FBI files' release costly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI says the release of 40,000 pages of files from the JFK assassination investigation could cost an estimated $643,000, including $297,000 in overtime pay.

The cost estimate includes salaries of clerical personnel who searched for the documents in the files, which are housed at the FBI headquarters in Washington.

The FBI said it has received 186 requests so far for the documents from researchers around the world. The agency says it has received 142 requests for Freedom of Information Act by about Wednesday, and the rest in January.

The cost estimate is based on an average pay level of $21.14 per hour, which is about $1,268,384 for a total of 604 hours of overtime pay, the FBI said.

The cost estimate does not include the cost of producing copies of the documents for requesters who want to buy them. The FBI said it costs about $2.8 million to produce copies for requesters who want to buy them.

Ballet delights half-house full

by Judy Wiltzer

The Joffrey Ballet will close their tour in Iowa City at the State Theatre at 8 p.m. tonight and tomorrow. The group, which has been playing to packed houses in Chicago and throughout the Midwest, has played to a number of sold-out houses in recent seasons. The ballet has been described as “a company of first-rate artists,” and its current tour is no exception.

The ballet program includes three works, with choreography by Eliot Feld and music by Prokofiev. The first work, “The Consul,” is a ballet based on the play by Eugene Ionesco, with music by Prokofiev. The second work, “Night Long,” is a ballet based on the play by Samuel Beckett, with music by Prokofiev. The third work, “The Sleepers,” is a ballet based on the play by Henrik Ibsen, with music by Prokofiev.

FAIR 92 The group has been praised for its “unified sections. He hears music phrases out of simple settings. He works into long-limbed freedom, then into the nearest labors, then into the nearest thoughts. Impressionistic, tender, his mood was a hushed, almost somber mood. It is a monthly feature that will outline our plan for the month of May, featuring a variety of ballets, including a new work by Eliot Feld and music by Prokofiev. The group has been described as “a company of first-rate artists,” and its current tour is no exception.

Late rally lets Hawks escape

By RICH GREENE

The Iowa Hawkeyes escaped with their first victory of the season Saturday night despite a lack of execution that brought tears to the faces of many fans.

Iowa leads the nation in scoring chance and offensive rebounding, but its performance was more than enough to win the game. "We've got a little bit of offense and actually threatened to pull an upset," said Lute Olson in assessing his team's performance. "It wasn't the scoreboard clock when the Matadors' defense was hoping for the final basket. Clay Nichols had the last chance to ice the game at 66-63, but instead of making the two free throws to ice the game at 68-63, he missed both, and Iowa went on to win 66-63.

"I think it was a case of not having enough people to play," said Olson. Late rally lets Hawks escape
