Brigades attorney: Momo still alive

"My counsel said in letters, don't give up," said Momo attorney Sanford L. Sanger. "I was asked to respond to charges that he was dead." Momo's attorney said the 17-year-old Colombian Revolutionary Army brigadier was not killed in a 1976 ambush in New York City's East Harlem.

The attorney said Momo was captured and was being held in a Colombo prison. He said he had no idea where Momo was being held or whether he was alive.

Momo's attorney also said that Momo had been in contact with the U.S. government several times since his capture and that he had promised to return to the United States.

The attorney added that Momo had been found guilty of murder, assault, and robbery in a 1974 trial in New York City. He said Momo had been sentenced to life imprisonment.

A bill that would strip the Iowa Executive Council of its authority to approve employees under a proposed statewide employee-hiring and firing policy will be heard by the Personnel Committee in the Iowa Senate this afternoon, and Sen. John Hafner, D-Dubuque, said the funding this year compared with last year by the Associated Residence Halls surrendered control of all residence services for space on campus for the ARH. Heafner and Dan Dunham, members of the Board of Governors, said the funding for the Housing and Residence Services would provide most of the Department of Student Life's funding this year compared with last year by the Associated Residence Halls. Dunham, a member of the Board of Governors, said the funding would be accepted as a proposal, although he also expects objection from several groups.

A number of organizations had their requests on the 1982-83 budget cut back. The Iowa Senate's Education Committee, which oversees the college and university systems, said the funding would be accepted as a proposal, although he also expects objection from several groups.

The executive council, which sets the rates for residence hall services, recently reviewed the proposed rate increase from their present health plan and gave them under a state plan.

KRUI budget $9,812

by PAT WILSON

Pat Wilson, KRUI, the public broadcasting service of the University of Northern Iowa, has received its annual budget for 1982-83. KRUI's budget for this year includes $9,812, with $7,212 from the CAC, but Ed Hafner and Dan Dunham, members of the Board of Governors, said the funding for the Housing and Residence Services would provide most of the Department of Student Life's funding this year compared with last year by the Associated Residence Halls:

The proposed allocation does not go to the Associated Residence Halls for the following year. The Associated Residence Halls will have 25 percent of the budget, and the Associated Residence Halls have 52 percent. The Associated Residence Halls will have 25 percent of the budget, and the Associated Residence Halls have 52 percent.

The Associated Residence Halls is a non-profit organization that operates the volleyball-staging complex and is responsible for the residence hall system.

Tornado season to open to soon

by Paul Curtis

Spring thunderstorms do not come without warning, and the National Weather Service in Des Moines, as well as those in other areas, are monitoring the situation. They have issued a tornado watch for the area, and the public is advised to stay alert.

Tornadoes can travel at speeds of up to 320 miles per hour and can cause significant damage. The National Weather Service advises that people should be prepared to take shelter if a tornado warning is issued.

It is important to know the signs of a tornado. A tornado can be visible as a dark, rotating funnel cloud or as a wall of wind. It can also be heard as a loud, rumbling sound. If a tornado is approaching, the National Weather Service advises that people should seek shelter in a building or a small vehicle with a hard roof.

In the event of a tornado, it is important to know what to do. The National Weather Service advises that people should stay inside and take cover in the lowest level of a building, away from windows and outside walls. If a tornado is spotted indoors, the National Weather Service advises that people should stay near an inside wall and away from windows.

The National Weather Service also advises that people should have a plan in place for their family and household. They should have a designated safe room and a list of emergency contacts.

The National Weather Service also advises that people should have a supply of food and water, as well as a flashlight and battery-powered radio, in case of power outages.

The National Weather Service also advises that people should be aware of the risk of flash floods, which can occur in conjunction with tornadoes. They should stay informed of weather alerts and stay away fromflash flood waters.

In conclusion, the National Weather Service advises that people should be prepared for tornado season and take the necessary precautions to stay safe.

Whales and bears have been enjoying the Sticky Spots and Triple Cleats. The number of new arrivals seems to have slowed down, but the old favorites continue to delight the visitors. The Sticky Spots are often used as a test area for new equipment, and the Triple Cleats provide a challenge for the more experienced skiers.

Preventative Measures Against Sexual Assault

Condoms are highly effective in preventing pregnancy and sexually transmitted infections. However, they do not provide complete protection against sexual assault. Here are some preventive measures against sexual assault:

1. Be aware of your surroundings and stay alert.
2. Avoid drinking or taking drugs that can impair your ability to resist.
3. Trust your instincts and do not hesitate to seek help.
4. Use nonverbal signals to communicate your discomfort.
5. Be assertive and communicate your boundaries clearly.

Beyond the obvious musical talents of the band, Jackson Browne brought to his performance something that seems to lie at the heart of all great performers — the ability to create a holistic experience that transcends the confines of the music itself.

Browne walked onto the stage during Thursday evening's festivities — no dress rehearsal, no pretentious introductions. His entrance was as much a matter of style as substance. The cadence of his footfalls was as much as the sight of the chartreuse-colored, mesh gown that draped his body. Just as the sight of the chartreuse, mesh gown that draped his body, so too was the sight of the footfalls that preceded it a matter of style as much as substance.

He proceeded to the piano, took a seat, and began singing. The crowd was glued to his every word. It is easy to see why Browne has become such a versatile artist; his range and richness are one of the most astonishing attributes of his craft.

Harry Reems wants to shed his 'skin'

Reems is an actor who rose to fame in the late 1970s for his work in the adult entertainment industry, particularly due to a controversial obscenity trial in the United States. This article provides a detailed account of his life, career, and the impact of his obscenity conviction on his life. The text includes quotes from Reems himself, as well as from various sources discussing his case and the broader legal and cultural context of the 1970s. The article touches on themes of freedom of expression, the obscenity laws of that time, and the role of celebrity and public opinion in legal cases.

In the text, Reems reflects on his experiences with the law, his defensive moves, and the cultural and legal challenges he faced. He discusses the trial itself, the public response, and the long-term effects on his personal and professional life. The article also explores the broader implications of the case for the development of obscenity laws and the struggle for sexual liberation and expression.

The text contains quotes from interviews with Reems and other individuals involved in the case, including legal experts and cultural commentators. It also includes references to Reems' personal and professional developments after the trial, as well as his current status and ongoing activism in the cause of sexual freedom and rights.

Hawks split lose with Buckeyes, lose 'real thing'

by ROGER TILSTON
Special to The Blade

As is usual after the second spring football game, Iowa players and coaches couldn't wait to talk about the real thing.

"It's a good indication of what we might face," said defensive back Dickie Cooper after a 28-0 win over Ohio State. "Iowa jumped out to a 14-0 lead after two quarters, and then we picked up a little speed, but 28-0 is like zero this summer, and I'll be ready next fall."

"I'm finally getting my feet back on the ground and seeing the performance improvement my chances of seeing the field if the offense didn't improve," said defensive end Tim Lawrence, "the whole team had improved, and I'll be ready next fall."

"If the football gods are good to us, we'll be better than we were last year," said Iowa Coach Hayden Fry.

The Hawkeyes hope to repeat their performance against Ohio State next month when they face Nebraska.

As is usual after the second spring football game, Iowa players and coaches couldn't wait to talk about the real thing.

"It's a good indication of what we might face," said defensive back Dickie Cooper after a 28-0 win over Ohio State. "Iowa jumped out to a 14-0 lead after two quarters, and then we picked up a little speed, but 28-0 is like zero this summer, and I'll be ready next fall."

"I'm finally getting my feet back on the ground and seeing the performance improvement my chances of seeing the field if the offense didn't improve," said defensive end Tim Lawrence, "the whole team had improved, and I'll be ready next fall."

"If the football gods are good to us, we'll be better than we were last year," said Iowa Coach Hayden Fry.

The Hawkeyes hope to repeat their performance against Ohio State next month when they face Nebraska.
