Exotic dancer displays scorn when crowd raises ugly head

By BYE GERBER

It's not so nice, Iowa City. Word is out, says the美元 elder "It's not so nice."

The wailing, the grunting, the sweat and the... stuff. It's all too much for the悼念 who've been exposed to it for too many years.

The dancers, they're... they're... they're... (It's hard to describe).

But it's not just the dancers who've been affected. The audience has also been subjected to "all sorts of ugly language," they say, "all sorts of ugly language." The audience has also been subjected to "all sorts of ugly language," they say, "all sorts of ugly language." But the dancers have also been affected. The dancers have also been affected. They're... they're... they're... (It's hard to describe).

Disaster

WELLOW ISLAND, WASH. (AP) — A massive tank explosion that left two people dead and 29 others injured has sparked a wildfire that is sending plant debris flying and threatening nearby homes, authorities said.

The explosion occurred in a 75-gallon tank containing butane, a chemical used to extract THC from marijuana, according to the Whitman County sheriff's office.

The butane tank had been removed from a nearby building and was being moved to a storage area when it exploded, said phone bank supervisor Pat McCarren.

"We're doing our best to contain it," McCarren said. "But we're not sure how long it will take."
Bell 'undermined' subordinates effort

WASHINGTON (UPI) - White House press secretary Jim Brady this morning said President Carter's effort to undermine the efforts of his own White House staff is "undermining" the efforts of the press corps.

"This doesn't mean there's anything wrong, but it is affecting the ability of the press corps to do its job," Brady said.

However, he added: "The press corps is not going to be intimidated by the White House. We're going to continue to do our job."
Illegal aliens on rise in Iowa

By CATHLEEN CODY

The federal Immigration and Naturalization Service office in Omaha reported that illegal aliens from rural areas in Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota have come to the fore in the Immigration and Naturalization Service offices in Coralville, Des Moines and Cedar Rapids.

According to the Omaha office, the number of illegal aliens applying for work permits has risen sharply in recent months. In December, for example, the number of applications was double what it was in November.

The largest number of illegal aliens is from rural areas in Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota. In the last three months of 1977, according to immigration official Dennis Holm, 58 were apprehended in Corvalle County, 64 in northeast Iowa and 71 in the spring of 1978; 58 were apprehended in the first three months of 1977.

Beware!

I pile on a blanket.

Limited press facilities have not been a barrier to other arguments that aimed to accommodate the overflow requests.

Keep getting promotional stories.

Any argument that renders the city's proposed Housing Code meaningless is one that will certainly lose the public's support.

The Iowa State Register argued that the existing city code is "safe and healthy." It must serve to state that landlords have been removed from the rental market.

It is not surprising, therefore, that they have denounced the advertisements as "beware..."

Pseudo-conversations obstruct vital communication

Readers: tornado misinformation, ISA vs. SAVAK

Twisters

By Ed

After reading your April 23 article, "Tornadoes mean to open space," I became concerned about the inconsistencies and the emotional content it included. The whole idea of a "Tornado" story is to pump up the audience's interest to keep them tuning in. In this story, you are not giving a balanced view of the situation.

Why don't you consider the importance of the facts you present? Perhaps pseudo-conversations occur between people who know each other quite well. A genuine dialogue can have more meaning than pseudo-conversations because they are based on mutual respect and understanding.

I think you are right in saying that tornadoes are a natural phenomenon. However, a genuine dialogue can be more educational than pseudo-conversations.

I also think that you are right in saying that tornadoes are a natural phenomenon. However, a genuine dialogue can be more educational than pseudo-conversations.

Corvalal punts to bureaucracy in billboard battle

By Dennis Curtis

The city of Graceland may not have to worry about a lawsuit after all in its attempt to keep a billboard owner from removing a billboards from the side of the road.

One of the largest billboard companies in the state, Cedar Rapids-based Centermark, has decided to drop the lawsuit against the city.

City Manager Michael May has said the city has made multiple attempts to resolve the issue with Centermark, including a meeting between city officials and representatives from the company.

The city says it is not appealing a decision by the state Department of Transportation that allowed the billboards to be removed.

The company had threatened to sue the city over the decision, but has now decided to drop the lawsuit.

Mayor May has said the city is pleased with the outcome and will continue to work with Centermark to come up with a solution.

The city has also reached out to other billboard companies to discuss the issue.

'Birds Singing': seeing everyday beauty

By PAUL YOUNG

Very seldom have I had the pleasure of reading a piece like this. It was written from the heart and it conveyed the wonder and beauty of the world around us. This is particularly true in the present era.

I can’t believe the writer found the words to express it all so elegantly. The writing was beautiful and the imagery vivid. It was a joy to read and I applaud the author for sharing such a wonderful perspective on our world.

The first sentence, "Two is a product Theatre," captured my attention. It was as if the writer had been able to open a portal to a secret world of beauty. The rest of the passage flowed like a gentle stream, each sentence building upon the last, until the final words, "sehen everyday beauty." It was a beautiful encapsulation of the writer’s perspective.

I am grateful to the author for sharing such a wonderful gift with us. It is a reminder of the beauty that surrounds us if we are only open enough to see it.
Buckeyes lead Big Ten tennis championships

Ohio State continued to dominate the Big Ten Conference in women's tennis as they won their second straight conference tournament following the first day of competition at the Soldier Field. The Buckeyes were carried by the dominant singles play of Erika Meister, who stood out as the top seed in singles.

The Buckeyes have now put three-straight Big Ten titles on the shelf and have three players in the top four of the tournament.

In the first day of play, Meister and doubles partners Willie Mims and Michelle Clancy won their games. Meister defeated Indiana's Kristin Bieck in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4.

Mary Murphy, who lost three matches in the Big Ten, defeated No. 2 seed Jennifer πs by 6-4, 6-3.

The Big Ten women's tennis tournament is a two-day affair that started Friday with singles play and will be completed with doubles.

Ohio State leads the competition with 20 points, while Indiana is in second place with 18 and Michigan is third with 17.

Ohio State's Debbie Millett, who defeated Iowa's Lamanda McCullough in the Friday semifinals, finished off the singles competition.

In doubles play, Ohio State's chips finished off the second-seeded team from Michigan, 8-1.

The Buckeyes will play the winner of the Michigan-Iowa doubles match before moving onto the championship match.

In the doubles draw, Ohio State's Meister and Mims reached the semifinals, while the third-seeded team of L. B. hashes and Velinova made it to the finals.

The doubles final is set for 1 p.m. Saturday.
