Instructors might get unemployment benefits

UNION BOTHELL (AP) - An unprecedented decision awarding 21 former University of Washington instructors unemployment compensation has a_split the state Employment Security Department.

Judge John W. Herbert, who signed an order awarding unemployment compensation to 21 former instructors, called for hearing to be held.

The order awarded unemployment compensation to 21 former instructors

The court order follows a hearing in which Herbert ruled the University of Washington's agreement with the instructors was invalid.

South Bend, Ind. - The University of Washington's agreement with the instructors was invalid, Herbert said, because it violated the state's unemployment compensation law.

Brown: Soviet concessions could slow down neutron bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Defense Secretary Brown said Monday the Soviet Union faces a real choice: build a so-called neutron bomb or face an arms control agreement.

Brown told the Senate Armed Services Committee that the Soviet Union has a choice: build a so-called neutron bomb or face an arms control agreement.

Brown said the Soviet Union has a choice: build a so-called neutron bomb or face an arms control agreement.

The neutron bomb, which has the effect of a low-yield hydrogen bomb, is considered a weapon of mass destruction.

Merit health bill jeopardized

By JERRY ROBERTS

A bill originating in the State Senate's Health and Welfare Committee that would provide for a state-run program to provide health care coverage to needy adults has moved one step closer to becoming law. The bill, sponsored by Deputy Senate President Stanley Hoover, sponsor of the Senate's own health care reform bill, passed a 21-13 vote in the Senate on Wednesday. The bill now goes to the House for consideration.

The bill has been criticized by Republicans and some in the medical community for its potential impact on the state's ability to provide quality health care.

However, the bill's supporters argue that it is necessary to ensure that all adults in the state have access to affordable health care.

Van Nostrand: deregulate oil

By A.J. Hurrah

As has been reported by the Des Moines Register, the United States has lost its ability to control the energy market due to the recent deregulation of oil prices. The result is that prices have increased dramatically, leading to a decrease in the value of the dollar.

"It's a matter of losing control," said Van Nostrand. "We've lost our ability to manage the energy market, and this has a direct impact on the value of the dollar.

"We've made a mistake," he continued. "The energy market is not well controlled, and this is a critical issue for our economy."

Quaker Oats bias charged

"We've been charged with bias," said Doderer, "but we've been told to do our job.

"We've tried to be fair," he added. "We've interviewed both sides of the issue, and we've presented the information as accurately as possible."

Doderer: legislators fear sex

Sex môion 1975 was "well". In 1975, there were no laws against sexual discrimination. Today, there are many laws that protect women's rights.

"Sex is no longer a matter of concern," said Doderer. "We've made progress, and we're not going to let anyone take that away from us."

Mountaineering

Mountaineering is a fundamental discipline that has been developed over centuries. It requires skill, science, and art. It is a unique discipline that has the potential to unlock new horizons.

"Mountaineering is the ultimate expression of human will," said Steinbeck. "It is a discipline that requires the utmost in physical and mental preparedness."

"Mountaineering is a discipline that requires the utmost in physical and mental preparedness."
Women

The United States has the role of the top job in the world, at least as far as pay and prestige are concerned. The United States, being the most powerful and richest country in the world, has a huge influence on the rest of the world. As a result, it is important for women to strive for equality and empowerment. Women face many challenges, such as gender discrimination and societal expectations. It is important for women to fight against these challenges and work towards a more equal society.

Employees

Today's business is very chaotic and demands a lot of hard work. It is important to have strong work ethics and a positive attitude. It is also important to be able to work well with others and to manage time effectively. In order to be successful, one must be able to adapt to change and be flexible. It is important to stay up to date with the latest technologies and to be open to learning new skills.

Kipling's poem describes the men of the British Empire as "the laggards and the willing." It is interesting to note that the men of the United States are not as willing as the men of the British Empire. However, it is important to remember that Kipling's poem was written in the early 1900s, and times have changed since then.

For more than a decade, the concept of the House of Representatives has been under attack from both sides of the political spectrum. However, the concept of the House of Representatives is still very important, and it is important to preserve it. It is important to remember that the House of Representatives is a place where people can come together and work towards a common goal.

Administration: tuition tax credit is unconstitutional

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Department of Justice announced that it is unconstitutional for a state to tax revenues generated by increased sales of federal bonds.

The administration's announcement is in response to a lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the state's tax law.

In a letter to states and municipalities, Attorney General William Barr stated that the tax law is unconstitutional and that it will be rescinded.

Colleagues and influential friends have written to the administration about the issues involved in the case and have offered their support.

Tax credits and deductions for college are unconstitutional, according to the administration.

'Tax credits for college tuition will have to be reconsidered by the state in order to comply with the court's decision,' said Joanne Miller, a representative from the state's Department of Revenue.

'Including the tax credit as a federal tax credit was unconstitutional,' said Miller.

The administrative's own bill requires the state to examine the need for state funds for grants to locally funded projects.'

Jean Luc-Ponty: lymphomatous, bombastic, uniformly excellent

The violin has uniquely found more than a worthy accomplice in Jean Luc-Ponty. Many people are not aware that he is a jazz violinist. And yet the violin has been adapted to jazz in numerous expert's masterpieces readily for the past 20 years. The accomplished old-dawg Jean Luc-Ponty has been playing swing jazz on the violin. But in the “It’s a wonderful world” section, Ponty brought his hand to Raveler Auditorium Friday night.

At 7:30 p.m., Thursday, the Yard spokesman Bob Johnston said, “It’s a wonderful world” and people, each of us full of enthusiasm. And Ponty presented us with everything that this stage could not have told us about. Said Adam. George Anderson, chief of naval operations, said, “It’s a wonderful world”.

A near hundred people came to see the violin and see what music could be expected from it. The concert from 7:30 p.m. was luscious.

Not only has Ponty been a Cellos player, playing swing jazz on the violin. But in the “It’s a wonderful world” section, Ponty brought his hand to Raveler Auditorium Friday night.

"Sea" characters wooden

by DENNIS BACH

From the sea The Sea began Saturday night — with an appropriately metallic boom — its cast draping itself across the stage. Five minutes into the production, it paused mid-sentence, contemporary British to the time it finally overwhelmed the audience.

The idea, although it comes with a dressing, is presented as a metaphor for the contemporary British man. His finicky go-all with the acting company implies that he has no real impact or meaning for anyone other than himself and the audience.

Margaret in The Sea, so certain because they are perhaps more in the mind than in the plot. All the familiar comic conventions are reduced to a form of endlessly quivering and unnecessarily complex comic mechanization. People understand the play's artificiality and are therefore more interested in the actors; however, it is a slow and essentially melodramatic play. The Sea isn't really all that. It does work, however, to avoid being merely boring and pretentious.

The acting is as overdone as the play; and the characters are wooden and surrounded by mediocrities. "They can't act. ..", screamed Judith Zeiler as the tyrannical Mrs. Rafi. In and out of character itself, finally there: discipline and madness; despair vs. hope; sullen law and order and creative chaos; sanity vs. sexual warfare, and the pitiable evidences of class struggle, characters are presented skillfully and subtly for anyone in the audience.

The Sea isn't really at all bad. It is a work that is stressed so heavily they are a better audience. There are exceptions, however, for the acting. Simkins, who almost stole the show, is as overdone as the play. His character credibility was never truly from April 12-15.
