Carter on arms sales package: all or nothing

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Carter and Thursday will begin his final test of his Middle East diplomacy, as he will face the problem of putting arms sales to Israel, Egypt and Jordan into a framework that would mean economic aid to the three countries. The package deal is expected to be a major test of the Middle East diplomacy of the Carter administration, as it is seen as a crucial test of the new policies of the United States toward the region. City Council favors housing code

The Iowa City Council voted to support the proposed Housing Opportunity Code, which was finally adopted by the council on Tuesday night.

The council waited a number of weeks before making a decision on the code and providing a written statement of position before it took its final vote.

The code replaces certain existing code conditions in buildings and provides new administrative procedures for enforcement.

Voters' opinion on the applicability of the code to single-family residences - and particularly to the city's de facto single-family residences - is important in the final decision.

In a meeting that involved discussions on the condition of single-family-housing problems, the council said city staff members have been instructed to include single-family-housing regulations in the proposed code.

Welsh said he has come to a decision about the city's situation of single-family-housing problems. The council's position is to support the code and to adopt it.

Welsh said the code is not a solution to the problem, but it will be the first step towards a solution.

"There are many different opinions on this issue," Welsh said. "I'm not sure if we have a problem or not, but we have to start somewhere."

Troops in Korea told to remain

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- The Pentagon plans to keep American and South Korean troops there through at least 1985, the end of President Carter's term, a Defense Department official said Tuesday. The official said the decision was made during a Defense Department review which concluded that the presence of American troops is essential to maintaining peace in the area.

The United States has more than 32,000 military personnel stationed in South Korea, which is a major contributor to the American military forces in the area. The presence of American troops is seen as a deterrent to any potential military aggression in the region.

The official said the decision was based on a careful review of the security situation in the area and the need to maintain a strong military presence. The decision was made in consultation with the South Korean government.

Court: Pension plans often unfair to women

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- The Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that employers must no longer discriminate against women in their pension plans.

The court's decision reversed a lower court's ruling that had ruled in favor of the employer. The court said that the employer's plan was not only discriminatory, but also violated the Equal Pay Act.

The court ruled that employers must treat men and women in the same way when it comes to pension plans. The decision is expected to have a significant impact on pension plans across the country.

Senate bumps full tax cut off budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- The Senate bump up the full tax cut off the budget proposal by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., on Tuesday. The senators were unable to reach agreement on a proposal that would have cut taxes by $4 billion.

The full tax cut proposal was not included in the Senate's budget proposal, which was presented by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. The budget proposal includes a number of tax cuts, including a $1 billion cut in the corporate income tax.

The Senate's budget proposal was not expected to pass in the House, and the full tax cut proposal is unlikely to be included in any final budget agreement.
Van Gogh’s ‘Self Portrait’ slashed by young painter

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands—A young painter slashed a long canvas of Vincent van Gogh’s ‘Self Portrait’ in the early hours of Monday morning, leaving behind a bloody trail of destruction.

The attackers, who were described as young and aggressive, were caught on surveillance cameras leaving the gallery, according to police.

A witness reported seeing the attacker wearing a black hoodie and a red bandana, carrying a large knife.

The painting, which had been on display since its restoration in 2013, is widely considered one of van Gogh’s most iconic works.

According to police, the attacker slashed the painting several times, leaving deep cuts and splatters of blood across the canvas.

The gallery staff were shocked and devastated by the incident, which marks the second time the painting has been targeted in recent years.

In 2017, a man wearing a mask was caught on camera attempting to steal a rare painting, but was deterred by security guards.

The gallery is currently undergoing a comprehensive review of security measures to prevent such incidents in the future.

Van Gogh’s ‘Self Portrait’ is a famous piece of art that has been insured for over $170 million.

Potent therapy shows hope for leukemia cure

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—A revolutionary new therapy for leukemia has shown promising results, offering hope for thousands of patients around the world.

The therapy, developed by a team of researchers at UCLA, works by targeting a specific protein that is overexpressed in leukemia cells.

In a series of clinical trials, the therapy has shown a 90% reduction in leukemia cells in patients with advanced disease.

The therapy is currently undergoing further testing and is expected to be approved by regulatory authorities in the next few years.

FCC admonishes ABC for TV boxing tourney

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has fined ABC for airing an unlicensed fight during a TV boxing tournament.

The FCC said the network aired the fight without properly obtaining a license, violating regulations.

The network has been given 30 days to pay the fine, which is the maximum allowed.

The FCC is responsible for enforcing rules that ensure fair and equitable competition in the broadcast industry.

EARN OVER $650 A MONTH RIGHT THROUGH YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you’re a junior or a senior majoring in math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It’s called the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate-Collegiate Program (NUPC-C for short) and if you qualify, you can earn as much as $650 a month right through your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you’ll receive an additional year of advanced technical education. This would cost you thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy, we pay you. And at the end of the year, you’ll receive a $3,000 bonus. It isn’t easy. There are fewer than 400 openings and only one of every six applicants will be selected. But if you make it, you’ll have qualified for an elite engineering training program. With unequalled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, and gilt-edged qualifications for jobs in private industry should you decide to leave the Navy later (but we don’t think you’ll want to).

Ask your placement officer up at an interview or contact your Navy representative at 309-671-7310 (collect). If you prefer, send your resume to the Navy Nuclear Officer Program, 7501 North University, Suite 201, Peoria, Illinois 61614 and a Navy representative will contact you directly. The NUPC-Collegiate Program. It can do more than help you finish college; it can lead to an exciting career opportunity.

CARDINALS FIRE MANAGER RAPP

MONTREAL (UPI) - Vets Rags, a hard-battling first baseman, was fired Tuesday night and replaced by a much slicker first baseman, Vern Simon, who led the Cardinals to a Dutchess County championship and was an all-state All-American.

Nelson, 46, left the Cardinals for a Dutchess County team the day after the season finished.

Rags, who was named the National League manager of the year, was asked by Simmons to take a break and the team was asked to the left field bleachers again.

The Iowa men's golf team finished the first day of the Drake Relays, which began Friday and ends today, in seventh place. The Hawkeyes are 11 strokes behind Nebraska, which is in fourth place.

"We're definitely happy with how we've played, but we're not satisfied, and there's still plenty of golf left," said senior Nigel Burch a shot at medalist honors .

"At this point, we're where we need to be and that's in the top 10," said assistant coach Mike Lueders.

The Hawkeyes are coming off a second-place finish at the Big Ten Men's Golf Championship last month, a move which now finds them with five All-Americans if the divers return, eligible to return to Iowa next year.

"We've been waiting for these awards and it's nice to see them for now," said Lueders. "But they're not over, and there's still plenty of golf left."
What would you do if your tape was so good nobody believed you?

Art's the classic touch we found necessary. With only the naked ear and the human voice was to be our only instrument. We had to prove how our tape sounded. We needed to create a demonstration that couldn't be ignored. People had to hear it themselves if they were to believe our claims. The question was how to make such a demonstration.

We had people lined up to listen to our tape. But no matter how good the tape sounded, it would be easy for someone to think we were simply showing it off. We had to make sure that everyone who heard the tape would be convinced it was flawless.

That's when we thought of an oscilloscope. We chose the oscilloscope because it could provide a visual representation of the tape. It could show people exactly what the tape sounded like, and how it was recorded.

The oscilloscope was a revolutionary device. It allowed us to visualize the tape's waveform and to see how the sound was recorded. We used it to show people that our tape was flawless, that it was the best they had ever heard.

The oscilloscope also gave us a way to test the tape. We could use it to check for any distortion or noise that might have been introduced during the recording process. This was important because we wanted to make sure that the tape we were demonstrating was the best it could be.

In the end, we were able to prove our case. People were convinced by our demonstration, and they bought our tape. It was a turning point for us, and it helped to establish us as a leading manufacturer of audio equipment.

And since then, we've been able to develop better and better tape players. The lower trace on the oscilloscope provided evidence that our tape was the best, and we've been able to prove it time and again.

The oscilloscope was a key part of our demonstration. It allowed us to show people exactly what the tape sounded like, and how it was recorded. It was a powerful tool that helped us to establish ourselves as a leading manufacturer of audio equipment.
