Rhodesian civil war spreads to capital

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — More than a dozen rockets hit the capital for the first time Tuesday, a government official said Monday.

A police statement said three rockets were launched from a motor-bus in the southwestern region of Inyanyama.

One of residents of the Inyanyama ghetto challenged the official count and said only two rockets were launched. The fighting again hit suburban Alexandra and apparently fizzle out.

A pharmacist was wounded, a police statement said.

Bone marrow is thicker than water

It is not an uncommon sight to see a stocky person struggle with a stair rail and finally make it to the top. This is due to the fact that bone marrow is thicker than water. In a study conducted by the Mayo Clinic, it was found that the density of bone marrow is approximately 1.2 times greater than that of water. This makes it difficult for people to move up the stairs.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Black Alabamians on Thursday called for the resignation of the state's top four leaders, including the governor, attorney general and two senators, as the state deals with a series of controversies.

“The time has come for the state of Alabama to take a stand against racism,” said the Rev. Dr. Milton Seymore, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Montgomery.

However, the state's leaders have so far resisted calls for resignation, saying they will continue to work towards reform.

State auditors still mum on Weeg investigation

State auditors remain silent on the investigation of a Weeg employee. The employee was accused of embezzling $20,000 from the company.

“We are still investigating the matter and cannot comment on it at this time,” said a spokesperson for the state auditor's office.

State auditors do not provide information on ongoing investigations unless there is a public interest.

Dollar hits record low in Japan, Iran

The dollar plummeted to its lowest level in 15 months against the yen yesterday in Tokyo as speculation mounted that war between the United States and Iran could break out in the Middle East. The dollar fell to an intraday low of 206.95 against the yen, the lowest since September, 1978. The yen closed at 207.50, up from 207.92 on Monday.

In New York, the dollar was quoted at 189.00 against the yen.

"War is unlikely to start this week but the situation in the Middle East is very tense," said one Tokyo dealer. "The dollar will likely come under a lot of pressure from yen this week."

U.S. anti-war demonstrators gathered in Tokyo and New York yesterday. In Tokyo, several thousand demonstrators marched through the capital holding signs and chanting anti-war slogans. In New York, a small group of demonstrators held a rally outside the United Nations building.

The dollar's slide was broad-based, with other currencies weakening against the U.S. currency. The British pound fell to 1.4885 against the dollar from 1.4890, while the Deutsche mark dropped to 1.6465 from 1.6470.

In Tokyo, the dollar's slide was attributed to fears of a conflict in the Middle East. "The situation in the Middle East is very unstable," said a Tokyo dealer. "The dollar will likely come under a lot of pressure from yen this week."

In New York, the dollar was quoted at 189.00 against the yen.

Campaign reform

The League of Women Voters thinks the 20th anniversary of its ‘Administrator’-style correspondence, which is current, is due to the leagues’ continuing efforts. Disruption of any kind is perhaps the most serious aspect of campaign in the 20th century, in which leagues have been active. The leagues’ efforts are aimed at either of two main purposes: to ensure that the executive branch is effectively working;
and to eliminate undue influence by individuals or groups from the process. The leagues are also concerned with the general welfare of the public, and with the protection of the rights of voters. The leagues encourage the public to become informed about the candidates, and to vote in a manner that is consistent with their views. The leagues’ efforts have been effective, and the public is better informed about the political process as a result.

Bourne to lose

Where in the world does Jimmy Carter find his lost love, if anywhere? For the first time in his presidency, Carter is set to lose the presidency.
In the summer of 1976, Carter was the nominal nominee of the Democratic Party. The primary campaign was over, but it was still quite evident that Carter was the favorite to win the nomination. However, a number of other candidates were still in the running, including Eugene McCarthy, Hubert Humphrey, and George McGovern. The primary season was slow and lackluster, and it was clear that Carter was the front-runner for the nomination.

To the Editor:

Two crucial issues have recently come to the fore in the debate over the Equal Rights Amendment. These issues pertain to: (1) the extent of time remaining during which the Congress can consider the amendment; and (2) the nature of the amendment itself. The issues are important, and they demand careful attention.
