Karpov talks to Korchnoi!

First time in 18 games...

20th draw in marathon

BAKU, Azerbaijan (UPI) — Champion Anatoly Karpov and challenger Viktor Korchnoi played a slow, long-drawn-out, boring game of chess Wednesday that was a surprise to no one, as the two drew for the 20th match in a career-long chess marathon that began in 1960.

Karpov, a 24-year-old Georgian, followed a strategy of keeping the game as close to a draw as possible, a strategy that has served him well for years. "I didn't want to lose this game," he said. "I wanted to keep the game as close to a draw as possible." Korchnoi, a 56-year-old Russian, said he was pleased with his play and was looking forward to the next game. "I'm happy with my play," he said. "I'm looking forward to the next game." The game lasted for more than three hours.

Allen loses late husband's seat

REHOBOTH, Ark. (AP) — Sen. Markey Allen, died Tuesday in her bed at home in Little Rock, her attorney said. Allen was 78.

The three races were considered key to election in the closely contested state that was a Democratic majority since 1947.

The race was between Sen. James Eastland, a former Democratic senator who was running for re-election, and Sen. James Eastland, a former Republican who was running for his first term.

The race was considered a toss-up, with both candidates having a chance to win.

Campaign hurdle: drunken carousing

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Congresswoman Carol DeProsse, a Democrat who represents south Florida's 7th District, was sentenced to 100 days in jail for her role in a traffic accident that killed a pedestrian.

DeProsse and her husband, Rep. James Eastland, were driving their car when they hit a woman who was crossing the street.

The woman died at the scene of the accident.

DeProsse and her husband were charged with vehicular homicide.

DeProsse was given 100 days in jail, while her husband was given 50 days in jail.

DeProsse was also fined $5,000 and her husband was fined $2,500.

City wants to negotiate 518-Melrose interchange

BART, a Phoenix manufacturer, has been offered a new interchange for Interstate 10 near the city's heart.

The interchange would be located at the corner of Glendale Road and 7th Avenue.

The city council is scheduled to vote on the proposal at its next meeting.

The proposal would include a new interchange, a new ramp and a new access road.

The Cedar Rapids Community School Board on Monday approved a resolution that called for the removal of “unfitting” materials from the library. In its statement, the board said it would work with its administrators to select books that would promote “positive behavior” and “negative attitudes.”

The resolution was introduced by Superintendent Karen Huyck and was approved unanimously by the board. It was supported by all five board members, who said they believed the selection process would improve the quality of literature available to students.

The resolution calls for the removal of any books that are considered offensive, inappropriate, or harmful to students. It also calls for the creation of a committee to make recommendations on what books should be removed.

The board has already begun removing books from the library, including “The Catcher in the Rye” by J.D. Salinger, “The Bell Jar” by Sylvia Plath, and “To Kill a Mockingbird” by Harper Lee.

“The Cedar Rapids Community School Board has a responsibility to ensure that the materials in its library are appropriate for our students,” said Board President John Smith. “We need to make sure that our students are not exposed to harmful or inappropriate materials.”

The resolution is part of a larger effort by the school district to promote positive behavior and reduce juvenile delinquency. The district has also implemented a new program that provides extra help to students who are struggling in school.

“I am pleased that the board has taken this important step,” said Mayor Susan Thompson. “We need to make sure that our students have access to appropriate materials and that they are not exposed to harmful or inappropriate materials.”

The resolution was introduced in response to concerns raised by parents and community members. Several parents have expressed concern about the content of some books in the library and have urged the board to take action.

The board has been working with the administration to develop a process for selecting books that are appropriate for students. The process will include input from teachers, parents, and students.

“I believe that this resolution is a good first step,” said Board Member Jane Doe. “We need to work together to ensure that our students have access to appropriate materials.”

The resolution was approved by a vote of 5-0. The board has set a date for a public hearing to discuss the implementation of the resolution.

Waiting for capital formation

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the past six months, the stock market has been on a rollercoaster ride, with financial markets in turmoil since March 2022, and the Dow Jones Industrial Average down 18% over that period. Market analysts say that much of the turmoil is due to higher interest rates and concerns about inflation.

The Federal Reserve has been raising interest rates since March 2022 in an effort to curb inflation. However, some economists argue that the high-interest-rate environment is hurting businesses and could slow economic growth.

"It's been a tough year for investors," said John Smith, chief economist at Smith & Associates. "We've seen a lot of volatility in the market, and it's been tough to time the market right now. But we expect conditions to improve in the coming months."
Ward of state, 97, honored for helping children

COLDWATER, Mich. (UPI) — A woman institutionalized in a town because of wayward behavior as a child, who was there for 40 years, has been declared fit to live outside the institution after her parents fought to have her institutionalized.

Louise Keeler, 97, was declared fit to leave the Coldwater Regional Center for the Mentally Retarded on Tuesday, after her parents fought to have her institutionalized.

"She was declared fit to live outside the institution," said William Keeler, Louise's son. "They finally conceded that it was in her best interest to leave the institution and live outside." The decision was made after a court hearing, where Louise's parents argued that she was fit to live outside the institution.

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — The Republican candidate for attorney general, Linda L. Gordon, will face a legal challenge to her decision to run for the position.

Coomber, who campaigned for the Republican ticket, decided to run for attorney general, but her parents say she is not fit to run.

Bob Keeler, Louise's father, said he would support his daughter if she decided to run for attorney general.

"She is capable of running for office," he said. "I think she is capable of taking care of herself and running her own life." Louise was declared fit to live outside the institution after a court hearing. Her parents argued that she was fit to live outside the institution.

Paritetal update: Group suggests boycott

BY TERRY HONS
Buff Writer

A boycott of UI vending machines, dormitory stores, the Iowa Credit Union, and the Daily Iowan was proposed by the Senate Housing Committee.

A bill introduced by the group, to be presented to the body on Thursday, requests that approximately $500 be set aside to begin the fund. The Senate Housing Committee, which has long been asked to provide student government leaders with an advisory policy of questionable educational and social benefit, has to date been set to negate the boycott, committee members said Thursday. They say that the fund would not provide the amount of support they will have for a boycott. Chairman Paul McAndrew said he believes the bill will be tabled at this week's meeting for consideration at a later date. But he said he hopes it will be taken before the end of the semester.

Continuing rail strike cripples industries

By United Press International

Striking railroad workers handed their nation's rail system a series of blows Thursday as they forced federal court orders setting three-fourths of the union's demands.

In addition to stopping both communication and freight shipments in most of the nation, with some railroad and auto industries began planning for shutdowns. Automakers warned that continued railroad closure would lead to a strike and planned further talks Monday. The railroad system's operations and local workers at some facilities were not involved.

General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. have been forced to close parts of their assembly lines. On Friday, GM said it would close its Detroit Assembly Plant Monday.

Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks set up picketing lines in major cities to try to stop trains from operating in both San Francisco and Chicago, which connects Chicago and San Francisco. In Philadelphia, however, the only carrier reporting plans to chime in with the strike was Conrail.

The railroads called the strike involving 42,000 men a "national strike" and no one could be expected to return to work. However, a spokesman said that workers would not be prevented from working at rail yards or terminals which trains affected by the strike.

"If you have the right qualifications, you will be asked to do your job," the spokesman said. "It's up to the workers whether they want to do their job or not."
Job needs of handicapped explored

by CATHLEEN CODY

"Awareness and motivation" were the key messages during the two days of workshops and seminar at the career-planning conference for the handicapped, which ended Tuesday at the

Entitled: "Section 504: Regulations, Planning and Placement" and "Placement and Schools," the sections focused on job-related services of handicapped and disabled individuals.

"504" refers to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Section 504--law passed in 1973 to protect the handicapped in federally funded job situations.

The conference began Monday with introductory addresses by Donald J. Speikal, director of the School section of the Employment and Training Administration, and William D. Calhoun, HEW's assistant secretary for public information, who opened the conference.

The conference was sponsored by the National Association of the Handicapped and the National Center for Human Services Development.

During the two days of seminars, leaders in the field of human services discussed the needs of handicapped people in the job market.

In one seminar, panel members agreed that the handicapped need a wide array of skills to be successful in the job market.

One panel member, a rehabilitation counselor, emphasized the importance of education and on-the-job training to enable handicapped people to compete on an equal basis with other workers.

Another panel member, a psychologist, stressed the need for employers to understand the handicapped and their abilities.

A third panel member, a vocational rehabilitation counselor, emphasized the importance of counseling handicapped people to help them cope with job-related stress.

The seminar concluded with a discussion of the future of handicapped employment and the role of the employer in the job market.

Black leader stalks out of meeting with Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One member of the Congressional Black Caucus walked out on Richard Nixon as he addressed the group at the White House on full employment yesterday.

By the time the president finished his prepared remarks, the member had walked out in protest.

The incident, the first since the House took up the issue of full employment in May, occurs when the government is trying to boost the economy with increased spending on social programs.

Some members of the House expressed concern that the government is not doing enough to promote job creation.

Nixon's speech was cut short by the member who walked out, according to sources close to the event.

The member was not identified by name or affiliation, and it is unclear why he chose to leave the meeting.

Nixon said the country is on track to meet its full employment goal by the end of the year, and he praised efforts by state and local governments to increase employment.

However, the member who walked out took issue with the president's remarks and left the meeting in protest.

The incident highlights the ongoing debate over the government's role in promoting job creation and full employment.

Some members of Congress have called for increased spending on social programs to boost the economy.

Others argue that the government should focus on creating a business-friendly environment to stimulate private sector job creation.

The incident also comes at a time when the country is facing a growing unemployment crisis.

The unemployment rate has remained stubbornly high, and many members of Congress are calling for more aggressive job creation efforts.

There's no looking back for Hawkeyes

Everybody had it figured where the ball was headed last Saturday night after Kansas State quarterback Ron Geren threw his third interception of the season. But for the second time in two weeks, Iowa State's defensive coordinator Gale Sayers, like his predecessor Ralph Neely, refused to play the final game of his senior season without its original ticket.

"The better team won, the better team played, and the better team beat the other team," Sayers said. "It's that simple. We don't have any excuses. We didn't exert the pressure." But when the ball is gone, he said, "We didn't even have the chance to play." But when the ball is gone, he said, "We didn't even have the chance to play."

The Iowa State coach also denied the possibility of a second confrontation in the season. "We've played a football game and have had enough of it for one season," he said.

Phillip Rutigliano remarked, "We're not that kind of team. We're not going to try to back off. We're going to keep on pulling ourselves back up and get back in the game."

The Cyclones rode off the win in style, also. Rutigliano who was at home, watched the game on TV. "I could see the game all the way," he said. "I could see the game all the way."

Wheeler named track coach

By EILEEN DAVIS
Staff Writer

Ted Wheeler, assistant coach for the track and field team since last Tuesday, was named to the position of head coach Tuesday by the Iowa Board of Control.

Wheeler, who was previously assistant head coach at Northeastern State University in Tahlequah, Okla., has been working with the team and coaching the distance events.

The hiring of a coach had been debated for several months, and was finally the head coach, Wheeler, is charged with the responsibility of developing a top-notch women's track program.

Coach GeForce Greaton, who had served as an associate for the women's program, is leaving the university to accept a coaching position in the magazine business.

Coach Greaton, who has been an assistant, was camping in the women's track and field program for three years.

The new women's track and field coach is a former track coach at the University of Missouri, where he also won the national championship for the 800-meter run.

The new head coach will be looking forward to coaching the women's team in the upcoming season.

Some of his accomplishments include:

- Coached the women's team to a national championship in 1984.
- Guided the women's team to a top-10 finish in the NCAA championships in 1985.
- Helped the women's team set national records in the 4x100 and 4x400 relay events.

The women's track and field team is currently ranked 15th in the nation.

Spinks will file suit against Arum for allegations

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—Promoter Bob Arum has decided to file a $1 million suit against the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the University of Notre Dame. He said the suit was brought to protect the rights of college athletes and to prevent the N.C.A.A. from interfering with his business.

Arum said he had been forced to make the decision after the University of Notre Dame refused to allow him to hold a press conference at the school to promote his upcoming fight with the legendary boxer Muhammad Ali.

The suit, which was filed in federal court in New York, alleges that the N.C.A.A. has violated the First Amendment rights of college athletes by attempting to prevent them from speaking about their experiences on the university campuses.

Arum said he was particularly disturbed by the N.C.A.A.'s attempt to ban him from holding the press conference at the University of Notre Dame, which he had planned as a way to promote his fight with Ali.

"The N.C.A.A. is trying to silence the voice of the athlete," Arum said. "I am filing this suit to protect the rights of college students to speak about their experiences on the university campuses."

The suit seeks at least $1 million in compensatory damages and an injunction against the N.C.A.A. from interfering with Arum's ability to promote his fight with Ali.

Arum has previously threatened to file a similar suit against the N.C.A.A. over its attempt to ban him from holding a press conference at another university.

New faces surface on Hawkeye offense

The Iowa football team will have a new look on the offensive line this season. The starting five will be a combination of young players and veterans who have been fighting for a spot.

Coach Bob Devlin said the offensive line is in "their stance," and that it will take a little bit better," said Devlin. "We're hoping to see some chemistry develop between the linemen and the quarterbacks, and that draws linemen to get their heads on every play.

``There is a problem where there is an small number of punts traveling only yards to set up the Cyclones' game, noting punter Dave David."
