Israel cabinet divides

A M A R I N A

Israel's cabinet today divided over a secret deal that President S. Zalman Chaim Herzog had made with Egypt.

The split emerged at a cabinet meeting called by the prime minister, Golda Meir, to discuss the results of the secret talks.

The cabinet ministers, who met in a closed session, were divided over the pros and cons of the Herzog-Egypt agreement.

Some ministers, including Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett, favored continuing the negotiations with Egypt, while others, led by Defense Minister David Ben-Gurion, opposed the talks.

The meeting was called after the cabinet received a report from Sharett on the talks, which began in late May.

The report said that Sharett had met with Egypt's foreign minister, Anwar Sadat, and had discussed the possibility of a peace agreement between the two countries.

Sharett said that the Egyptian government was willing to discuss a peace treaty, but that Egypt wanted guarantees of security and territorial integrity.

Ben-Gurion, who is the leader of the right-wing Mapai party, said that Israel should not enter into any negotiations with Egypt until the terms of the Palestinian autonomy agreement were decided.

The cabinet meeting was called to discuss the next steps in the negotiations, and the cabinet was not expected to make a decision until next week.

The secret talks were initiated by Herzog, who had been seeking a way to end the six-year war with Egypt.

Herzog, who is a moderate, had been trying to find a way to bring about a cease-fire and a withdrawal of Egyptian forces from the Sinai Peninsula.

The talks were said to have been facilitated by the United States, which has been trying to mediate between Israel and Egypt.

The cabinet meeting was also expected to discuss other issues, including the situation in the occupied territories and the economy.

The meeting ended without a decision, and the cabinet is expected to hold another meeting next week to discuss the talks.

Acts of God (and others)

For the average citizen, an ap description of the impact of acts of God and others can be difficult to grasp. Here are some key elements to consider:

- Economic impacts: Acts of God can cause significant financial losses,
including property damage, lost
income, and increased insurance claims.
- Health impacts: Natural disasters
such as hurricanes and floods can disrupt healthcare services and lead to increased illness and death.
- Social impacts: Disasters can affect social structures and community cohesion, leading to increased stress and isolation.
- Environmental impacts: Acts of God can alter ecosystems and affect habitat and biodiversity.

It is important to understand
the potential impacts of acts of God
and others to prepare effectively
and mitigate the effects.

Cold War revival

Did you ever get the feeling there were two Cold wars? That the most notorious and deadly event when reconsidering agents of change was the discovery that Cuba has not only evolved past its original socialist communist government but has taken on a more market-oriented system? According to the New York Times, the first Cold War was the period between 1947 and 1991, which marked the ideological and military cold war between the United States and the Soviet Union. The second Cold War begins in 1991 when the Soviet Union collapsed and Cuba sought to become a economic and political model.

The Caddy of show bands gets high mileage from popular hits

By John Guinta

The Cadillac of show bands, the Cook County, is one of the last of Chicago blues, and in its two-hour Field House concert offered the sound of raw, rough vocals and tightly arranged tunes that have driven the group to its current peak of popularity.

A string of four favorite, roughly, brought the crowd to its feet: "If You Leave Me Now," "The One," "Liar," and "Can't Let Her Get Away." The crowd chanted with Chicago as they announced the songs. Chicago's reputation was enhanced by the excitement of the night.

Lester leads Hawk win over Soviets

Kevin Boyle and Ronnie Lester didn't look at all frightened by the Russians."

The Soviet's big man, Vladimir Royle, who gave Iowa a touch of the States. Iowa's coach Lute Olson, had been picked to finish fourth in the Big Ten race and that there is quality experience to be found from top to bottom. Lester added, after the 12-point win. "That's one of our strong points," said Brooks.

The Hawks hit 41.3 per cent from the field and 64.3 per cent from the charity stripe. Tkachenko hit four of five free throws and the Soviets made their move with 7:50 remaining and connected from there, giving the visitors running. "It looked to be a tight effort, 14 of 15 baskets, 18 of 20 free throws and 13 of 20 field goals," added Mike Mayfield, but the coach said if we just run and play the game properly we certainly could win, what we did."

The Hawks laid the opening shot with a basket by Mayfield, but the Soviets responded with the point of their own and Iowa still led, 3-0, before the Hawks took their first lead of the first half. From that point it was drawn Iowa led on the floor until 6:46.00, before the Hawks rolled to a 26-10 halftime lead over the visitors running.

The Soviets made their move from the charity stripe. The first three minutes of the second half, and the Hawks were not retreating. The Soviets made their move with the first four points of the second half, and the Hawks got only one of 10 shots to fall. Lester was a key factor in this game. The Hawks took their first lead of the second half, 38-34, with 3:50 remaining. Lester scored six of Iowa's first seven points of the second half, giving the Hawks a 56-55 lead after 10 minutes of play.

"That's what we set out to do," said Brooks, speaking of the game plan. "Everything was well thought out, and the players were very good at making the players work."

The Hawks owned a 27-2 lead in the second half, and the visitors running. "It's a tough battle," added Brooks. "It's a tough battle, but we're feeling good about it."

The Hawks coasted from there, giving the visitor a tie at 64-51 with 6:18 left in the first half.
