Briefly

Legion disease

There are several theories on the source of the germ that causes Legion disease, which was first identified last year in New York City. However, scientists are not certain on the source of the microorganism that causes the disease, making it likely that the bacteria have co-existed in the soil for some time.

AIDS

Recently, scientists have discovered that the virus that causes AIDS is transmitted from person to person through sexual contact, blood transfusions, and contaminated needles. In the 1980s, experts predicted that the virus would eventually be eradicated, but recent studies show that the virus is still spreading rapidly.

Weather

We were so cool off and had temperatures in the 60s last night, but tonight we expect a strong cold front to move in from the north, bringing temperatures back down to the 40s.

Graveside identifications

A shooting and stabbing spree took place in the early morning hours, leaving a trail of wounded and dead victims. The identities of those killed have not yet been released.

Sparks fly at Clark-Jepsen debate

Several heated exchanges took place during the debate between Senator Clark and Representative Jepsen. They both made strong points, but also engaged in personal attacks.

Agent claims testimony muted

Several government officials have claimed that their testimony was muted during cross-examination by defense attorneys. The government is appealing the decision.

Did CIA order execution of American in Chile?

There is no evidence to support the claim that the CIA ordered the execution of an American in Chile. However, there are still questions about the CIA's role in various events.

College Bowl

The UI will compete again this year in the nationwide College Bowl. The games will begin on March 1st and continue through April 1st.

The competition is divided into two categories: the regular season and the post-season playoffs. The teams will compete in various regions across the country, with the winners advancing to the championship games.

The regular season consists of eight games, with the top four teams advancing to the playoffs. The playoffs will feature a single-elimination tournament, with the winner declared the national champion.

The College Bowl provides a unique opportunity for students to test their knowledge of college sports and compete with their peers across the nation.
Respect is key issue for candidate

Iowa State Senator Richard Turner has "nationally gained" ground in the Democratic campaign, according to a political pollster, and is leading in the polls. Turner’s main challenger, Friday, also said Turner is leading.

HOLOCOAUS IN A WORLD OF SILENCE

Dear known as "the kind of people," President watches television and reads the newspapers, and on his television shows, the President watches the cartoons of the day. The President watches the cartoons of the day, and on his television shows, the President watches the cartoons of the day. The President watches the cartoons of the day.

Yet despite these documented instances of passive resistance, it would be a mistake to believe that President has made no attempt to resist American involvement in Korea. On the contrary, President has taken active steps to try to stop the flow of American troops and supplies into Korea.

On June 27, President issued a statement in which he warned that the United Nations would use all necessary means to protect itself against further aggression by China. He also stated that the United Nations would do everything in its power to prevent a recurrence of the situation in Korea.

In addition, President has been attempting to negotiate a settlement of the Korean War. On July 27, he announced that he had reached an agreement with China to begin negotiations for a ceasefire and the withdrawal of American forces from Korea.

While these actions may not result in an immediate end to the war, they do represent a significant step forward. Hopefully, they will lead to a further reduction in the scale and scope of American involvement in Korea.

On June 10, I paid a visit to the Defense Department, where I was given a tour of the various facilities. The tour was led by Mr. John O'Neill, the Director of Public Relations.

Mr. O'Neill began the tour by taking me to the main entrance of the department. He explained that this is where all visitors must go before being allowed to enter the building. He also pointed out several security features, such as the locked doors and surveillance cameras.

Next, we went to the main lobby, where Mr. O'Neill showed me the various displays of military hardware, including tank destroyers and missile systems. He explained that these are used to protect the United States and its allies from attack.

We then proceeded to the various museums, where we saw many different types of military equipment, including aircraft and ships. Mr. O'Neill explained that these museums are open to the public and are a good way to learn about the history of the military.

After we had finished our tour, Mr. O'Neill took me to his office, where he gave me a brief overview of the department's role in national security. He explained that the Defense Department is responsible for maintaining the military strength of the United States, and that this is essential for ensuring the safety and security of the country.

Mr. O'Neill also emphasized the importance of public support for the military, and he encouraged all Americans to do their part in supporting the troops.

All in all, it was an extremely informative tour, and I am very grateful to Mr. O'Neill for taking the time to show me around.

Sincerely,

Barbara A. Kane

OPENING THE APOLCALYPSE

I have just read a fascinating new book on the topic of the Apocalypse. The book is called "The Apocalypse: A Guide to the End of the World" and it is written by Dr. John T. Baker.

Dr. Baker's book is a comprehensive guide to the various visions of the apocalypse that have appeared throughout history. He begins by discussing the ancient Hebrew and Christian traditions, and then moves on to the more recent interpretations, such as the visions of Nostradamus and the modern-day predictive models.

Dr. Baker's book is well written and easy to read, and it is filled with interesting insights and thought-provoking ideas. I highly recommend it to anyone who is interested in the topic of the apocalypse.

Sincerely,

David E. Smith

EXTENDING DEMOCRACY TO ECONOMIES

From the political to the economic, where the shadowy dollar robbers reign. Because, in a country as complex and divided as ours, it is impossible to make a decision that will satisfy every interest group.

But we cannot spend too long in the lurch of uncertainty. We must begin now to build a new and better world, on the foundation of freedom, justice, and equality.

Public hearing to discuss right-of-way sale Tuesday

By JUDI DODGE Staff Writer

Sale of portions of the right of way of the Capital Street in Bloomington, Ind., to the Illinois Central Railroad was considered Tuesday by the Bloomington City Council.

"The city signed a contract in February with the railroad to lease the right of way. They want to start work on the railroad tracks this month," said Paul Glenn, Bloomington's assistant city manager. "If the railroad keeps to their schedule, we won't have to take legal steps to have that taken care of.

"The hearing will allow the railroad to get building permits from the City Planning and Zoning Commission," said Glenn. "The purpose of the hearing is for the public to hear their side of the story. The railroad's position will be presented by a local attorney.

"We haven't had any formal objections so far, and I've heard that the railroad is not going to file any opposition," said Glenn.

"This is an opportunity for the public to express their feelings about the right-of-way sale," said Glenn. "I'm not sure if there will be any speakers, but we're open to any ideas.

"The hearing is open to the public, and we encourage anyone with an interest to attend," said Glenn. "We'll have a vote on the matter at the end of the hearing."
Michigan's defense in need of answers

In press conference after the victory over Southern Cal on Oct. 15, 1960, Michigan's defensive coordinator, Schembechler, said, "I feel this may be my best defense ever." He later added: "In the nine years I've been at Michigan, this is the best I've had." And as an extra bonus ... Michigan won its first Big Ten championship and its first national championship. It was a great season for Michigan football, and Schembechler was a big part of it. He was a head coach at Michigan from 1967 to 1971, and he led the Wolverines to two national championships. In 1969, he took the team to pass-receiving, Michigan running a light and with quarterback Dan Gercek on the sideline. The following year, Michigan running in the Big Ten title game against Northwestern. But in 1971, when the Wolverines were 11-0, Schembechler retired. He was succeeded by his quarterback, John Elway. Elway later became the head coach at Stanford University. He led the Stanford Cardinal to the Rose Bowl in 1987. Schembechler was a great football coach, and he is remembered as one of the greatest in college football history. His teams won 193 games and lost 81. He was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1997. Schembechler passed away on Oct. 15, 2013. He was 87.
Field hockey loses in opener

BY STEVE KEMPER Sports Editor

The debut of the 1989 Iowa field hockey team was recently completed when the team found itself in a 3-0 loss to Western Illinois at the University of Iowa. The Hawkeyes, who have never won a Big Ten title, were thrown for a loop as they stumbled out of the gate with a 3-0 loss in the opener.

Outside of the final scores, the Hawkeyes seemed to be right where they needed to be. The team's defense may have been off, but the offense proved that it is capable of scoring. The Hawkeyes scored three goals in the first half, making it a 3-0 game. In the second half, the Hawkeyes were able to control the game and limit the damage.

Connors defeats injured Borg

Borg had trouble holding on to his racket and, at one point, in the opening set, he served the first game of the match. His racket flew out of his right hand. Borg double-faulted three times and made only 26% of his first serves over Connors, who served 74% of his first serves to Connors. Borg was down 40-love at one point and was taken to the limit by Connors, who was up 2-1 in the second set.

Borg has a history of problems at the Open. In 1979, Borg suffered a pulled right groin and received treatment from the quarterfinals until his final match, won by Connors in the finals. Last year, Borg pulled a groin muscle and was unable to play against Dick Stockton in the quarterfinals. This year, Borg was unable to play against Connors in the finals.

Borg's return to action was interrupted yesterday when he notified the Tournament Committee that he was ill. Borg's illness was not revealed until today, when it was announced that he was suffering from a virus.

Connors attacked and won the first set, 7-6, and Borg remained in the struggle through the remainder of the match, but Borg was unable to keep up with Connors' speed and power. Connors won the second set, 6-2, and Borg could not break Connors' serve in the third set.

'Lady Luck' shines on Raiders' rally

The Oakland Raiders needed a miracle Sunday afternoon. When they pulled out a potential 17-20 victory over the Denver Broncos.

The Chargers had a chance to win the game in overtime, but the Raiders made the big play on the final play of regulation. Floyd Moreno played for the Raiders.

The win moved the team to a record of 10-4 and assured them a playoff berth for the second straight year. The Raiders will now face the New England Patriots in the AFC championship game.

Borg's return to action was interrupted yesterday when he notified the Tournament Committee that he was ill. Borg's illness was not revealed until today, when it was announced that he was suffering from a virus.
