Man rescued from ruins after 82-hour "burial"

EDMNTON, Alta. - Thirty-two policemen were blasted to death by a late-night explosion which collapsed an office building here Tuesday, leaving a đồng of rubble and many of the workers trapped inside.

The explosion is believed to have been caused by a natural gas leak. It occurred after an estimated 200 pounds of dynamite were used to destroy the building.

Two other buildings also collapsed in the area, but no serious injuries were reported.

The blast occurred near the downtown area of Edmonton, which is a major commercial and financial center.

Council okays anti-tax ad probe

By BERT ROBERTSON

The City Council Tuesday adopted the city's anti-tax ad plan, which was approved by the city's advertising committee.

The plan, which is expected to cost $500,000, is designed to counteract efforts by business leaders to increase taxes.

The council voted 5-0 to approve the plan, with Councilman John Smith absent.

Councilman M. D. Morgan, who chairs the advertising committee, said the plan is necessary because the city needs to keep its control of advertising.

The council also approved a contract with the advertising agency to handle the ad campaign.

Councilman Edward Martin said the city should consider reclaiming the tax dollars spent on the ad campaign.

Iranian troops fire on demonstrators

Tehran (UPI) - Iranian troops opened fire on students and workers demonstrating in Tehran to protest against the death of a student killed in last week's clashes.

At least 15 students were wounded and one died in the clashes, which erupted after the university students demonstrated against the government's policy of not granting them a day off to observe the Islamic New Year.

The government said it had imposed a curfew and issued a warning to students to stop the demonstration.

CETA fraudattack

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Labor Department has launched an investigation into the possible fraud by CETA (Canadian Employment and Training) program managers.

The investigation was prompted by a series of reports alleging that CETA managers had been using federal funds to pay for personal expenses.

The department said it had found evidence that managers had been paying themselves and their families with federal funds.

The department said that while it had not yet determined the extent of the fraud, it was prepared to take action to recover the funds.

ATLANTA (UPI) - Mc

lawn's, the nation's largest hamburger chain, has said, "we've been working to improve our standards of cleanliness and safety, and we're confident that we've made progress." The company has also implemented a new "worm detection" policy, which allows employees to report cases of suspected worm contamination. In addition, McDonald's has partnered with a local nonprofit organization to provide free weekly check-ups for children who frequently consume the chain's food. The group has also launched a "worm awareness" campaign to educate both consumers and employees about the risks associated with eating contaminated food.

Worm rumor hits McDonald's

McDonald's said representatives from the state's Employment Practices Office (EPO) were called to the store to investigate reports of worms being found in the restaurant. "We take this matter very seriously, and we're working with the EPO to get to the bottom of this as quickly as possible," said a company spokesperson.

The EPO confirmed it received a complaint from a customer who claimed to have found a worm in his meal. "We're conducting a full investigation to determine the source of the contamination," said an EPO official.

A local health department has also been notified of the report and is conducting its own investigation. "We're taking this very seriously," said a department spokesperson. "We'll do whatever it takes to ensure the safety of our customers and the integrity of our food."
Those who live by insanity will die by insanity

A feature on affairs wasn’t bad, "but it allowed the engineers, who were unimpressed by their work, to do a thorough job of rebuilding the town. According to the civil defense officials, they were able to implement the civil defense program in the town of 10,000 by the following year, without any further need for the program’s existence."

The project was not surprising, especially since the town was already in a state of economic depression. The town had been hit hard by the Great Depression, and the civil defense program provided a temporary boost to the local economy. However, the civil defense program was not sustainable in the long term, and it was eventually discontinued.

In conclusion, the civil defense program was a useful temporary measure that helped to stabilize the economy of the town during the Great Depression. However, it was not a viable long-term solution, and it was eventually discontinued when the economic conditions improved.

Letters

Dear Editor,

Consider what this means, then. Seven and a half years after ending Germany’s war into its own contract in late 1945, the world is discussing how to demilitarize it. Now even in a year of the nuclear bomb hysteria of the ‘50s and ‘60s, it is a marvel that any of us can still believe in the survival of the surplus, a food defense to survive a nuclear attack. How can we have so many people die for being insanity and to prove that this is another disaster? How can those of us that the threat to our survival is nonexistent prove that this is another disaster? How can we have so many people die for trying to prove that this is another disaster? How can we have so many people die for trying to prove that this is another disaster? How can we have so many people die for trying to prove that this is another disaster?

Abstract

The victims of nuclear war are not those of the future, but of the past and present. The nuclear war has already taken place, and the victims are those who have been affected by it. The nuclear war has affected millions of people, and the effects are still felt today.

Conclusion

The nuclear war has had a profound impact on the world, and the victims of nuclear war are not those of the future, but of the past and present. The nuclear war has already taken place, and the victims are those who have been affected by it. The nuclear war has affected millions of people, and the effects are still felt today.

Sitting out a week with a knee injury (by the Board), unable to express my views on the situation, I feel I must issue the following statement, which got the Hawks playing like they had a raged schedule.

The Hawks didn't think it necessary to put their team on the court for a few minutes, instead opting to kick some bums around in the first four years. But this year they have developed a winning attitude.

The year of deviation continued with the Hawks, but by then, they had already been overpowered by the Gaels, who took the title from the Hawks in the last game of the season. In the last game of the season, the Gaels looked like they were really going to lose, but with a few minutes to go, they pulled back and won.

From our point of view, the Hawks were a good team, but inevitably had to decide whether to play a different way next year. With the Hawks, we are not out of the running for anything, but the Gaels have been a bit better this year.

Injury-weakened women cagers open year

A COSTLY loss for Iowa was the return of last year's stars, Birdsong and Parner. "They haven't had a good year," said one. "That's what the heater will be for years." The heater is a combination of heat and skill, but the Hawks will have to make do with what they have.

The Hawks have had three injuries this year, the worst one being a broken leg. The Hawks will have to make the best of what they have, and make do with the best of what they have. The Hawks will have to make the best of what they have.

In the team's first game of the season, the Hawks played like they were really going to lose, but with a few minutes to go, they pulled back and won.

The Hawks have been working and studying the concepts of their opponents, and are working on their defense to beat Simpson. A team of intrasquad players, the Hawks' 1977-78 firsttime players, won.

The Hawks' defense is working well, and Birdsong is depending on his shooting both from the field and the free throw line. Birdsong is working on his defense to beat Simpson. We've have seen us face some good players, and have won.

When the Hawks were a team, we've seen them face some good players, and have won.

We're not in the best of health, but our victory. We're not in the best of health, but our victory.

The Hawks are working on their defense to beat Simpson.

INTRODUCTION TO SUDOKU

Sudoku is a puzzle game that originated in Japan and has become popular in many countries around the world.

The objective of Sudoku is to fill a 9x9 grid with numbers so that each column, each row, and each 3x3 sub-grid contains all of the digits from 1 to 9.

Here are the basic rules of Sudoku:

1. Each number from 1 to 9 must appear exactly once in each row.

2. Each number from 1 to 9 must appear exactly once in each column.

3. Each number from 1 to 9 must appear exactly once in each 3x3 sub-grid.

To solve a Sudoku puzzle, you need to use logic and reasoning to determine which number belongs in each empty cell.

There are many strategies and techniques used to solve Sudoku puzzles, and you can practice these skills to improve your ability to solve them.

Happy Sudoku solving!
