Rally displays support for clinic

In Des Moines

The Des Moines Register

July 10, 1978

In a rally Thursday in support of a health clinic near the University of Iowa Hospital, several hundred demonstrators expressed concern over the clinic’s proposed move to a new location.

Sentiment was strong among the crowd, with many saying they feared the clinic would be forced to move because of a new building project.

One woman, who declined to give her name, said she had been fighting to save the clinic for several years.

"We're fighting for something we believe in," she said. "We want the clinic to stay where it is, and we're not going to give up without a fight."
Judge finds pro-female hiring illegal

RICHMOND, Va. — A federal judge on Monday ruled against Virginia Commonwealth University.

A former visiting professor claims that his hiring last fall was illegal because he was not chosen from a list of qualified black men.

The university said at trial that the professor did not satisfy their hiring criteria.

The judge ruled that the university's hiring practices were illegal.

The university will have 30 days to appeal.

Manson speaks

VACAVILLE, Calif. — Charles Manson, the leader of the so-called Manson Family, denied on Monday that he was involved in the Tate-LaBianca murders.

Manson said he had nothing to do with the killings and that the crimes were committed by his followers.

Manson said he was not aware of the murders and that he did not participate in them.

Manson denied having any kind of hypnotic or mind-control abilities.

"All Charlie's girls belonged to themselves," he said.

Hatcher Hanter

The suit claimed that the University of Iowa had violated its own policies.

Hatcher Hanter, the plaintiff, is a professor of political science and a former member of the campus security forces.

Hatcher Hanter said that he was not given the opportunity to participate in the investigation.

Hatcher Hanter is seeking $2,000 in damages.

Hayen retrial postponed till September

The daily for Jay Michael Hayen retrial as he awaits with attempt to reschedule rape charge originally scheduled for Sept. 11 by Johnson County District Court Judge Daniel Swailes. The case was put on hold after Hayen pleaded guilty to a charge in December at 317. Last week, not convicted that Hayen had been positively identified by the alleged rape victim. Judge William Swailes ordered a retrial, alleging that he granted a motion filed by assistant county attorney William Yetter for the second charge, originally scheduled for December of 2010. Hayen was found guilty in the first trial. Yetter requested that the retrial be rescheduled since arguments for the prosecution, including the complainant, witness, and the alleged victim's family, were held this week. Hayen's conviction conviction stems from an alleged assault on Oct. 21, 2010. Hayen, 20, pulled her into an alley in the 300 block of Chestnut Street. He was sentenced to five years in prison for raping her, and she answered.

Conservative reverse

Conservatives are basking in the glory of the results of the California and Republican primaries, which they will carry into the fall in the shape of smashing victories over the Democrats. There is no doubt that the unified party platform and the idea of a "unified party" will be a strong factor in their favor. The victory of the Republicans in California is a clear indication of the strength of the conservative movement.

The victory of the Republicans in California is a clear indication of the strength of the conservative movement. The conservative platform, which includes strong economic policies and a hard line on foreign policy, is well received by the voters. The conservative movement is also gaining strength on the national level, with conservative candidates winning primaries in other states as well.

Consumer banking on credit unions

The wrangle over the propriety of share draft accounts offered by credit unions has continued for several months now. The issue is whether or not credit unions should be allowed to offer share draft accounts. Credit unions argue that share draft accounts are a valuable service that provides a convenient and cost-effective way for members to access their funds. However, banks argue that share draft accounts are a form of checking account and should be regulated as such, which would make it more difficult for credit unions to offer the service.

The debate over share draft accounts has been ongoing for some time. Credit unions have long offered share draft accounts as a way for members to access their funds quickly and easily. Banks, on the other hand, argue that share draft accounts are essentially checking accounts and should be regulated as such.

The current issue is whether or not credit unions should be allowed to offer share draft accounts. The issue has been brought to the forefront by the recent rulings of the Iowa Supreme Court and the Iowa Court of Appeals, which have ruled that share draft accounts are essentially checking accounts and should be regulated as such.

Resource politics

Representatives of seven conservative groups converged on Des Moines yesterday to participate in a People for Realism meeting. The groups urged the legislature to pass a bill that would make it more difficult for credit unions to offer share draft accounts. The groups argued that credit unions are more efficient at offering checking accounts than banks.

Caution is sweet

In a redefining and inescapable sense, the word "caution" means to be a leader of the group of human beings to the extent that they are able to have a positive impact on their environment. This is a significant responsibility, and it is important that we all exercise caution in our daily lives.

However, both CDC officials and public health experts recommend practicing caution, especially in the midst of a pandemic. They advise people to follow established guidelines, such as wearing masks, maintaining social distancing, and getting the COVID-19 vaccine. It is important to remember that caution is not just a matter of individual responsibility, but also a collective effort. By taking these measures, we can all do our part to protect ourselves and our communities.

Readers: Science, drinking age

To the Editor:

I urge to sit down and have a drink, to be sure of the good architecture and the good spirit, and then to sit down and have another one. This is the proper course. world grows out of much of our abilities to control, and to hold for any generation, what things will work. The choice is simple: We have three ways over the tool that can increase our control of the world, or do we expand it out of control? It will not solve all problems, but it is a crucial part of human ability.

Right to drink

To the Editor:

For years, I’ve been drinking alcohol, and I’ve never had a problem with it. I enjoy the taste, and I find it to be a good stress reliever. I don’t think it’s a problem for me, and I don’t think it’s a problem for anyone else.

It would be much too much of a legal problem to discuss the proper course of drinking for all, and for all under the law. With too much under the law, and under the law, we cannot have any kind of intervention of the law’s doing.
Scenery high point of low-grade 'Rituals'

By Irv Krieger

I was sitting on a brick ledge watching Orson Welles directing his film 'The Lady from Shanghai,' playing the stockbroker who is duped into investing in a nonexistent firm of jet planes by the Shanghai opium bandit, George Grisby. Both Welles and Mrs. Bannister never worked together before. The scenery high point of the film is a gag about a car being a store. The scenery over the city is much simpler than that of the Plaza Hotel, where the film is set. But the beauty of the film's scenery makes up for the lack of the film's story.
