Carter energy ‘ace’ trumped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee Thursday put the White House on notice that it may oppose Carter’s efforts to ensure passage of the controversial Three Mile Island reorganization bill—provided he does not agree to their conditions.

The committee, which has the power to cut off funds for a presidential program, said it would seek to postpone passage of the bill—perhaps indefinitely—unless Carter agrees to their demands.

The demands include a provision to delay the bill for six months unless Carter agrees to a “true” reorganization of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The committee also wants to see aJanuary 1 deadline for Carter to make a decision on the reorganization, and it wants to see a “true” reorganization of the commission.

The White House has not responded to the committee’s demands, and it is not clear whether Carter will agree to them.

The bill, which is designed to provide a new structure for the commission, has been controversial, with many senators and members of the public opposed to its provisions.

Erdahl questions Selzer's bias

BY STEVE TRACY  Editor

City Council candidate Donald Erdahl is hoping to turn the 1983-84 election into an ideological battle, which he said is necessary for a better future.

Erdahl feels his stand on many city issues is a clear contrast to that of Robert B. Apperson, current incumbent who's running for re-election.

Erdahl says his approach differences issue-by-issue, so it's a contrast with the councilor rather than as a contrast with the city's citizens.

"Man (probably) has been on the council about 10 years - most of his decisions have been opposed from the start," said Erdahl. "He doesn't believe in the people. He believes in the voice of the businessmen and voices of big with a commercial interest.

"In the presidency of the council, and voted against city regulations of 10 year and Hobbs Hill park, a move that would have stopped development of a housing subdivision, and against the stormwater management program to prevent flooding of Ralston Park because it was a commercial interest. Erdahl says his stand on many city issues is a clear contrast to that of Robert B. Apperson, current incumbent who's running for re-election.

Carter grants Cordero humanitarian clemency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter announced Monday that 276 Cordero, a Peruvian prisoner, will be released on humanitarian grounds.

Cordero, a native of Peru, was imprisoned in the United States for shooting and murder.

The President, announcing his decision, said that the granting of such humanitarian grounds "is a frequent and necessary part of our foreign policy.

"The act of granting humanitarian grounds for the liberation of a prisoner is one of the most difficult acts that a President can make," the President said.

Cordero, who has been in prison for more than 10 years,

"is an example of how our foreign policy can be used to help those who are in need," the President added.

The President said that the granting of humanitarian grounds is a "decisive" step in the process of freeing prisoners.

"It is hoped that the granting of humanitarian grounds will be the beginning of a new era of freedom for prisoners," the President said.

Cordero has been in prison for more than 10 years and has been denied parole.

Carter asks $1 billion for public media budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Jimmy Carter Thursday asked Congress to provide $1 billion to strengthen and expand the public broadcast system. Responding to a recommendation of the U.S. Commission on Public Broadcasting, the president proposed that $500 million of the money be used to establish a Public Broadcasting Service and National Public Radio. The rest would be to purchase new equipment for existing stations and to support public television and radio programming.

Carter said the request was "a necessary step to strengthen and expand the public's voice." The president said the public broadcast system had "been overwhelmed" by the "dramatic and continuing changes in the electronic media," and it was "essential that we make this investment." He said the money would be used to purchase equipment for existing stations and to support public television and radio programming.

"The public broadcast system is a vital part of our national culture," Carter said. "It is a driving force for change and a vital part of our nation's cultural heritage. It is a critical part of our national culture and it is essential that we make this investment." He said the money would be used to purchase new equipment for existing stations and to support public television and radio programming.

"We are at a critical juncture in the history of our country," Carter said. "We have a unique opportunity to strengthen and expand the public broadcast system and to provide a voice for the people of this nation." He said the money would be used to purchase new equipment for existing stations and to support public television and radio programming.

Brown to press for missile development

Carter stresses U.S. not favoring Arabs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Carter's advice to the Israeli government was "nothing," President Carter said Friday when asked if he thought it was likely the Israelis and Arabs would achieve a compromise on the joint development of the MX missile system.

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown has decided to go ahead with ballistic development of the MX missile system, a Pentagon spokesman said Thursday, indicating the decision was influenced by pressure from Congress to go ahead with a military strategy.

In a news conference shortly after taking office last January, Carter said the U.S. would agree to play any role in the talks, that would be a very important step for us to join in those talks, and I would be very pleased to do that. But I think the best way for us to approach that is to try to develop a missile of our own.

Defense sources said Brown made a preliminary decision, despite concerns raised by some critics, that the MX must go ahead. The MX system was developed and tested in the 1970s by the Strategic Defense Initiative Office, which was established in 1983.

The MX missile, a maneuverable missile now operational in the United States, can be launched from a submarine or from land. It can be launched from a submarine or from land.

Women fight sadistic albums

By VALENTINE RUSSELL

A young woman was found dead in the elevator of a building in Boston, and police are investigating the possibility of murder. The woman's body was later identified as a member of the women's rights movement, and police are continuing their investigation.

The field house is at the center of a controversy over the use of women's rights activists as cover models for popular magazines. The organizers of the event, which is sponsored by a subsidiary of Warner Communications, have come under fire for their decision to use the activists as cover girls.

The event is scheduled to take place on Saturday, and it is expected to draw a large crowd. The organizers have also announced that they will be offering a prize to the person who can identify the woman who died at the event.

The controversy has sparked a debate over the use of women's rights activists as cover girls, with some arguing that it is a form of censorship and others defending it as a way to bring attention to the issues they are fighting for.

In an interview, one of the activists said: "We want to use our platform to speak out against violence against women. It's important that we use our voices to make a change."

Joseph Brooks, who was commissioned for this photograph, says he got the shot for a "cute look". As Brooks himself points out, the image is a "tough one" to get right. The boy's face is turned away from the camera, his expression neutral. The lighting is soft, highlighting the boy's features without casting harsh shadows. The background is blurred, drawing attention to the subject. Overall, it's a striking image that conveys a sense of realism and authenticity.
Specter of U.S. liengers in Vietnam

The Vietnam war has left Saigon and all but one American fighter plane out of the country. The American Ambassador to Vietnam, Dr. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., has said that the U.S. will withdraw all Americans from the country by the end of the year.

Many Vietnamese people have been living in the country for years, and the American government has been trying to find a way to evacuate them. However, the Vietnamese people have been resistant to the idea of leaving their home country.

The American government has also been trying to negotiate with the Vietnamese government to reach a peaceful solution. However, there have been no signs of progress in the talks.

The situation in Vietnam is very complex, and it is difficult to predict what will happen in the future. However, it is clear that the U.S. will continue to try to find a way to end the war and bring peace to the region.
