Guerrillas attack U.N. in Lebanon

By Robert Hite, UPI

Lebanon's government will order the evacuation of the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL) from southern Lebanon, Prime Minister Saad Karam said Wednesday.

"We are determined to evacuate UNIFIL," Karam told reporters.

The announcement comes a day after the United Nations Security Council voted to establish a new U.N. peacekeeping mission in Lebanon to succeed UNIFIL.

Karam said the government would begin the evacuation process immediately.

UNIFIL, a force of nearly 7,000 soldiers from 28 countries, has been in Lebanon since 1978 and has been monitoring the border between Lebanon and Israel.

The decision to evacuate UNIFIL is likely to be challenged by Israel, which views the force as an obstacle to its military operations in southern Lebanon.

Karam said the government would work with the United Nations to ensure a smooth transition of the peacekeeping mission.

The announcement comes as Lebanon continues to be mired in political crisis, with the country's political leaders failing to agree on a new government.

The latest round of negotiations between the political leaders broke down last month, resulting in a political vacuum in the country.

The evacuation of UNIFIL is likely to be a contentious issue, with some Lebanese factions arguing that the force is necessary for maintaining stability in the country.

Karam said the government would pursue a policy of dialogue with the international community to ensure that the transition of UNIFIL is peaceful and orderly.

The announcement comes amid growing concerns about the security situation in Lebanon, with the country facing a number of challenges, including a political crisis, economic difficulties, and security threats from various groups.

The evacuation of UNIFIL is likely to be a significant development in the country's political landscape, with the government under pressure to find a way to end the political deadlock and address the country's pressing issues.

Somatic loses mall contract

The Iowa City Council approved a $181.3 million mall contract Monday night, much to the surprise of a local real estate firm that has previously been chosen for similar work.

Mayor Robert Voss voted against the development because he said the council has not approved the contract that would be necessary to ensure the prudent management of city funds.

The council approved the contract, which would allow the city to begin negotiations with the developer, but Voss said he would not sign the contract without the council's approval.

"I don't want to be part of the history of a city that is not able to make wise decisions," Voss said. "I want to be able to look back and say that I did the right thing for my constituents."
Solar energy plays big role in America

WASHINGTON (UPI) - America's already large solar energy industry is expected to increase by the end of the year, according to an industry source.

"We estimate that there will be a 20% increase in the number of solar energy projects this year," said John Smith, president of the Solar Energy Industries Association. "This is the result of an increase in capital investment, which has quadrupled since 1980." The industry has set a goal of reaching $1 billion in annual sales by 2010.

Solar panels have also been gaining favor among homeowners, with a 30% increase in installations expected this year. According to Smith, "Solar energy prices have dropped significantly, making them more affordable for homeowners." The cost of a typical 1-kW solar panel was around $7,000 in 2000, but is expected to drop to $5,000 by 2010.

The government has also been supportive of solar energy, with a 20% increase in solar energy research funding this year. The Department of Energy has announced plans to spend $1 billion on solar energy research over the next 10 years.

Smith said, "We believe that solar energy has a bright future in America. It's clean, it's renewable, and it's reliable. It's the energy of the future, and we're working hard to make it the energy of today."

Dignity

To The Editor:

After having read of the rep of the St. Paul community center, I have felt compelled to write a few words. As many of you may have noticed (and perhaps believe is unjustified), this community center is certainly a success story. I have been told that, although the center has been in operation for only two years, it has already made a significant impact on the community. The center provides a variety of services to the residents, including day care, counseling, and educational programs. I believe that the center is doing a great job of serving the community and contributing to its overall well-being.

The smoke flies

To The Editor:

All of this smoking on campus has created an unpleasant environment. Many students have complained about the smoke and its effects on their health. The university should consider implementing a smoke-free policy to ensure a healthier and more pleasant campus environment.

Musician

To The Editor:

The popular music scene is dominated by Moby Dick. However, there are many talented musicians who are not given enough credit. One of my favorites is Bernadette Breen, a musician who has been making waves in the industry. Her music is unique and captivating, and her performances are always a highlight of any concert.

Sincerely,

Readers: Alternatives for gavs, up from harp, 'foully' reporting

In summary, the editor is concerned about the lack of academic purpose and distributive justice in higher education. He suggests that the university should consider implementing a smoke-free policy to ensure a healthier and more pleasant campus environment. The article also highlights the importance of recognizing and supporting talented musicians who are not given enough credit. The editor encourages readers to support and listen to alternative musicians who are making waves in the industry.
Priceless Dresden art arrives for U.S. tour

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The first art works ever loaned by East Germany - a solid gold hunting box, a porcelain swan, a painted watch, a statue of a nude woman, a coral, two pearls and a diamond ring - were displayed at the National Museum here Tuesday for a previewing tour of the exhibit. The exhibit, which was loaned by the East German government, is being displayed for one month in the museum. The exhibit is to be displayed in the U.S. for the first time and is the first of a series of cultural exchanges between the U.S. and East Germany. The exhibit is expected to attract thousands of visitors and is expected to be a major attraction in the U.S. The exhibit is expected to last from April 15 to May 15. The exhibit is expected to be displayed in other cities in the U.S. after its display in Washington. The exhibit is expected to draw thousands of visitors. Indiana primary "ignored" by national parties

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) -- Indiana's congressional, gubernatorial and Senate campaigns, which by any measure were not quite as competitive as the nation-wide contests, were given the "ignore" treatment by both national parties and the media.

Indiana's primary produced the Democratic and Republican nominees for the state's six congressional districts, the U.S. Senate and the governorship.

The two of them were Rep. Eldon "Butch" Berry, a Democrat, and Sen. George Aiken, a Republican, who are the only incumbents in the state's congressional delegation.

The two parties have no real chance of winning the state's governorship in November, but both have a good chance of winning the Senate and House seats.

The fact that Indiana is a "safe" state for both parties means that the primary results were not given much attention.

Iowa State outlasts Iowa, 11-10

The Iowa State women's softball team couldn't hold on to a 10-run lead and had to settle for a one-run victory over the Hawkeyes Saturday afternoon at the Kirkwood Complex in Cedar Falls.

Leading 10-0 after three innings, the Cyclones (20-17, 2-7 Big Eight) were hit by four consecutive singles and a three-run home run in the bottom of the fourth by Iowa (17-15, 3-6 Big Eight) to end the Cyclone scoring threat.

"We were really disappointed," said Iowa State coach Mike Gertzen. "I'm really pleased with our hitting. We had a lot of base hits and left a lot of base runners on base." The Cyclones left 11 runners on the bases to the 10 the Hawkeyes left on base.

"On the other hand," Gertzen said, "we did a good job of holding our own in the field. I'm proud of our relievers, including starter and closer Andy Sams, who were able to get out of some jams and keep the game close for us." Sams worked the final three innings and allowed just one run on one hit and three walks. He struck out five.

The Cyclones' win tied them for the Big Eight lead with the University of Iowa.

"I'm really happy with our team," said Gertzen. "We've been working hard in the fall and now it's starting to pay off." The Cyclones have won six of their last seven games and are just two games behind the leaders, the Hawkeyes and the University of Minnesota.

"We're really excited about this team," Gertzen said. "We have a lot of young players who are starting to step up and contribute. I'm especially pleased with our pitching.

"I'm really proud of our pitching," Gertzen said. "Our starters have been great and our relievers have been consistent. I'm really happy with our defense and our hitting."
Denver faces Bucks in finale

Nuggets rely on Thompson for payoff

By United Press International

David Thompson is Denver's last, best hope as the Nuggets head onto their last week in the playoffs, heading to Milwaukee for Game 7 tonight. Thompson, a steady, reliable guard, is the team's leading scorer, averaging 20 points a game.

But to pull the Nuggets out of the hole they are in after losing the last three games, Thompson, 29, will have to play a nearly flawless game.

"We have to win tonight," Nuggets coach Larry Brown said of his team's pivotal Game 7 of the Western Conference semifinals with Milwaukee. "And if we win, we have to play better in Game 8 than we did in Game 6." Brown, who has played only 14 minutes in Games 5 and 6 because of injuries, added: "We need David Thompson to play his best game ever against Milwaukee. The Nuggets have a real chance of advancing to the Western Conference finals if David Thompson can play at his peak." Thompson scored 22 points in the Nuggets' Game 6 loss, the 11th time he had scored 20 or more in a playoff game this season. He is averaging 20.6 points per game in the playoffs.

"He's been a leader for us," Brown said. "If we're going to win, we're going to need him to play his best game ever."

He has 990 yards rushing and 1613 yards total yardage, making him the third best offensive line in the North American Football League. He will be drafted by the Cleveland Browns in the first round.

Pro teams choose 13 Big Ten players

While as players from Iowa's four major teams were selected in the first round of the NFL draft Wednesday at Rockefeller Center, 13 players from the Big Ten went through the formalities of the selection process.

Conference co-captain Tom Brown of Ohio State and teammate John Brown of Iowa State were selected on Tuesday, while seven other Big Ten players were picked on Wednesday.

Browner and then Miller as we know them.
We want to bring him to their drafting committee. "I just hope I can be the first drafted by the Raiders," said Miller.
"Don't know how that one's going to drive them," said Miller.
"We're going to see how that one's
