UI efforts journey far with voyager

BY RALPH FEINSTEIN
Staff Writer

The work of UI scientists and engineers will be widely recognized over the next few months, as Voyager I and Voyager II set off on a 13-year journey to the edge of the solar system. Voyager's launch on a mission of exploration to the outer planets of the solar system.

The two Voyager spacecraft are named for the Jules Verne novel In the Year One. Voyager I will fly by the planet Jupiter and Voyager II will fly by the planet Saturn. Voyager I will then continue on to Uranus and Neptune, while Voyager II will continue on to Pluto and the Kuiper Belt.

Resident voices mixed responses to coed living

By DEREKA CHURCHILL
Staff Writer

Men and women who live next door to each other on the UI campus often wonder about the effects that coed living has on their living situation. Some believe that coed living is a good way to meet new people, while others think it is a bad idea.

Barb Bacher and the people on the floor are a good example of this. Barb Bacher, a resident of the coed floor, said, "I love living on the floor, and it's been great to have the opportunity to meet new people." However, she also acknowledged that there have been some challenges, such as the need to adjust to the different personalities and lifestyles of the other residents on the floor.

The problem with coed living is that it can be difficult to find a roommate who has the same interests and values. Barb Bacher said that she has had to try several times to find a roommate who is compatible with her.

SALISBURY, RHODESIA (UPI) - Rhodesia Prime Minister Ian Smith has announced on national radio Wednesday that he is resigning from the government, effective immediately.

Smith said he has decided to step down in order to give the nation a new start. He said he believes that the country needs a new leader who can bring about peace and reconciliation.

Smith's resignation comes after months of tension and unrest in the country. The government has been accused of human rights abuses and corruption, and many people have demanded that Smith step down.

Smith's resignation is likely to have a significant impact on the political landscape in Rhodesia. It is unclear who will succeed him as prime minister, but there are several possible candidates, including Ian Smith's son, Dr. Ian Smith.

The resignation is likely to lead to increased diplomatic pressure on the government to respect human rights and to engage in a peaceful transition to a democratic government. It is also likely to lead to increased international attention on the country's political situation.

White House confirms Carter's free air rides

WASHINGTON (UPI) - White House officials confirmed Wednesday President Carter used corporate aircraft on campaign trips and announced all future presidential campaign flights will be hailed by air taxis and private companies.

The officials said the decision was made by Carter "to promote the public's confidence in his candidacy and to reassure Americans that he is willing to sacrifice to serve the public interest." Carter also said he was "very grateful to all the people who have offered their personal and corporate aircraft" in support of his campaign.

The decision follows a series of reports that Carter was using corporate aircraft on campaign trips, including one report that he was planning to use a private jet for a trip to California.

Carter's campaign said the use of corporate aircraft was a "reasonable and practical" way to travel during the campaign, and that the campaign was "trying to maximize the use of personal aircraft and minimize the use of corporate aircraft." The campaign also said it was "exploring other alternatives" to using corporate aircraft on campaign trips.

The move is likely to lead to increased criticism from some Republicans, who have accused Carter of using corporate aircraft for personal gain. However, the move is likely to be welcomed by supporters of Carter, who have long been concerned about the use of corporate aircraft on campaign trips.

Lance fends off senators, 2-1 averse public mail

By United Press International

Budget Director Bert Lance Monday fought off attempts to force his resignation as head of the department, defeating efforts by senators to bar him from future budget posts.

The senators had threatened to bar Lance from future budget posts because of his role in the Watergate scandal. However, they were unable to muster the necessary votes to force his resignation.

Lance had been under pressure to resign since the Watergate scandal broke in 1973. However, he had refused to resign, saying that he was innocent of any wrongdoing.

The senators had wanted Lance to resign because they believed that he had been involved in the cover-up of the Watergate scandal. However, they were unable to prove their case.

Council authorizes land purchase for city park

BY TOM DJERIY
Staff Writer

Expansion of Hickory Hill Park is a step closer with the city council authorizing the purchase of a tract of land for the park. The council approved the purchase of a parcel of land for $30,000. The purchase will allow the city to expand the park by creating a new playground area.

The new playground will include swings and slides, and it will be accessible to people of all ages. The council also authorized the hiring of an architect to design the new playground. The architect will be responsible for creating a design that is both safe and enjoyable for everyone.

The city plans to break ground on the new playground this summer, with the goal of having it completed by the fall. The city hopes to attract more visitors to Hickory Hill Park, which is located in the heart of the city. The park currently serves as a popular destination for families and children.

The council also discussed the need for additional parking at the park, as the current parking lot is often full. The council agreed to look into the possibility of creating a new parking lot, and to explore other options for increasing parking capacity.

The council also approved the purchase of a parcel of land for another city park, located in the southwest corner of the city. The purchase will allow the city to expand the park by creating a new sports facility.

The new sports facility will include a soccer field, a baseball diamond, and a basketball court. The council also authorized the hiring of a contractor to design the new facility. The contractor will be responsible for creating a design that is both safe and enjoyable for everyone.

Whitney to announce governorship pursuit

DESTATE NEWS (UP) — Former Democratic State Chairman Whitney McCormally said yesterday he plans to seek the Democratic nomination for governor at a news conference on Monday. Leaked cables from the Democratic County Board of Supervisors who have been conspiring against Whitney throughout the summer, indicate Whitney will most likely announce his candidacy in a news conference on Tuesday.

The announcement will be made at 9 a.m. on Monday, Whitney said. He will be accompanied by a large group of Democratic leaders who are expected to make the announcement at a news conference in Des Moines.

McCormally believes he can make a difference in Iowa's political landscape. "We need a strong, progressive voice in the statehouse," he said. "I'm the one to bring that vision to life." McCormally's campaign is expected to be well-funded, with the backing of a number of influential state Democrats.

The race for governor is expected to be one of the closest in Iowa history, with a number of candidates jockeying for position. McCormally's entry into the race is seen as a significant challenge to incumbent Governor John Kitzhaber, who is seeking re-election.

Publisher turns over Iowa inmate's letters

BURLINGTON (UPI) — Burlington Free Press publisher John McDonald, who was recently involved in a scandal over letters written by an inmate, turned over the letters to the Iowa Department of Corrections on Wednesday.

McDonald said he turned over the letters to ensure that they are properly handled and that the inmate's rights are maintained. The letters are expected to be reviewed by a team of lawyers and correctional officers.

The inmate, who is serving time for assault, had written a series of letters to the publisher expressing his dissatisfaction with the prison system and his desire to be released.

Haldeman contracts columnist

LAMPONG, CAMBODIA — Robert Shuckrow, a correspondent for the World Psychiatric Association, has been hired to write a column for the Iowa City press. Shuckrow is a noted psychiatrist and has written extensively on mental health issues.

"I am honored to be a part of the Latino community," Shuckrow said. "I believe in the importance of mental health awareness and I am excited to bring this perspective to the public.

Shuckrow's column will focus on issues related to mental health and will provide a platform for discussion and education.

The economics of college: What study is marketable?

by Jennifer Rang
Special to the Daily Iowan

Deciding what to do with your professional life can be as difficult as choosing the right major in college. The earlier your training, the easier it is to make a critical choice about the future of your career. The most obvious choices are numerous. Engaging in a personal, unpredictable interest in college may be entirely possible until well after you graduate. Learning about a subject such as nursing or pharmacology, which requires a high level of study and is marketable, is important to have by the financial security the student enjoys.

Nastase, Vilas in easy Open wins

Argentino's Guillermo Vilas was threat here for the Sources' titles Wednesday at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships after defeating his-round opponent Manuel Santur. 6-4, 6-4.

Forest Hills N.Y. (UPI) - Sources' the Santur, who vowed a year ago never to play on a U.S. Open court back Wednesday in hopes of becoming a three-time champion, served to the Amsteream Journal Sunday by Vilas, who predicts the No. 1's Grand Finals against the No. 2's Grand Finals this year.

Sanchez, in a one-day exhibition match, was defeated in two sets by Vilas and Santur, who combined for a perfect 8-0 score in the first set and appeared in perfect condition as he began his quest to become the U.S. Open champion.

Sanchez needed a Saw to win his third career title, the first since he won the 1972 U.S. Open.

Corso foresees success — logically.

BY STEVE NEMETH

Indiana Sports Editor

"The first year we win, we're going to be no. 1. That's the way we've always been. We're not going to be a top team, a No. 1 team."

With the complete honesty of a coach who has worked his butt off to build a team, Indiana Coach Donnell "Doc" Corso explains why his Hoosier team appears headed for the bottom instead of the top of the Big Ten.

In 1986, after the Hoosiers finished in the basement, the Associated Press predicted that the Hoosiers would finish in the middle of the pack.

"I don't think we're going to be up on an automatic victory in that league," Corso said. "We're just better where we're at now."

The 1986 season was filled with losses, but this season the Hoosiers are predicting a Top 10 finish. And why not? The Hoosiers have the talent to make it happen.

"We're not going to be a top team," Corso admitted. "We're just better where we're at now."

After a year of work, the Hoosiers are ready to take on the Big Ten. And what is Corso's dream? A "GREAT" Pork Chop.

"We're going to win," Corso said. "We're going to win some big games this year."
