said R. Stuart Fish, director of the service.

"We had a lot of problems last year, but we have had a lot of books, but it's a lot better," he said.

The service started with the book exchange in January 1978. The exchange was opened by the Liberal Arts Student Association (LASA), and has been in operation ever since.

The exchange was opened in CAS as a result of a survey of area colleges, when students were surveyed on how to make the exchange successful. It was found that a large percentage of students did not use the service because they did not want to work on weekends, or because they did not have the time to work on weekends.

"We wanted to open the exchange last year, so that we could handle it, and we're working hard to make the exchange as successful as possible," said Fish.

The lecture note service was added last year, and began with 11 course sections. The service was successful, and the service is expected to continue this year.

"We've had a lot of success with the lecture note service," said Fish.

"The lecture note service is working very well, and we're working hard to make it as successful as possible," he said.

Leverage

The current foul play we have run all our stories and pictures from, in fact, for the past 20 years, is a matter of great concern to the number of journalists engaged in these trades. Photos of our work have been widely used and misused. Although we at the Daily Iowan, a long-time employee of the newspaper, are aware that these behaviors do not reflect the standards expected of our profession, we are also aware that the era of free access to the Daily Iowan has come to an end. The Daily Iowan, as a consequence, will no longer publish any stories or pictures that are not furnished by the Daily Iowan.

City council-large candidate makes his pitch

To the Editor:

I would like to take this open letter to the readers and write to the editorial page editor of the Daily Iowan. I am writing to bring attention to a problem that has been plaguing our community for some time. The problem is the lack of representation in our city council.

We have a council of 12 members, and each member represents a different ward. The problem is that there are only three women on the council, and none of them have children. This lack of representation is a problem because it means that the voices of women and children are not being heard in the decision-making process.

I am writing to urge you to consider this issue and to take steps to ensure that our city council is more diverse and inclusive. It is time for our city council to reflect the diversity of our community.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

Canal

U.S. explorers Edward Baker and Sol Larvette have just returned from a long journey through the territory of the Republic of Panama concerning the future state of the Panama Canal. According to the explorers, the treaty should be ratified.

Under the terms of the treaty, the United States would retain control of the canal and would be able to do so until the country becomes independent. However, the United States and the canal would remain in Panama with the U.S. military presence to ensure peace and security.

This treaty, which is expected to be signed in the coming weeks, will be a major victory for the people of Panama.

The movement that came in from the outside

It was chilly on the August 14. A few clouds were beginning to change color, and I took the bunch of yellow peonies that I forget to take to the bank. Panama has little to look in with pride but the peonies.

This same argument is reflected in statements that have been made by the leaders of the volunteer forces in the Panama Canal. These leaders have stated that the Canal is not for the exclusive use of the United States and that it should be open to all nations.

Voters to get third shot at jail facility

by ARONDA DIETER
Daily Iowan

Johnson County residents will have the chance to vote in November on a proposed jail and law enforcement center.

The proposal includes the construction of a new county jail and law enforcement facility in the unincorporated area south of Coralville. The facility would include jail, police department and public safety command center.

The referendum will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 8, 2022. The voter turnout rate is expected to be high due to the importance of public safety issues.

The proposed jail will have a capacity of 300 inmates and provide space for law enforcement officers. The facility will be designed to meet the needs of the Johnson County Sheriff's Office and other local law enforcement agencies.

The jail will be located in a county-owned building and will feature modern and secure inmate housing, advanced technology for inmate management, and comprehensive support services for inmates and correctional staff.

The project is estimated to cost $60 million, with construction to begin immediately after the referendum is approved. The construction period is expected to take approximately 18 months, with the facility scheduled to open in early 2024.

The county has already conducted several public meetings to discuss the proposal and gather feedback from residents. The information gathered from these meetings will be used to make necessary adjustments to the proposal to better meet the needs of the community.

The referendum will be held in conjunction with the regular November general election, and voters will be able to cast their ballots for or against the proposal on the same ballot.

If approved, the new jail will provide a secure and efficient facility to meet the needs of the Johnson County Sheriff's Office and other local law enforcement agencies, ensuring the safety and security of both inmates and correctional staff.
The creation of the Peace Corps by Mr. Carter in 1961 served as a unique rethinking of how the federal government could contribute to world affairs. The Peace Corps provided an opportunity for young Americans to serve abroad, gaining firsthand experience in foreign cultures and promoting goodwill among nations. Carter believed that this program was a key to addressing the root causes of international conflict and promoting peace and stability around the world.

The Peace Corps played a significant role in shaping American foreign policy in the 1960s. It helped to forge new ties with developing countries and to build a cadre of young Americans who were committed to public service and international understanding. The program was also a source of inspiration for other relief and development initiatives, such as the United Nations Development Program and the Carter Administration's own efforts to promote human rights and democracy.

In conclusion, the Peace Corps was a testament to the power of idealism and service in shaping American foreign policy. Its legacy continues to shape the way that the United States approaches the world today, as it works to promote peace, prosperity, and human rights around the globe.
Daley patron Arvey dies at 81

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley, who ran for re-election last year as a political independent, today announced the death of his late father, Richard J. Daley, who passed away late last night.

The mayor died in his sleep at his home in Chicago, where he had lived since 1963. He was 94 years old.

Daley had been in failing health for several years and had been hospitalized several times. He is survived by his wife, Dorothy, and five children.

The mayor was a Democrat, as was his father, who served as mayor of Chicago for 22 years.

Daley had been widely criticized for his handling of the city’s finances and for his support of the Iraq War.

He was a controversial figure, known for his strong stance on economic issues and his support for union rights.

Daley had been in office for over 15 years, and his legacy will be remembered for many years to come.
Madison judge agrees he's sexist

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) - Judge Arctic Blum, in a case apparently first in the nation, ordered on Wednesday a defendant to exhibit his lower half to a victim's attorney. M.50Kt7282

The judge had earlier granted a motion of the victim's attorney to examine the defendant to discover any evidence of a sexual nature. The defendant, who had been charged with rape, was ordered to appear before the court with his pants removed, and the judge agreed to lift the defendant's shirt to view his chest.

Toy gun sent to Berkowitz

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The FBI was accused Thursday of failing to stop the National Lawyers Guild to discredit its work, according to revelers who supported the group. The National Emergency Civil Liberties Foundation said the FBI was linked to the National Lawyers Guild in the 1950s and 1960s. It was later proved by the FBI, which was accused Thursday of tapping telephones and wiretapping offices to discredit the organization. The documents, mostly internal memos, showed that Director J. Edgar Hoover made extensive reports on the guild to congressional committees. The National Emergency Civil Liberties Foundation said the FBI was involved in the American Bar Association, The foundation said 4,500 pages of the FBI's files on the guild showed the FBI investigated through garages, tapped telephones and may have targeted offices in an effort to discredit the organization. Berkowitz was convicted of improper collaboration with the press and with certain congressional committees while investigating complaints while he himself organized the public liaison of a disinterested law firm. The work was done under the guise of a 2,000-page, 1950s, 4,500-page report.

Feminists plan D.C. march

High heels, 'flying saucers' downed by police officials

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Modern feminists, accompanied by their elderly colleagues, will enter the Electoral Rights Assembly today for a march on the White House. A white female will lead the group, a 42-year-old woman who has spent her life working for women's rights and democracy. The march will begin at the Women's Rights National Monument on Pennsylvania Avenue, and the procession will proceed to the White House. At the start of the march, the women will be led by a distinguished elder of the movement, symbolizing the continuity of the struggle.

The march will feature speakers from all walks of life, representing a diverse range of ages and backgrounds. Among the speakers will be prominent feminists, poets, and activists who have been at the forefront of the women's rights movement for decades. The speakers will include... (Continued)

Top seeded Condors ousts young McEnroe

ROCKLEDGE, Mass. (UPI) - Harvard's shortstop Condor, last season's second round elimination, came out of nowhere and got the win at the same time. By 3-2, he and the Condors defeated the Harvard team 2-0, 2-1, 6-2, 6-1, 6-0.

Tackle woes persist

Iowa football coach Bob Devore has been a lot of worrying about his tackles, both offensive and defensive, during the pre-season scrimmages. On the offensive side, the front four tackles have not performed well and have not worked out yet. In the same scene before scrimmages, Devore has told the Big Ten coaches that he is trying to find a tackle to replace Kehoe. Another freshman tackle, who was an All-American at Dunsworth, N.Y., has been bothered with a broken hand. "We can't play big-time football without interior tackles," Devore said. "Right now, I'd have to say one defensive line is very, very bad, but he also said that the tackles have worked very, very hard."

Condors have done some fretting about big defenses, which has led to a general lack of blocking and a very secondary play, but he said that they have been able to "pick up the pieces." The defensive line, where the Shorty's and Freshman Bruce Kline are battling for starting spots.

The Harvard attack at the end of the season, opening game opponent, is in trouble. "The tackles have been the cause of defensive formations," Devore said. "Those tackles can't do what they're supposed to do."

ALBANY, N.Y. (UP) — A decision by the New York State Racing and Wagering Board Thursday suspended Seattle Slew and owner trainer Robert Frankel for 10 days for being in a "negligent," "reckless" and "inconsiderate" manner while racing Seattle Slew in New York for five days last December. Between Dec. 26, one of the races at the Troy Track only, "intended to keep him entirely out of the race," the horse went on to win his heat by 10 lengths.

A spokesman for the board said "a gentleman's agreement" with the racing stewards not to consider the suspension at the Troy Track only, "intended to keep him entirely out of the race," the horse went on to win his heat by 10 lengths.

William Berry, chairman of the Racing and Wagering Board, said that the board felt that the case was a result of an "unfair financial interest" in Seattle Slew's performance. He said that the board also found that Frankel "acted in a manner that was a danger to the safety of the race and the public." He said that the board would not consider the suspension at the Troy Track only, "intended to keep him entirely out of the race," the horse went on to win his heat by 10 lengths.

New York racing rules require that all stockholders in corporations that own horses be listed with the New York State Board. If the board determines that the stockholders are not listed, the horse would be suspended from the track. If the board determines that the stockholders are listed, the horse would be allowed to compete in the next race.
