Cuba to loosen up emigration policies in goodwill gesture

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The United States and Cuba have agreed to extend diplomatic relations Thursday with reciprocal visits in Washington and Cuba for the first time in nearly 17 years Thursday. The move is expected to help ease tensions between the two countries.

According to the agreement, the United States will lift restrictions on travel to Cuba and allow American citizens to visit the island for the first time in nearly two decades.

The announcement comes as part of a larger effort to improve relations between the two countries, which have been strained for decades due to political differences.

The United States has long considered Cuba a hostile nation, and has maintained a trade embargo against the island nation for over 60 years.

The Cuban government, on the other hand, has accused the United States of supporting anti-Cuban groups and has refused to lift the embargo.

However, in recent years, there has been a growing desire for better relations between the two countries, with some calling for an end to the trade embargo.

U.S. Grand jury indicts Park

A federal grand jury has issued an indictment against former South Korean leader Park Chung Hee, charging him with murder and other crimes.

The indictment alleges that Park ordered the murder of several political opponents and dissidents during his time in power.

The charges include murder, conspiracy, and obstruction of justice.

Park is the second South Korean president to be indicted in recent years, following his predecessor, Roh Moo-hyun, who was also accused of murder.

Tenant ordinance footlo可知 weak

If the City Council amends Iowa's home rule charter to give the city council the power of eminent domain, it could open the way for the ordinance to be challenged. People's House when Iowa City had it. They found it to be a "good thing." The ordinance would provide the city with the power to require landlords to make repairs and maintain the properties. The ordinance was introduced by the county Board of Alcoholics to prevent the sale of alcohol in the area. The ordinance would require landlords to maintain the properties in a good condition and to provide tenants with a safe and healthy living environment.

The ordinance could then appear on the Nov. 8 ballot. It would be eligible for the initiative procedure (citizen petitioning), the city charter specifies. It is not clear how much support the petition would gain in the community.

The council has voted to extend the deadline for the petition to July 13. This decision was made after the council was informed of the situation by the county Board of Alcoholics.

To correct the problem the council Tuesday gave the first of three readings to an ordinance that would allow the city to take direct action against landlords who fail to make repairs and maintain the properties.

The council is expected to pass the ordinance Wednesday. The ordinance would allow the city to take direct action against landlords who fail to make repairs and maintain the properties.

Panamanian burns himself in protest of treaty

By KEVIN BLANK

All students have had ideas, half-baked at best, for the government. Some have written them up on paper, some have put them into action, and a few have turned them into a reality. In the case of the Panamanian government and American owners of the Panama Canal, the latter has been the case.

A document read near his home, he launched into a violent tirade. The Panamanian Liberation Liberation, Commanded by Feldick, according to the Panamanian government, has sent several messages to the United States, requesting the return of the canal.

"They are not going to let him leave, but I will," said Feldick. "I tell the United States to get the canal back or we will start a war against them." He continued to shout and swear,issional until he was arrested by the police.

Feldick, a television reporter for a local station, was arrested after the incident. When asked why he had done it, Feldick replied, "I am doing it for my country."

It is not known if this incident will lead to any changes in the ongoing conflict between the United States and Panama.

Anglo-American peace planPrecudes SALT status; SLS, PAT funding

By JERRY ROBERTS

The American people have been hearing about the Anglo-American peace plan for several years. In the current political climate, the plan has received a lot of press coverage. However, there is little public understanding of what the plan involves.

The Anglo-American peace plan is a joint effort to reduce nuclear arms between the United States and the United Kingdom. The plan includes agreements on the reduction of both offensive and defensive nuclear weapons.

The Anglo-American peace plan has faced opposition from both political parties. Some argue that the plan is a waste of resources, while others believe it is necessary to reduce the risk of nuclear war.

The plan has also faced delays due to disagreements over the implementation of the agreements. Despite these challenges, the Anglo-American peace plan remains a significant effort in the pursuit of nuclear disarmament.

Mysterious virus stalks UI campus

By KEVIN BLANK

The University of Iowa has been hit by a mysterious virus that has caused an outbreak of illnesses among students. The virus, which has been named "UI Virus," has been spreading rapidly on campus.

Symptoms of UI Virus include fever, flu-like symptoms, and fatigue. Many students have reported feeling weak and unable to participate in their usual activities.

UI Virus is believed to be transmitted through the air, and it is difficult to prevent its spread. The university has implemented measures to reduce the risk of transmission, such as mandatory mask-wearing and increased cleaning of common areas.

UI Virus has caused concern among students and faculty. Some are concerned about the potential for the virus to spread outside of the university community. The university is working closely with health officials to monitor the situation and provide guidance to the community.

Nuclear jingoism

With the war now and each round of a bombing, the Union of South Africa has shown a marked increase of system that it "will frollly" will not sacrifice whatever purposes it may choose, of her territorial or political. We hardly expect to see a similar improvement in South Africa has had the technological wherewithal for some time to unilaterally engage in nuclear weapons, but it gave outward signs of such construction until recently. High-altitude nuclear testing, which has been going on in the desert of the South African Republic, has been described as critical to South Africa's ability to control the effects of a nuclear explosion. However, the absence of any official statement from South Africa about the significance of this testing makes it difficult to discern its true purpose.

It is not clear to us that this behavior will be conducted in the future, however. While South African foreign Minister Dr. Verwoerd notably stated that South Africa supports the "view of non-military uses of nuclear energy," he did not specifically rule out the possibility of using nuclear weapons in the future. This statement suggests that South Africa may be planning to develop its own nuclear weapons program.

In any case, it is clear that South Africa does not want to be left behind in the nuclear arms race. It is possible that South Africa may have already tested a nuclear device, as suggested by the recent activities of the South African nuclear industry.

To the Editor:

On Tuesday, Sept. 9, I will be unable to attend the meeting of the People's Peace Movement at the site of the Kent State murders. After the meeting, I plan to return to my home and proceed to the site of the Kent State murders. I have been informed that the meeting will be attended by thousands of people, and I would like to make sure that my presence, if possible, will be an expression of solidarity and support for those who have been killed or injured.

I have attended many such meetings before, and I know that they can be emotionally charged. However, I believe that it is important for me to be there, to express my solidarity with those who have been affected by the tragedy at Kent State.

I hope that you will understand my decision, and I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

II. " Downsizing": challenge to import auto market

DEARMH, Mich. (UPI) — Henry Ford II said Thursday it's regrettable the Ford Motor Co. will recall 5,000 vehicles built during the last two years and the company doesn't want to do it.

The delay ultimately led to one of the largest recall decisions on record, involving 500,000 vehicles. The company said it's "absolutely" the right thing to do.

"It's regrettable that we are forced to make this recall," Ford said.

The decision to recall the vehicles comes as the company faces growing pressure to address safety concerns.

The recall affects certain Ford and Lincoln vehicles, including the 1978 model year Ford F-150 pickup, which was recalled to fix a issue with the rear seatbelt system.

The recall also affects certain Ford Fusion models, which were recalled to fix an issue with the rear seatbelt system.

Sheriff Gary Hughes: married to department

Jail Work

Proud to be the Johnson County Coroner in the building that houses the county jail, has been the duty of Sheriff Gary Hughes since 1972. Hughes, 49, of Iowa City, is one of only two sheriffs in the country who also serve as county coroners.

Hughes believes the job is a unique position, offering a variety of opportunities to work in various stages of law enforcement, and on the creation of a collection of statistics that provides invaluable information and assistance.

Hughes says his duties include serving arrest warrants in the Johnson County jail. In 1972, the department was responsible for serving arrest warrants in the county, with the exception of those with warrants in the city of Iowa City. The sheriff's department also had to do with the licensing of the building and in the past, Hughes said, there was a bond issue for $1.9 million to build a new jail.

Hughes has been an important figure in Iowa City politics since 1972. Hughes was elected to the state legislature in 1972 and has been a member of the Iowa House of Representatives since then.

Hughes has worked with the state legislature to make changes in the law that affect the sheriff's department. Hughes said he has been the leader in the state legislature in the past, and he has been able to bring the state legislature to support the sheriff's department.

Man regains sight:
calls it a ‘miracle’

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (UPI) — James Allen says everything he looks at is just a "blurry haze." The New York City resident, who is blind, went to Council Bluffs, this week to see the eye doctors.

The first thing Allen saw when he removed his bandages was his doctor and his wife, Fern. "I looked at the room and I saw Fern," he said. Now, he says he can look at the trees and the sun even over the hedges.

Allen said the best thing he got out of the operation was his sight. "I can look at the trees and the sun even over the hedges." He said the best thing he got out of the operation was his sight. "I can look at the trees and the sun even over the hedges.

The operation was performed by Dr. Paul R. Trible, a neurologist at the University of Iowa Hospital.

Allen said he was grateful to have his sight back. "I was able to see the leaves on the trees, the flowers, the birds in the bushes, and the people on the street," he said. "I can now see the world in all its beauty."
Saudi Arabia in Ice for Age if conference at ISU fruitful

An enthusiastic crowd has gathered at the University of Illinois to witness the opening session of the First International Conference on Ice, which is sponsored by the National Science Foundation and the American Geophysical Union. The conference will focus on the scientific and practical aspects of the use of ice in engineering, agriculture, and other fields.

Arctic life and culture

While the conference is centered on the scientific aspects of ice, there is also an emphasis on the cultural and historical significance of the Arctic region. Many of the participants are from countries with a history of Arctic exploration, such as Russia, Norway, and Canada.

The conference will also feature keynote addresses from leading experts in the field, including Dr. Jane Goodall, whose work on chimpanzees has been widely recognized.

The conference will conclude on June 15th with a gala dinner, where attendees will have the opportunity to network and socialize with other experts in the field.

The organizers of the conference express their gratitude to the sponsors for their generous support and look forward to an productive conference.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) - A tenacious and tenacious in-game habit, Evert was described as being normally fearless. She usually faces her biggest test Monday at KRNA 7 p.m. against Borg's Jolla, an ophthalmologist named Richard Pale and a transsexual named Forest City, Iowa.

It was during the first set, however, that Evert showed her resilience. After being down 5-3, she fought back to take the next point. Then, she held off another break point at 6-3 to take the set 7-5.

Evert's serve was her biggest weapon, hitting winners and forcing her opponent to return. She finished with a total of 26 aces, the most in any singles final at the U.S. Open in 20 years.

The U.S. Open, held at Forest Hills, is one of the oldest tennis tournaments in the world. It features the best players from around the globe, including Evert, who is seven-time champion and a two-time Olympic gold medalist.

North denied reports that he was helping to plot the downfall of Denmark's Enterprise. But he said he had been working with the American team to prepare for the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles.

North's efforts are being used for the American challenges, but some doubt reports he was helping to plot the downfall of Denmark's Enterprise. He did not mean to die here. He had no difficulty winning.

Braves send Dantley to Pacers for Knight

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — In a surprise move Thursday, the Buffalo Braves traded forward Adباe Dantley, unanimously chosen as Rookie of the Year by the NBA, to the Indiana Pacers for high-scoring forward Billy Knight.

Dantley was the third pick in the 1972 college draft and had been considered one of the stars of the club, along with guard Frank Johnson, picked first. The other two picks were Buffalo's second-round choice.

Basketball analysts from both teams were stunned when Bills' President Bob Knight revealed his intentions.

In explaining the trade, Mr. Knight said, "We feel that we have better chances of winning in the future if we trade players who are going to play for other teams."
Nothing fancy
Michigan plows straight ahead

Editors note: This is the fifth in a series of Big Ten previews.
By Schembechler, as always, thinking in terms of Michigan's strengths.
For instance, a story I've just heard about Schembechler's offensive philosophy is that when he has a choice, it's Fencing in place of bullfighting. In a fencing ring, if you get away from the center of the ring, you lose to a Brahma Bull. For years, up to a few years ago, Schembechler's offensive line operated that way. If they could get away from the center, they'd be all right. If not, they were the equivalent of a香牛.

Nothing much to worry about with Schembechler's offense, but if the season's attack looks anything like last year's attack, it's either a coincidence, or inexperience, or both.

On The Line

with the Big Ten sports staff

You find it's true once again for the Wolverines. It's true once again for the Line. For those of you who have been forgotten or just don't know, the Line is a weekly column in which members of the Big Ten sports staffs contribute to the specialty chapters. The column is always under the guidance of Tim McLoughlin's First Avenue Amusing Facts.

A week of waiting, a week of worrying. You stand at the water's edge with a cold spot of beer in hand. And now for the router which must serve as your guide to the Big Ten. It's the round-up of the week's U.S. Amateur action.

Yes, the College Football Bowl Guide is there to help you, as is the guide designated "Elephant," which ordinarily is a winner and predicts a score. If you put in your address, room and your entry (one entry per person) through the grape or u.s. mail by 11:30 a.m. today to the Detroit News, 2815
